Toronto, Nov. 7 .- By consent an inhe appeal of the Ancient Order of Inited Workmen from the decision of Mr. Justice Riddell restraining the order from changing its rates to its old members, pending the trial of the issue. When the case was reached in the divisional court this morning, it was placed at the foot of the list of cases to be heard at the November sittings. In the notice of appeal some eight grounds are set out. Among these grounds, it is argued, that Mr. Justice Riddell was wrong in holding that the amendment of rates was part of the constitution. It is also set out that the proposed amendment affects only the internal affairs of the order, and that the proper forum to try the matter is Grand Lodge. It is pointed out that this forum not having been exhausted the courts have no jurisdic-
