

been made to establish a Department of Arts and Science, and a Law Faculty in Montreal, in connection with the French-Canadian Institute, which has applied to be affiliated with Victoria College, during the past year. A proposal also has been received from the Trustees of the Grammar School in the town of Cobourg, to connect that School with the College. These arrangements must necessarily prove advantageous by increasing the number of students, enlarging our field of operations, and adding to the annual income. Whatever others may think of these things, we regard them as encouraging indications of coming prosperity.

In conclusion, it must be patent to all who take any interest in these matters, that if we are united in our efforts to advance them, some of us may live to see the most satisfactory results from all this labour and sacrifice. Our youth will be preserved from being seduced away from the Church of their fathers, and thus an Institution that we have struggled so long and so hard to sustain, will amply reward us for all by becoming a source of strength to the cause of our common Christianity, a power in the land, and which will be found in all time to come doing its part towards advancing the future greatness and stability of this far-spreading and growing Dominion of Canada.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
