OUR KHAKI BOYS AT THE IMPERIAL

26th Regiment on The Screen—Fine Vaudeville and Hilarious Comedy

The Imperial registered a tremendous success yesterday with its new programme. Naturally, the chief factor in it was the motion pictures of the 26th Battalion, Second Overseas Expeditionary Force, mobilized in this city from all parts of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Needless to state, the soldiers themselves were out in force to see their living pictures as well as their sweethearts and relatives from all sections of the city. The picture was more than 1,000 feet long and depicted Col. McAvity and his immediate staff, the officers of the 26th regiment in complete number and a parade of the men on King square in which the film showed every man as distinctly as if he posed for his picture in a studio. Then there were spirited scenes in Manchester's Field, Lancaster, where Col. McAvity and his officers put the men through some exciting evolutions and their cleanness across the field with a half mile of glistening bayonets, elicited tremendous applause. There were other views of the soldiers and throughout the whole reel of pictures, there were numerous titles and subtitles, which fully explained the pictures to those not familiar with the officers and men. It was a splendid picture of the number and doubtless the showing of it today and again on Wednesday, will be greeted with more large crowds.

The other big feature of the bill was a two-reel comedy "His New Job" introducing the king of comic pantomimists, Charles Chaplin, late of the Dury Lane Theatre, London, and also a member of Fred Karno's great British troupe of fun-makers. This was a most hilarious affair and the crowd was schelling with laughter before it was over. The "Hassards of Heden" served up more of those railway thrills and the Hearst-Selig Weekly depicted among other things, the attempted dynamiting of the Vancouver bridge with pictures of the German, Vanhorn, also the effect of the Zeppelin raid in England and some splendid scenes of the Italian earthquake disaster.

Reddy and Currier, a refined singing and harp programme, was much favored with their budget of late popular songs and standard selections. Miss Currier is an accomplished harpist and on a splendid instrument, rendered a number of difficult and tuneful selections. The act is quite in keeping with the vaudeville shown at the Imperial and was greatly enjoyed throughout the week.

On Wednesday, the Imperial will present Oude's well-known novel "The Man by the Thimblehouse Co. in four reels.

ANOTHER WEEK OF PROMISE IS BEGUN

Appealing Play at Opera House and More Entertaining Vaudeville

A sweet, appealing story of love and romance, based on the marriage of a pretty girl from the "middle classes" into titled society is the theme of the play "Thorne and Orange Blossoms" presented at the Opera House last night by an appreciative audience by the Young-Adams Co. The story is well told, and as enacted by the players at the Opera House, all the better points were clearly defined. It is replete with stirring scenes, with a high sense of emotion and pathos, although a scintillating vein of humor runs through the piece.

The play was well staged, a scene in the streets of London being especially well mounted. The parts were distributed to excellent advantage, Miss Adams adding further to her laurels in the role.

of Lady Violet Ryvers, wife of Lord Randolph, whose mother, the dowager Lady Ryvers, is bitterly opposed to the match. The role of the young wife received into the house of her cold and scornful mother-in-law was difficult and trying, but Miss Adams easily fulfilled the demands upon her ability. Mr. Young appeared as Lord Randolph and while he had not so many opportunities to display his known stage cleanness as in previous productions, he played the part with dignity and grace.

Miss Stevenson as the dowager was particularly good, while Mr. Hadfield in the role of a schemer, made himself thoroughly detested, which was complimentary considering that that was his aim. Mr. Lyon "doubled" as a butler and a Hebrew pawnbroker, and was popular in both parts. Miss Hubner as Monica Ryvers, Mr. Rowland, as Sir Hubert Hay, Mr. Loker as a clergyman, and Mr. Gregory as a young American, all aided in a proper balancing of the cast. Little Miss Margaret though she had small opportunity, was well received in reuniting the husband and wife separated by the cruel coldness of the titled mother.

New vaudeville acts introduced were most attractive, Miss Marion and Terry, a dancing and juggling "turn" and Heverly, a hand-cut manipulator. Both evoked applause, the former being especially popular. "Thorne and Orange Blossoms" will continue until Thursday when "The Banker's Child" will be the presentation.

GEM OPENS WEEK WITH ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME

Starring Two Part Drama, Bright Comedy and New Play Weekly—The "Jinny" Bus Shows in Operation

A two-part feature of exceptional interest was given at the Gem Theatre yesterday. "The Serpent of the Pen," and it afforded delight to all who witnessed its production. The acting was of a superior type, and there was a particularly exciting "high" scene in an encounter between two rivals on the brink of a river. It stirred the audience to a high pitch of excitement. This feature will be repeated today.

