

IN FAVOR OF FEDERATION

Victoria and Tasmania Pile Up
Huge Majorities.

Fell Down a Ravine—Mother Found
Dead and Daughter Delirious.

BIG MAJORITY FOR FEDERATION.
Melbourne, July 29.—The returns of the Victorian referendum on the question of Australian federation show a vote of 145,014 in favor, and 9,605 against the measure. The vote in Tasmania shows 13,800 in favor, and 800 against.

CABLE CANARD.
London, July 29.—The story of a collision on the River Volga between a cargo steamer and a passenger steamer, which was said to have resulted in the drowning of 150 persons, was an exaggerated version of a collision that occurred July 15, when a few persons were drowned.

ACCIDENT TO TOURISTS.
Zermatt, Switzerland, July 29.—Early yesterday morning tourists discovered Madame Morel and her daughter at the bottom of a ravine near here. Evidently they had rolled a distance of 1,200 feet. Madame Morel was dead, her skull having been fractured. Her daughter was badly injured and delirious. Until she recovers her sanity the facts regarding the accident which befell the two women cannot be ascertained.

A FIGARO STORY.
Paris, July 29.—The Figaro prints a letter written from Hong Kong by M. Jean Hesse, its colonial editor, who has been for three weeks in the Philippines. M. Hesse says the American losses in Luzon are heavier than has been reported. The 42,000 men who were on duty have been reduced to 30,000. He expresses amazement at the small territory which Gen. Otis holds. The American soldiers, says the writer, are adventurous, engaged in low wages, with full permission to pillage.

ROYAL WEDDING.
Cettigne, July 29.—The wedding of Crown Prince Danilo, of Montenegro, and the Duchess of Jutta was celebrated by the population of Cettigne, in the presence of the bride's mother and brother, the Prince and Princess of Montenegro, the Duchess Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Duke Frederick, and others. The inhabitants displayed the greatest enthusiasm. The bride wore the Montenegrin national costume, and was everywhere affectionately welcomed. After returning to Prince Danilo's palace, the pair appeared on the balcony and were greeted with acclamations by the population. At night most of the buildings were brilliantly illuminated and a torchlight procession marched through the streets.

A BRIDGE FOR KRUGER.
London, July 29.—The Marquis of Salisbury having at last broken silence on the Transvaal, decided in a manner, it may be expected that President Kruger will hardly be likely to refuse to listen to the government's new proposal for a joint commission to examine the franchise. This proposal meets varying criticism here. Liberals are inclined to regard it as another instance of the incurable tendency of the Salisbury Government to shelve every difficulty by referring it to a commission. Mr. Labouchere calls it a climb-down on Mr. Chamberlain's part; and undoubtedly it savors more of Salisbury than of Chamberlain. Others think it a concession to the Transvaal, the contention that the matter should be referred to arbitration. All agree, however, that it forms a practical bridge of which Kruger can avail himself to retire from an impossible position. Mr. A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury, and government leader in the House of Commons, gave another strong hint in reply to a question, that in the unfortunate event of war, the government was prepared to employ other than white troops.

THE CHINO-JAPANESE ENTENTE.
The prospect of a Chino-Japanese alliance has been welcomed by England and Germany, on the ground that it will reinvigorate China and enable her to resist the Russian advance. The Spectator, in the course of an interesting article this week, points out that this is a mistaken idea, and asserts that Japanese re-organization of the Chinese army and navy and finances would be successful because the Japanese are more in sympathy with Chinese national feeling than western nations. Japan, the article says, would abolish corruption and organize a formidable, well-armed Chinese army, while the combined Japanese and Chinese navies would be able to prevent an invading army reaching China by sea. Thus, it is argued, China would be again a powerful nation.

MAY BE MURDER

Toronto Man Stabbed in the Back by an Unknown Assassin.

Toronto, July 29.—A strange stabbing affair, by which Wm. Henderson, of 36 Farley avenue, received a deep gash in the left side, occurred last night at about 10 o'clock. The wound is an ugly one, and the intestines protruded from it. The condition of the patient last night was extremely precarious. John and Herbert Henderson, two brothers of the wounded man, were walking up St. George's avenue at ten minutes past ten, when they found their brother lying against the fence just above Wellington avenue. He told them to hurry for a doctor, as he had been kicked. No information as to how Henderson received the wound could be obtained. The patient could give no intelligible account of the matter, but said he thought he had been kicked. As to who was his assailant or how he had been stabbed, he could furnish no explanation.

