BOOK NOTICES, REVIEWS, &c.

The American Church Review for July is a valuable number, containing original articles of great merit. The Greek Church by the Princess Dora d'Istria of Italy, which is continued from the April number, is a valuable and learned contribution. Many of the writers are names of note, and the subjects treated are interesting and important. This magazine in its new form, under the editorship of the Rev. H. M. Baum, takes high rank as a Church periodical. It is ably edited, and each number makes a good sized volume, bound in cloth, ready for the library shelves. $4.00 a year; $1.00 a volume. D. McGregor, Hollis St., Halifax, will take orders for the Review at publisher's prices. Mr. McGregor is also publisher's agent for many of the principal publications of the Church in America.

"Received: 'Lorimer and Wife,' by Margaret Lee, New York; George W. Harlan, Publisher, 19 Park Place.

This story, both as to its style and matter, ranks decidedly above ordinary novels. Although giving in some respects a painful impression of American life, the writer's sound views of what life should be, and the admirable qualities of some of her principal characters, render "Lorimer and Wife" a work calculated not only to interest but to improve the reader.

"The Skeleton in the House," from the German of Frederick Spielhagen, by M. J. Safford, New York; George W. Harlan, Publisher, 19 Park Place.

This is an admirable translation of the famous German novelist's clever and dramatic story. The happy and amusing denouement of what seem to be the complicated troubles of a newly married pair is worthy of so famous a writer, and loses little by its rendering into English.
