NOT A PERFECT FIT.

William Andrie Put a Small Ring on a Big Finger.

BUFFALO, Jan. 20.—Nine-year-old Wm. Andrie, of No. 45 Whipple street, called at the Fitch Hospital yesterday afternoon with a most peculiar and distressing injury. Three weeks ago he slipped a small steel ring upon the little finger of his left hand. He let it remain there and in a few days the finger began to swell. It was soon impossible to remove the ring. The swelling and irritation continued, and on Monday the lad went to a jeweler, who tried to cut the ring. He failed, besides bending the metal, which greatly aggravated the pain. When he went to the hospital the finger was terribly swollen and inflamed from tip to where the ring encircled it. Willie took chloroform and the surgeons cut the ring away. They hope to save the finger.

▲ TROPICAL CHURCH.

It is Built of the Work of Ten Patient Polyas.

The church built of coral is one of the curiosities of the Isle of Mahe, one of the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean. The Seychelles Islands, which are supposed by many to be the site of the Eden of the Old Testament, form an archipelago of 114 islands, and are situated about 1,400 miles east of Aden and 1,000 miles from Zanzibar. They rise steeply out of the sea, culminating in the Isle of Mahe, which is about 3,000 feet above the level of the ocean, and is nearly the center of the group. All these islands are of coral growth. The houses are built of a species of massive coral, hewn into square blocks, which gleam like white marble and show themselves to the utmost advantage in the various tints of green of the thick tropical palms, whose immense fern-like leaves give pleasant and much needed shade. These palms grow as high as 100 feet and more, overtopping both the houses and the coral-built church. They line the sea shore, and cover the mountains, forming in many places extensive forests.

NEW IN CANADA.

A Staged-Drive Held Up in Western Ontario—He Escapes Without Loss or Injury.

DRONKE, Ont. Jan. 21.—Stage drivers in this country are seldom held up as they are in some of the wild territories of the United States. But George Sackett, who drives the mail stage between Hamilton and Holland, was held up not long ago by a most obstinate and painful kidnaping, which threatened to end his days summarily. He acknowledged that all remedies failed to help him until he used Dodd's Kidney Pills, which thoroughly cured him. Now he drives daily on his way in the best of health.

Jinks—I understand you were pretty well off before you married. Blinks—Yes, but I didn't know it. Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Electrolytic Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject.

Amy—A man you can respect is far better than a man you can love. Alice—Yes, and far rarer. Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

The amount owing depositors is said to be about $30,000, and Messrs. Tanner & Co., it is estimated, possess the assets, as far as possible, by the notes in their possession. WHILE he stayed at the Antichoff Palace, before taking up his residence in the Winter Palace, the young Russian Czar was lodged as modestly as a bachelor on a limited income. He had only two small rooms there, and was obliged to sleep in a cot in a small room, and to give up two of his own rooms to be used as a dressing-room for the Empress and the other for her maid. In the Winter Palace the Empress will have a larger part of the palace occupied by the Czar's grandmother.

MM. GIRAULT, Henard and Paulin received the three first prizes of $1,200 each for plans for the Paris Exposition of 1900. All three preserve the Eiffel Tower and the Machinery Building of the 1889 exhibition. M. Henard proposes a palace of illusions with mirrors reflecting the sky and a continuous rising platform along both banks of the Seine. M. Paulin builds a floating Indo-Chinese and Japanese tower on the river. Among the suggestions in the other plans are a tower of the Pantheon, the Cours la Reine be turned into a sort of Midway Plaisance, that a marine basin be built in the Trocadero Garden, and that another Crystal Palace be built.

