

A CHORUS OF PRAISE

Dr. de Blois' recent book, "The Pioneer School," has been accorded an enviable reception. Seldom does a work receive such hearty and unanimous approval from the reading public. In proof of this we subjoin a few testimonies to its worth, received entirely without solicitation from leading clergymen, educators, and literary men of our country.

"A vivid story."

"A very beautiful work."

"A splendid piece of work."

"A noble story well told."

"It is charmingly written."

"It is as enchanting as a work of fiction."

"The author evinces poise and capability."

"The book ought to command a much wider circulation than the immediate Shurtleff constituency."

"Now and then it is given to a man to do a work that is finished, completed, and lasting. This book is of that sort."

"The author awakens interest at the start of the story and holds it all through. The character sketches of Mr. Peek, Father Loomis, the Leveretts and Dr. Bulkley, may well abide long in any reader's heart."

"There is spice enough in the book—a villain or two as the curtain lifts—then the tribute to the annual deficit, the dismissal of the missionary, the 'hard-shell' governor, the snap-shots of the imperturbable trustees, and the bit of keen analysis puncturing the 'Band of Faith' bauble and all similar vagaries."
