At the Telephone.

Did you ever listen to a woman's morning session at the telephone? It begins like this: "Hello, hello! Is that Blank, the grocer? I'd like to speak to Mr. Blank himself, please."

"Oh, hello, Mr. Blank. I want to tell you that I'm not at all pleased with the butter you're sending me. It's far too salty. Yes, really, you'll have to do better."

"Yes, I suppose it is; at this time of the year. Well, we'll let it go this time. I want to order some other things. How are eggs this morning?"

"You express a desire to yell 'Rotten!' at her—and she continues: 'Dear me! as expensive as that! Well, just send me half a dozen of the sixty-cent ones. They must be strictly fresh for Mr. Smith. He's so particular; and a dozen oranges, and a pound of icing sugar, and five pounds of oatmeal, and—let me see—just wait a minute. Mr. Blank—Mary do you need anything else?—Oh, yes, and two pounds of loaf sugar, and a bag of potatoes, and—I think that's all—Oh, no, a pound of the best coffee. That will be all thank you. Good-bye!'

Then she rings up the butcher and orders the meat. Then comes the dressmaker's turn.

"Hello! Is that Madame? Yes, this is Mrs. Smith speaking. I want you to send up for my blue gown right away.

"No, it isn't right, and I think it perfectly outrageous of you to send it home in such a condition, when you charge such a price for it."

"No, it doesn't fit well. There's a decided wrinkle in the centre of the back, and it is too big over the left hip."

"I don't like the lace at all, and that ribbon makes it look like a piece of been made by a country dressmaker."

"I shan't pay a cent for it until it has been fixed properly, so you may just send up for it."

Again the receiver comes down:

"Hello, is that North 8000? Is Mrs. Brown in?"

"Hello, is that you dear? How are you this morning?"

"Oh, I'm so sorry. Everyone seems to have it now. It is a regular epidemic. No, there's nothing to do but stay in the house, I suppose. Well, I wouldn't worry about missing their tea, they always have such a funny, mixed crowd, and nothing to eat."

"I couldn't entertain any better than that, I wouldn't entertain at all."

"Did you see Mrs. Jones on Sunday? Wasn't that a hideous dress? Foully, with all that woman's money, she dresses like a fright. Who?

"You don't say. Well, I never would have thought it. You never can tell, can you? Isn't that dreadful? I always do disagree with those pillars of churches. I'm not a bit surprised at them. No, I don't like it at all."

"Just telephoned Madame and said she could take it back. A perfect piece of tucks, a wrinkle across the back, and the most contrived-looking ribbon. Oh, robbed me, of course. They're all alike—Oh, a perfect treasure, my dear. Yes, indeed, I am."

"Oh, a country girl. We got her through an ad in The World. She's really a jewel, and so nice to the children. I'm quite happy about going out now. Well, that's all. Good-bye, dear. Do come to see me soon."

"Good-bye—where? On sale?—I'm glad to you told me. Well, Good-bye, again—Oh, did you hear about Mrs. E's little boy? Isn't it awful? The doctor says he has a brain tumor, that wretch of a husband of hers and now this to come on top of it! Well, good-bye. Why, I'd love to. Good-bye—At 2 o'clock at the front entrance. What shall I wear? Oh, yes! Well, good-bye, dear. Yes, really, sharp on time. I turned over a new leaf at the first of the year. Good-bye! Good-bye!"—and Mrs. Smith at last rings off.

HAD AN EXCELLENT YEAR.

Net Profits of Bank of Nova Scotia for 1906 Totalled $663,516.

The system inaugurated by the Bank of Nova Scotia of having an independent audit of the head office in the interest of the shareholders is worthy of all commendation. For the purpose of the audit, the eminent auditors, Messrs. D. H. Hule, C.A., Edinburgh, and J. Maxtone Graham, C.A., of Edinburgh, were retained, and their report is a tribute to the efficiency of the officers and staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia. The annual statement shows that 1906 was the most successful year in the bank's history, the net profits amounting to $663,516.59, or 23.89 per cent. of the capital. The average reserve during the year was $4,585,408.78, and the percentage of profit on capital and reserve combined 8.94. The sum of $100,000 was written off the bank premises account, and $210,000 was transferred to the reserve. The reserve was also increased $840,000 by premium on the 5000 shares of new stock issued during the year, thus making a total addition to reserve fund during 1906 of $1,050,000. The reserve now stands at $5,250,000, being 157 per cent. of the bank's capital. During the year also the paid up capital of the bank was increased by $500,000 and now stands at $8,000,000, making total resources between $10,000,000 and $10,500,000. Three quarterly dividends at the rate of 11 per cent. were paid, while for the last quarter the shareholders received at the rate of 12 per cent. an annum on their stock. The officers' pension fund was benefited to the extent of $20,000. New deposits with accrued interest now amount to over $25,000,000, while the total assets foot up to $27,461,788.89.

MORE REVENUE IN SIGHT
BY CHANGE IN N. Y. TAX LAW

Commission Favors Graduated Inheritance Tax and Increase in Revenues From Corporations.

New York, Jan. 15.—A summary of changes in state tax laws recommended by special tax commission was given out to-day.