A CONCRETE bridge having a clear span of 164 feet and 28 feet wide was recently constructed over the Panube at Munderkingen, in Austria. Stone, scarce and dear there, while good Portland cement is produced in large quantities. The centering was covered with laid, consisting of one part cement, 2 1/2 parts sand and five broken stone, all thoroughly mixed. Blocks of this concrete have shown a resistance of 137 tons per square foot in seven days, 235 tons in 28 days and 208 tons in six months. The concrete was applied in layers twelve inches thick, starting at the abutments and working toward the crown. It is 14 feet thick; midway to the crown it is 12 feet thick. The item spent laying the concrete was only nineteen days, and ten days after the centers were struck. The deflection proved less than 4 1/2 inches.

THE BURDEN OF DEBT.

The debt of Great Britain was once the largest national debt in the world, so enormous that every other debt seemed small in comparison. Yet, today the gross debt of Canada is actually larger per head of population than that of the United Kingdom, the figures being $61 per head for Canada and $59 for the United Kingdom. The net debt of Canada is more than $49 per head of the population. The charges upon the British revenues due to the interest on the public debt was last year $11,973,211, or $2 92 per head of the population, while the charges incident to the debt of Canada, including the sinking fund, were last year $12,510,400, or $2 52 per head of population. A few more years of Tory rule would place this country more hopelessly in debt than Great Britain was at the close of the Napoleonic wars in 1815.—St. John Telegraph.

First law partner—Have you read old Deerpeller's will? Second law partner—Yes; but I can't seem to make anything out of it. F. L. P.—Better throw it up then, hadn't we?

MAN NOT FROM MARS.

Mr. W. O. Judge, F. T. S., Thinks Mankind Came From the Moon.

THE various views on the subject of Mars are important if true; in any event they are interesting. But I was sorry to see a recent writer denying the possibility of the earth becoming cooled and forming on the outside a crust, on the ground that the learned professors might not be able to make a pot of molten steel cool off in just the same way. We have many examples in nature, and in physiology, showing how fluid masses, in the case of the earth, of a mass of molten matter, can accumulate to themselves an outer crust and move as balls or spheroids in the general mass to which they were before homogeneous. This happens in the digestive tract, as when small masses of serum or mucous become covered with a tough skin, under which the inside is perfectly fluid. It similarly takes place in those cases of crystallization in which the hard stone holds in its centre a quantity of uncrystallized fluid and come only partly changed. And if to this we add the facts well known about volcanoes and the melted material they throw out, as well as the observations of vast subterranean fires seen in the bowels of partly active volcanoes, there is sufficient ground for believing that the earth was once a mass of fluid in space.

We have to believe in one of three theories, it seems to me. That the earth and all planets were created especially and as they are by some deity, or that it is all a matter of chance, or, lastly, that evolution, which is in one sense a process of condensation, brought into visible existence planets, comets and suns. The last is the theosophical theory.

In respect to such remote globes as Mars we have no means of knowing much by observation, and those Theosophists who believe in the Adepts depend in that matter upon what the latter have said so far as it can be understood in view of what we know here. These Adepts have stated that Mars is now inhabited, but is in a period of obscurity so far as human life and energies are concerned. These obscurities occur at regular periods separated by enormous stretches of time, and they apply to the earth as well as to Mars. While the obscurity holds the planet rolls in the sky, but man is not there. He has gone on to another body invisible to us where he continues the evolution of those parts of his complex nature which relate especially to that other globe. So there may well be atmosphere on Mars and polar ice with equatorial heat, without any sentient population. The presence of atmosphere does not prove the presence of a population; the absence of atmosphere only proves the absence of air breathing beings. There might be a population of beings, such as an apparently airless body, the moon; they would be breathers of electricity only and not visible to us.

Mystery of the Moon.

The explanation of the genesis of the earth is a revelation of what was called in the East a mystery of the moon. The earth is held by the Adepts to be the child of the moon and not its parent. This theory is no more wild nor fanciful than the modern one, that the earth, while young, threw out into space masses of matter, which is now our moon. There is the difficulty about the latter that if it be the child, why did not the moon develop into a smaller earth with similar beings. It does not resemble a child of the earth, but it looks very like what the Adepts say it is—the dead body formerly used by the energies now at work on our globe.
