The subscriber begs to avail himself of the accommodation caused by the officious interference of certain parties attached to his name; to let his friends and the future allow either letter or newspaper to leave his hands unless the full amount of postage is paid thereon.

To men in business having extended correspondence, the present accommodation as formerly, viz.: to make quarterly express conditions that these payments will be made on the 1st day of every January, April, July, and October, in case of necessity put an end to such accommodation.

Parties wishing to avail themselves of this accommodation, please do so in writing, stating that they will abide by the conditions.

Every person must find the net amount of postage on all of their letters or newspapers.