TOOK STRICHNINE.
Aibion, Mich., July 29.—Mrs. D. F. Palmer committed suicide yesterday by taking a dose of strichnine. She left her home Thursday night in apparent good health and spirits. Last night her body was found in Brockway's woods, about half a mile east of the city. No reason can be assigned for the rash act. She was very prominent in educational and club matters, holding the position of president of the school board.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS COMBINE.
New York, July 29.—The American Travelers' Defense Association has been organized to secure the repeal of the provision of the Dingley tariff law which imposes a duty on all wearing apparel over $100 in value per annum and brought to this country by

PIN-PRICK

Results in Blood Poisoning—A Guelph Girl's Serious Condition.

Guelph, July 29.—Miss Julia, aged 15, the youngest daughter of Mr. John McNaught, governor of the jail, is rather seriously ill from blood poisoning. Last Sunday she ran the point of a pin into the second joint of the middle finger of the right hand. The finger became very painful, and a physician was called in. On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the hand was lanced, and the swelling is up to the wrist. The endeavor is to keep the poison from going up the arm. The young lady is suffering great pain.

ALMOST A TRAGEDY

Young Ladies Narrowly Escaped
Drowning.

Orion, Mich., July 29.—Two young ladies who went bathing in the lake here this afternoon got beyond their depth, and Rev. C. H. Morgan, who was lying ill in his tent on the shore, arose and rushed out to rescue them. He got one ashore all right, and went back after the other. She lost her head, however, and clutched Mr. Morgan around the neck, nearly smothering him. A young man named McCutcheon saw his predicament, and swam out, but was not able to manage the combined weight of Mr. Morgan and the lady. Wm. Dave, plunged in and managed to bring all three ashore in safety.

HARVEST APPLES AND ICE CREAM

A Combination That Proved Fatal to Frank Armstrong.

Flint, Mich., July 29.—Frank Armstrong, aged 7 years, of Grand Blanc, attended an ice social at Grand Blanc last night, where he distinguished himself by eating ice cream and harvest apples. Frank was cautioned by some people, but he only laughed at them. On the road home he was taken deathly ill and died upon the highway. It is believed he expired from heart failure brought about by the food of which he had partaken so greedily.

THE BOAT UPSET

Sad Death of Three Young People at Evansville, Ind.

Evansville, Ind., July 29.—August Mattingly, 17; Pearl Cheaney, 14, and Martin Omana were drowned in the Ohio River in front of the city last night. The party were taking a skiff ride. Their boat was caught in the current and capsized.

STARVED TO DEATH

A Score of Labrador Indians Perish for Want of Food.

St. Johns, Nfld., July 29.—The coast steamer Virginia Lake, from Labrador, reports that twenty Indians on that coast starved to death last winter while trying to reach Davis Inlet in quest of food. The journey was attempted owing to the scarcity of game. Frightful tales are told of the misery endured by the Indians during the winter. Owing to the fact that the Labrador coast has been blocked with ice, it prevented the news from being known sooner.

LOST—TWO YEARS!

"Yes, sir," said the stock-broker, "I have never ceased to mourn the fact that I lost two years out of my life."
"How do you make that out?" asked his friend, the insurance man.
"I lived upon milk for two years," said the stock-broker, solemnly.
"That's certainly longer than most," returned the insurance man. "I was weaned at six months."
"I mean since I reached manhood's estate," said the broker.
"How was that?" asked his friend.
"I used to be a sort of self-indulgent fellow in the way of victuals."
"I like a good dinner myself," interrupted the insurance man.
"Yes, well I used to eat everything that came along if it was nice, and I played my stomach out. By and by I found I had dyspepsia, and I straightway became a dyspeptic crank."
"I've heard of 'em," remarked the insurance man.
"Well, was one," said the broker. "I started in to cure myself. Well, sir, if I was to tell you all I took and all I did to get rid of that fiendish disease I would keep you here all night. It was after I had tried about everything I struck the great milk cure."
"This is where you lost the two years," said the insurance man.
"Yes, I ate nothing for two years. I drank milk till I hated the sight of it."
"Did it cure you?" asked the insurance man.
"It did not," said the broker. "And the worst of it was I found after two years of it I had been eating good honest beefsteak all the time, or quail on toast for that matter."
"How was that?"
"If I'd only known it, a Dadd's Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal would have digested my food for me, rested my stomach, and cured the Dyspepsia inside a month or so. You can get them at any drug store for fifty cents a box, too."
"That's where ignorance wasn't bliss," said the insurance man.
"It's wise to be wise in regard to Dyspepsia and Dadd's Dyspepsia Tablets," said the broker.

A BIG ONE.

San Francisco, Cal., July 29.—The keel of the largest merchant steamer ever built on the Pacific coast is ready to be launched at the Union Iron works. It will be called the California, and will be 451 feet long, 51 feet breadth, with a displacement of 12,000 tons, and a carrying capacity of 3,500 tons. The California will ply between this city, Honolulu and New York.

GOOD HORSEMANSHIP

Saved a Horse From Being Hurt by a
Trolley This Morning.

A street car backing up at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets this morning without any going sound, caused considerable excitement, and an accident was narrowly averted. The street was crowded with rigs. One horse attached to a rig was immediately back of the car, and there was neither time nor opportunity to get out of the way. That the horse would be struck and badly injured seemed inevitable. With rare presence of mind and admirable horsemanship, the driver pulled the horse up on his hind legs, and the animal, snorting and pawing the ground, did not take the trouble to look around, and the car continued to back. The driver cranked the wheel short and backed off the track just in time to save the horse. It was a superb exhibition of horsemanship, and entertaining for the spectators, but the driver, when he was out of harm's way and had time to turn his attention to the conductor, said things that need not be repeated. The car had in the meantime been brought to a standstill.

IN DAWSON CITY

F. W. Herring, of This City Has Gone
Into Business.

The many friends of F. W. Herring, of London, will be glad to know that he has arrived safely at Dawson City. His letters to Mrs. Herring tell of many thrilling adventures, and some hardships, but on the whole it was about as good a trip as one can expect going in on arriving at Dawson. Mr. Herring immediately procured a business stand, which is located on Second avenue, and is very central. At the time of writing business was brisk, and Mr. Herring was kept hustling. His last letter was dated July 2, and arrived here July 26, thus taking a little over three weeks to come. Mr. Herring says prices in Dawson are somewhat lower than last year, but still good enough to make a man anxious to get a good stock of goods for the fall trade.

IN THE HIGH COURT

Petition to Have Mary McDougald Declared Insane.

Justice R. M. Meredith, in the high court this morning, heard a petition in the estate of Mary McDougald, spinster, of Ekfrid township, asking that the said Mary McDougald be declared insane, and that Daniel McDougald be appointed a commissioner in the estate. The hearing was adjourned till Tuesday for the purpose of securing further affidavits.

THE TORONTO TRADES COUNCIL

Elect Officers by the Hare-Spence System—Many Visitors Present.

Toronto, July 29.—At the fortnightly meeting of the Trades and Labor Council the officers for the ensuing half-year were elected by the Hare-Spence system. To witness the operation there were present a large number of visitors. The system was fully explained and demonstrated by Mr. Robert Tyson, Queen's University, Kingston; Jos. T. Marks, of the Industrial Banner, London, and George Wrigley, of the Citizen and Country, Toronto. The working of the system proved most expeditious and satisfactory, and, although, at first to some it seemed somewhat complicated, was considered by the majority of the visitors as an entire success.

The following officers were elected: President, Wm. Henderson; vice-president, Arthur Callow; recording secretary, George E. Corney; treasurer, C. March; librarian, A. G. Horwood; sergeant-at-arms, Thomas Motion.

INGERSOLL SORRY

That He Had Spoken Against Jesus
Christ.

