Niagara Falls.

BY JOHN IMRIE, TORONTO, CANADA.

Oft, Niagara! as at thy brink I stand,
 My soul is filled with wonder and delight,
 To trace in thee that wonder-working Hand,
 Whose hollow holds the seas in balance light!

Worthy art thou to be a nation's pride,—
 A patriot's boast—a world's unceasing wonder,
 Like some bold monarch calling to thy side Subjects from every clime in tones of thunder!

Deep on my soul thy grandeur is impress'd,
 Thy awful majesty—thy mighty power—
 Thy ceaseless tumult and thy great unrest,
 Like nations warring in dread conflict's hour!

Rainbows of glory sparkle round thy shrine,
 Creating thy waters with effulgence bright;
 And in thy foaming currents intertwine
 Rare conceptions of coming light!

Like roar of battle, or like thunder's call,
 Thy deep-toned echoes roll with solemn sound;
 Like pillar'd clouds thy vapours rise, and fall
 Like sparkling pearls upon the thirsty ground!

Rush on! rush on! in thy unchecked career,
 With avalanche power thy course to;
 While rending rocks quake as with tal
 fear,
 And stand in awe to let thy torrents through!

Naught but the hand of God could stay thy course,
 Or drive thee back to Erie's peaceful keep,
 Then onward press with thy gigantic force,
 Till in Ontario's bosom lull'd to sleep!

Emblem of Freedom! who would dare essay
 To bar thy noisy progress to the sea!
 Then onward press! while bordering nations pray
 For strength and wisdom to be great and free!
