of Vancouver. The work of the provincial organizers was especially valuable. These men gave up their work and travelled through the Okanagan, Boundary, Kootenay and Coast Districts, getting local organizations together and imbuing them with their own enthusiasm. Perhaps the greatest success obtained in the province should be awarded to the City and District organization of Victoria, which for enthusiasm, ability and downright energy surpassed any work done by any city organization, with perhaps the single exception of Toronto. But there is glory enough for all and each one that participated should be happy in the consciousness of having done his duty.

The returns for the Province are still incomplete, due to the fact that cash undertakings were not included in the total and cannot be truly regarded as subscriptions until the initial payment has been made. But incomplete returns indicate the following totals:
