

it is a question still in the future, and we shall be guided by circumstances in each individual case. May every blessing attend your organization." Miss Ohild writes:—"The dresses fit Catharine, and the colors suit her well. I am sure if the ladies had seen her delighted face when I shewed her all her treasures, they would have felt partly repaid for the money and time spent on her. Thank you all so much for the pretty quilt sent to myself; it is so pleasant to be remembered sometimes. Both fields and gardens look most promising, and we hope to have splendid crops, but at present we are all struggling with the weeds. It makes such a difference to us when we can raise all we need in vegetables and feed for the stock. Most of the boys have small gardens of their own, and they look well cared for. We all like out-door work the best. Catharine's prayer book was very acceptable, and she is so pleased with her new pen that she carries it in her pocket all the time. Please tell all the ladies how grateful we are for their kindness to our biggest girl, it relieves me of much worry, as Catharine takes so much material for her things." Catharine herself writes (evidently with her new pen, in a very creditable hand.—Dear Ladies "I am writing to thank you for all the nice things you sent me. I like them very much, and will take care of them. My dresses are very nice. My new pen writes very well. We have a playground with a big fence round it, and the Archdeacon gave us a tent to play in; we are very glad. From Catharine."