The commission favors a graduated inheritance tax; the taxation of corporations only on their real estate and franchises, if any; and a considerable increase in the franchise and license taxes. The bills will recommend that, in lieu of the present provisions there should be a single rate, i.e., of 1-2 per cent. upon the gross earnings of all public service corporations, striking out the provision for taxing dividends.

The commission recommends an increased tax upon trust companies and banks, but that the assessed value of real estate owned and occupied by them should be deducted from the value of the capital stock.

Slight increase in savings bank taxation is recommended.

In future only one-third of the proceeds of corporation tax shall be retained by the state, two-thirds to go to the locality where the corporation is situated.

The stock exchange tax is to be continued, but the method of imposing it will be changed.

NEW UNIVERSITY FRATERNITY
Chapter of Alpha Omega Alpha Organized—Members All With Honors

This session a chapter of the Alpha Omega Alpha Honorary Medical Fraternity has been established in the University of Toronto.

The fraternity had its inception in the University of Illinois in 1902, largely thru the activity of Prof. W. W. Root and Prof. Wm. H. Hall, of the Northwestern University, while Prof. J. F. Barker of Johns Hopkins University, University of California, and friends. Chapters have since been established in the University of Chicago, Northwestern University, Western Reserve University, University of Pennsylvania, Washington University, Harvard University, University of California, and Johns Hopkins University.

Charters are granted to the best schools only, and the establishment of the Toronto chapter of the Alpha Omega Alpha, which is the first in Canada, is a significant tribute to the University of Toronto. The motto of the organization is "To be worthy to serve the suffering," which explains its aims and objects.

The fraternity is unique in that it is purely medical, is non-sectarian, and non-social in character, and those whom it admits to membership must take honor standing in their university course. Two sections comprise the fraternity, the alumni and the undergraduate.

No doll should exceed 12 or 15 inches in height, but, this is only a suggestion and is not a rule. In fact, we will not make any rules other than that each competitor must call and get the cards and register her name as an intending competitor.

All dolls must be delivered at my store before the 31st day of January, next, that gives you a whole month.

I want to make the contest fair and fairly easy, so that any little girl who is fond of dolls may exercise her own talents in her own original way.

What do I want with the dolls? It is Dolly Varden that wants them, and she is willing to pay for them.

LEATHER FAMINE COMING
STOCKS IN HAND ARE SMALL

Chairman King's Report at Annual Meeting of the Tanner's Section of Board of Trade.

The annual meeting of the tanners' section of the board of trade was held at the National Club yesterday afternoon and was preceded by a luncheon tendered by Charles King, the retiring chairman.

The chairman's report stated that the leather trade during 1906 had been steady, with increasing demands. Prices, however, have not advanced in proportion to that of hides and materials entering into the manufacture of leather. The cost of production had increased during the past year, due to the scarcity of bark and other tanning materials, and the greatly increased cost of labor. There were no large stocks on hand, and with steady demands of the country and the expansion of trade in all lines, due particularly to the great mileage of railway construction now under way, and the general development of the Northwest Territories, the prospects are that prices will not only hold firm, but may soon advance.

"I believe that as the stocks of leather held by tanners are very small, within the next few months a shortage may be felt, and as the relative value of leather is at present lower than hides, a marked advance in price of leather is not only possible, but I expect will soon be apparent," he stated. There had been a greater demand for leather for black leather for export and at prices equal to the home market.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, C. P. Behl; vice-chairman, John Welsh; secretary-treasurer, F. G. Morley; Executive, J. C. Brethaupt, S. R. Wickett, W. D. Beadmore, C. G. Marlett, B. Trains for Busy Men.

The business man prefers to travel at night, for obvious reasons, leaving Toronto after a good day's work and arriving at his destination in good time for another busy day.

That's why his favorite train for New York is the C. P. R. 5:20 p. m. with through sleepers, arriving in the big city at 7:50 a. m., and for Detroit and Chicago the C. P. R.'s 7:55 p. m. is the most convenient out of Toronto. Detroit passengers remain in their sleepers until 8 a. m. Chicago is reached at 10:22 a. m. Equally convenient is the 10 p. m. express for Ottawa and Montreal, and a number of trains, too numerous to mention here, of which full particulars will be gladly furnished by any C. P. R. ticket office.

DEAD HAND AT THROTTLE.

Engineer on N. Y. C. Train Killed by Signal Post.

New York, Jan. 15.—A Harlem local train from the Grand Central station ran from Wakefield to Mount Vernon yesterday with a dead hand at the throttle of the engine. None of the passengers knew it.

William Anderson was the engineer. As he took the train out of Wakefield he leaned far out of the cab window to get sight of the driving wheel. His head struck a signal post, fracturing his skull and killing him. The train sped on, at about 25 miles an hour. In the cab, seated on the fireman's side, was A. Wheaton, traveling engineer, on a trip of inspection. He noticed that the train did not come to a stop as it neared the Mount Vernon station, and stepped down to see what was the matter.

He saw the limp form of the dead engineer lying in the seat, the hand on the throttle, and he realized what had happened. Wheaton threw on the air brake and brought the train to a stop.

BOYCOTT SPREADS.

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—At a meeting of 200 women of St. Patrick's parish, Ottawa, after an address by Rev. Father Wheaton, it was unanimously decided to boycott French-made goods as a protest against the treatment of the Catholic Church in that country.
