Yes, You Eat Bread.

Then why not see to it that you have only the best? There are so many people that anything in the shape of bread goes with, not recognizing that there is as much difference in the quality of bread as there is in the quality of dress goods, and also as much bread as there is in the quality of flour into bread as in properly difference in the manufacture of flour into bread as in properly making and fitting your dress. You have already learned, we making and fitting your dress goods can be spoiled in the making, presume, that the best dress goods can be spoiled in the making, so with the best flour, but in calling up 3133 and having one of our wagons call, you can rely on being served with the best bread, made from the best material by first-class workmen.

Admiral Dewey Says He Feels Like Recent Issue of The Star Causes a Sensation Among its Readers. ONE DAY CHEERED, NEXT HISSED and it is all because Admiral Irrefutable Mass of Evidence Gath= ered by a Canadian Concern Operating in the United States.

(From The Toronto Star.)

Readers of the Star were startled last Saturday to see the names of prominent public men high in the service of the United States printed in connection with endorsations of a Canadian patent remedy. Not only was it surprising that men of such prominence would permit their names to be used, though this was unusual enough and it speaks volumes for the preparation that such was the case, but that United States senators and congressmen, prominent professional men and United States army officers should be willing to endorse a Canadian remedy is more surprising still. The people on the other side of the border are rather noted as being greater believers in the merits of their own goods than in those of other countries.

Last Saturday The Star published a full page of testimonials in favor of the Canadian preparation, Dodd's Kidney Pills. Each one of these letters was signed by a public man -and an eminent public man-in the United States. Each of these letters was accompanied by a portrait of the writer, reproduced from photographs supplied by themselves. Seldom has there been such an exhibition of genuine gratitude to a medicine than that given Dodd's Kidney Pills by these gentlemen. Their names are known all through the States, two of them, at least, throughout the world. Men in the eye of the public such as these men are, feel very strongly before they allow statements of opinions attached to their names to be published all over the country. They rightly feel a greater responsibility in such matters than ordinary private individuals. A public man has a reputation to sustain, and from long experience considers well before he expresses himself for publication.

There were no traces of hesitation about the letters on that United States history page in last Saturday's Star however. All was plain, honest and straightforward. The writers had been cured of kidney diseases by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and had the courage and independence to announce the 202 Wellesley Street. fact in plain outspoken terms. They were not getting any. 306 Queen Street Past thing for it; some people might make slighting remarks Esplanade Street, near Berkeley St. 13 Telephones. about their names being connected with a patent medicine testimonial. But this did not interfere with what they esteemed to be their duty to fellow-sufferers and but fair to the medicine that cured them. Careless of anything but the facts-that Dodd's Kidney Pills had cured them of kidney diseases where other medicines and treatments had failed—they gave their evidence fairly and honestly for the benefit of others.

It takes a very unselfish man to allow his name to be associated with a patent medicine testimonial-or a man powerfully impressed with the merits of the preparation and unusually grateful for the benefits derived from it. One naturally dislikes having accounts of one's physical defects published broadcast, even though there is a complete cure attached. But there is a stage where ill-health becomes so pronounced that all pride, vanity, reserve-call it what you like-gives way. You are sick and you don't care who knows it. The fact can't be evaded. When a man in this condition, trying remedy after remedy in vain, at last strikes, perhaps quite unexpectedly, a medicine that cures him, he is so genuinely grateful, so filled with the joy of convalescence that he is ashamed to think of keeping the facts to himself.

Such, no doubt, was the condition of mind of R. A. Wade, the great criminal lawyer of Chicago, whose testimonial appeared on the page under discussion. He it was who defend ed Pendergast, accused of murdering Carter Harrison, Mayor of Chicago. He is probably the best known man in his pro fession in the United States, having been retained in more sensational criminal cases than any other lawyer in America. He was not only cured of kidney disease but his sight, which, owing to the attacks of that essential feature of kidney dis

Senator Busse, Representative Risum, Captain McComb. Roy Keator, were among those who freely testified to the merits of Dodd's Kidney Pills on the United States History page, and their pictures appeared last week in The Star. Thi page is considered the strongest mass of evidence ever printed in favor of a patent medicine in this country.