Bill Perkins, in a letter just sent to the New York Sun, gives this interesting reminiscence of the late Col. Ingersoll:
"When I was writing my 'Kings of Babylon and Babel,' Robert Ingersoll kindly sent me what he called his greatest lecture, 'Liberty of Man, Woman and Child,' with many others of his most brilliant sketches.
"In using my speeches," he wrote, "do not use any assault I may have thoughtlessly made on Christ, which I foolishly made in my early life. With Renan, I believe Christ was the one perfect man."
"Ingersoll's words," said the writer, "do not use any assault I may have thoughtlessly made on Christ, which I foolishly made in my early life. With Renan, I believe Christ was the one perfect man."
"Ingersoll's words," said the writer, "do not use any assault I may have thoughtlessly made on Christ, which I foolishly made in my early life. With Renan, I believe Christ was the one perfect man."

A FILIPINO'S LOVE

Made Corporal Hayes Turn His Rifle
on His Countryman.

Kansas City, Kas., July 29.—Sergeant C. A. Lamars, of the 20th Kansas-Furnston's regiment—now in this city, tells a tragic story of the death of Corporal Leonard F. Hayes, who died because in love with a beautiful Filipino, and turned his rifle against his countryman.
Hayes was wounded in a battle and left on the field, and one of the soldiers of the 2nd Oregon drove his bayonet through the body of the wounded traitor and lifted him above his head and held him there while the soldiers shot him. The body was thrown into a trench and buried with several dead Filipinos.

CHAUNCEY'S DILEMMA

People Used to Take Depew for Adam Forepaugh.

The resemblance between Chauncey M. Depew, the distinguished New York railroad chief and statesman, and the late Adam Forepaugh, the circus king, was wonderfully striking, and brotherly similarity in personal appearance led to a number of ludicrous mistakes.
A few years ago while Forepaugh's big show was in winter quarters in Philadelphia, one of the baby elephants was rented out to the management of an opera company, it being utilized to give realism to an oriental scene. The opera company closed its season in the latter part of March, and the baby elephant was shipped back to Philadelphia in charge of the agent of the company. The elephant was left in the car and the agent went down town to the Continental Hotel, where he made an appointment to meet Mr. Forepaugh, whom he knew and frequented.

Brother Chauncey happened to be at the hotel at the time. He had been invited over to Philadelphia to a dinner given by the famous Clever Club, and when the opera company's agent entered he was standing near the desk, talking to one of the clerks. The agent instantly spotted him for Brother Adam.
"Good morning," he said, "I am glad to see you."
"Delighted," answered Chauncey, with a puzzled look on his face, as though trying to remember where he had seen the agent.
"You got my letter, of course?"
"No—yes, of course, well, no, I can't say that I have," and the puzzled look deepened on Brother Chauncey's face.
"Oh, well," said the agent, "it doesn't make any difference—the baby's here."
"The baby's here?"
"Why, yes, it arrived this morning. What shall I do with it?"
"Do with what?"
"Why, the baby."
"What baby?"
"The baby elephant."
A light broke over Brother Chauncey's face.
"My dear fellow," he said, "who do you take me for?"
"For Adam Forepaugh."

Brother Chauncey began to laugh.
"Great Caesar," he exclaimed, "that's the fourth time I have been mistaken for Mr. Forepaugh since I have been in Philadelphia, and in every town I strike I have at least one experience of the kind. My name's Depew—Am I clear?"
Then they both laughed, and the agent went off to find the real Mr. Forepaugh.

HAT TRICKS BY M. P. S.

[London Mail.]
That members of parliament should be allowed to wear their hats in the house has often surprised foreign visitors to the historic chamber. It is lucky for a great many members that the rules of debate, while demanding the wearing of a hat, make no provision as to the character of the headgear shall take. The obvious result is that the variety of parliamentary hats is wonderful and vast.
But it is not so much the character of the headgear as the manner in which they are worn that is of interest. Some truly marvelous balancing feats are performed with hats during every session.
A. J. Balfour and the Duke of Devonshire can balance their hats on the bridge of their noses as if they had been weaned practicing the feat. The Duke of Devonshire is especially clever in this way, and it is very difficult to say whether he is not doing peacefully behind the ample brim tilted over his nose.
It has been said that the leader of the House of Commons deliberately subjected a trick to his adversaries by pretending to sleep in the shadow of his hat brim, so they may fall into error and he can pounce upon them.

