The School, while giving a general training in Library Theory and Practice, does not yet attempt to specialize in the public library field, which is being developed in Ontario. The aim of the McGill School is to develop librarians for school libraries, special libraries, college and university libraries in Canada, and in this way supplement the work done elsewhere.

I hope that you will find yourself able to advise the Corporation to renew its support of our School.

With kindest wishes for Christmas and the New Year,

I am,

Ever yours faithfully,

Principal.
