

was really 'invaluable, and ought to be reproduced in print for the benefit of Masonic students throughout the world. (Applause.) The lecturer referred to the assembly of the Craft in the city of York and the lodge at the Minster. He next spoke upon Operative and Speculative lodges in Scotland in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and afterwards of the rise and ascendancy of Speculative lodges in South Britain. Having spoken upon the relationship of the 'Three Degrees, and the fact that the "Mason's word" was a term met with in the ancient records, he quoted a number of most interesting minutes of the Mason's Company in London, the initiation in Newcastle in 1641, during the time the Scottish army were in Newcastle, and had some time on their hands, when they initiated General Moray as a Speculative Mason. The date of their oldest document was of the fourteenth century, which was a manuscript in the British Museum. There were several lodges in Scotland and elsewhere which were not connected with any Grand Lodge. This was the case with the ancient lodge at Alnwick. In time these lodges joined Grand Lodges in Scotland and in London, and there were fraternal visits between those of the lodges who had joined the Grand Lodges, and they were received just as those who had been in the lodges which were previously connected with the Grand Lodge. Bro. Hughan also referred to the initiation of Mrs. Aldworth, the lady Freemason, in the eighteenth century, of which they had authoritative records. The lodges at York, Scarborough, and Bradford were mentioned, and equally interesting references were made to the Irish lodges of last century, and to the noble and beneficent purposes of Freemasonry.—The Freemason.