Another wonderful trick is that performed by Tim Healy, who balances the front brim of his hat upon the bridge of his pincenez in a way few men could accomplish in the task. It is one of the unmistakable signs that Healy is in the immediate neighborhood of Mr. Healy's seat. It practically amounts to an ultimatum to the government, one which the party whips must not ignore.

MR. BAILLEY HAS A "SCOOP"

Houston, Texas, July 29.—The Post prints an interview with the Hon. J. W. Bailey, in which he says: "I am fully persuaded that the national administration has entered into a full and complete agreement for an alliance between Great Britain and the United States. The same in my opinion is to be both offensive and defensive. I think it has not been published to the world because of political reasons. The president is afraid to do so. Many things tend to create this impression on my mind."

JOTTINGS FROM NEAR-BY PLACES

Mr. Alex. Stewart, of Belmont, had a narrow escape from a horrible death, while working at Mt. John McPherson's farm one day last week. He was holding the bottom of the ladder while Mr. McPherson was putting up a hay-rick, when the rick fell, striking Mr. Stewart's hat and spiking it to the floor. Had it struck Mr. Stewart he would have been instantly killed.

PETROLIA.

Petrolia, July 28.—Miss West, of the London Floral Company, has gone to London for a few weeks' holidays. Fresh flowers will still be received at the store, and parties wishing flowers will please call at the express office next door.

Mr. Dean Swift, son of Shennan Swift, who at one time resided in town, is visiting at the residence of George Sanson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKenzie, Miss McKenzie and Mr. Martin McKenzie left on Thursday for Muskoka, for a month's holiday.

Mr. E. A. Archer and family are camping at Bright's Grove for a month. Mr. Jas. Perkins, Jun., leaves on Monday for Borneo. Jim will be greatly missed in town, and his friends will wish him every success.

Miss Emma Lowery left on Wednesday for Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Colter have removed here from Stratford, and have taken up their residence on the corner of Walnut and Chestnut streets.

Street Commissioner Scott's horse was tied on Tank street on Wednesday, when it broke loose, and dashed down Oil street, and up on to the veranda of Mr. Murray's residence. Mrs. Murray was sitting on the veranda at the time and was badly frightened. The horse ran into the garden, where it was caught.

A. C. Edwards and family leave on Saturday for their cottage on Manitoulin Island.

Chris Houston and family are summering at Corunna.

DORCHESTER STATION.

Dorchester Station, July 28.—Mrs. Sidney Smith, of Avon, is visiting here. A lady having from a foreign country entered one of our thriving general stores, and wanted to purchase "half a stone of flour." The lady clerk in attendance was so puzzled that she hailed a gentleman across the street, in order to find out how much her customer wanted.

LAMBETH.

Lambeth, July 29.—With reference to the notes in Thursday's paper regarding the children of a Mr. Edwards being taken to the Children's Aid Society, the name should have been Mr. Edwards Bradley.

Miss Bunt, of Owen Sound, is visiting her cousins, Mr. E. and T. Vanstone.

Sure Death to Insects.

[By Amos Gray, M.D.]
(From the United States Health Reports, July 1, 1898.)
Amongst the pests and annoyances in the household, the little insect called the cockroach is a most active and energetic fellow. It is almost impossible to get rid of him unless the most vigorous measures are taken and persisted in. They multiply rapidly, and seem to come in droves when they make their appearance. In warmer countries they grow to a much larger size than those in the United States, and gigantic specimens can be found on some of our trading vessels of sufficient size to start a menagerie or freak show. They frequently do great deal of damage in destroying the woodwork of a house, as well as clothing and other articles. The only way the cockroach and water bug can be exterminated is by continually sweeping after them, for "extremes vigilance is the price of liberty," applies equally as well to the cockroach in the family as the original does to the foes of our nation.

Numbers of so-called exterminators of these pests have been produced and put upon the market, many of them being so poisonous as to preclude the use of them with safety, numerous accidents having occurred from children being poisoned through the results of the carelessness of servants or members of the family leaving the preparation where the children might have access to them.