The Pathe News Weekly contained the first showing of the "Jinny" Bus in St. John. This vehicle has caused a furore in American cities, and it was interesting to see it in pictures at the Gem yesterday. There were some excellent scenes from the war zone—pictures of interest to all admirers of the Allies or sympathizers with them in their cause. In addition a comedy bright and snappy, gave pleasure, while the orchestra had a new and attractive programme of musical novelties.

A NOVEL FEATURE AT THE UNIQUE

Special Story of Police Life With Rattling Keystone Comedy.

The Unique Theatre opened the week yesterday with a selected programme of special features that succeeded in more than pleasing those who attended. Although laying no claim to greatness, the Charlotte street amusement resort generally presents something worth while, and the subjects shown yesterday constitute a programme that is no exception to the rule. The Reliance players are the headline attraction offering a novel story of police life, and the salvation of a young officer. It is called "The Saving of Young Anderson." It is told in two parts and enacted with a sustaining vigor by the large cast of players it demands. The manner in which the "gang" is rounded up, and the efforts of young Anderson to restate himself into the good graces of his superior, brought forth rounds of applause from the audiences. The fight in the big lumber companies office is well staged while by arrest is one of the big features of the production. Those who enjoy a compelling story with a good sprinkling of sensation cannot help but be pleased with "The Saving of Young Anderson." In lighter vein the Keystone comedians keep up to the standard they have created for amusing comedies and are seen to advantage in the side splitting farce, "The Noise of the Bomb" which serves to introduce Chester Conklin in the role of police chief. The entire programme is enjoyable from beginning to end. The feature for Wednesday will be "The Master of the House," a strong society play.

THE EMMET BROS. AT THE LYRIC A FINE ACT

Dancing Boys Score a Hit—Good Pictures.

With few exceptions the Emmet Bros. now appearing at the Lyric Theatre is one of the nearest and one of the most clever acts that has found its way to the stage of this theatre in some time. They reach a standard that few surpass there, and present a clever offering consisting of a little singing, some clever comedy talk and novelty dances. The dances are exceptionally pleasing and are given with the grace and ease that denotes the artist up to the line. Another feature worthy of note with the Emmet Bros. is the fact that they are out of the ordinary and get away entirely from the path so much traversed by the ordinary vaudeville. Their comedy is well rendered, and sent across the footlights with a force that none can miss with the result that laughter predominates throughout. The dressing of the act is neat and refined both appearing in up to date cut away suits, presenting a fine appearance which coupled with pleasing personalities makes the act one of real merit pleasing all classes. The Mutual Weekly is featured in the picture programme, and contains a series of remarkably good war scenes. "The Pawns of Fate" a special two-part Thimblehouse drama with the Twins playing the leading roles is an interesting well constructed story. The Carr Trio are billed for the latter part of the week.

BOSTON DOES WELL FOR BRITISH AID

Large Sum For Red Raised at Entertainment—Sir Geo. E. Foster a Speaker

(Christian Science Monitor, Boston, Friday, Feb. 26)

A large sum of cash and pledges, the exact amount of which was not given, was raised at a mass meeting in aid of the British Imperial relief fund at Tremont Temple last night.

Nearly 1,000 persons attended the meeting and enthusiasm ran high throughout. The speakers were Sir Geo. E. Foster, Canadian minister of trade and commerce; Dr. W. Peterson, president of McGill; Rustom Rustomjee, a former Bombay publicist, and Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham, pastor of the Arlington street church. Bishop Lawrence was to have been a speaker, but he was unable to be there and a letter was read expressing his regrets.

G. Herbert Windler, president of the fund, presided. He told of the relief work and what needed to be met. "We have sent over to the fund in London," he said, "sums amounting to $300,000, and have contributed to the officers' families fund $250,000, and a like sum to the Canadian patriotic fund in Ottawa. We are also daily contributing in no small degree to the support of families in New England, whose bread winners have gone to the front, and the demand is every day increasing."

Sir George Foster told what Canada is doing to aid Great Britain. "In Canada during the last seven months we have brought together and sent over the seas an army of 80,000 Canadian troops, and today nearly all of them are on or near the firing line in France or Belgium. We have registered and are drilling in Canada at this present moment fully 50,000 recruits, and we propose within a very short time to have more than 100,000 Canadians ready for the battle front. We have come to the conclusion in Britain. The world has a right to ask the why of this war, and who is responsible for it, and it will result in a regenerated, although roughly aroused and quickened world conscience with the moral force and power behind it which shall keep nations from breaking the peace."

Rev. Mr. Frothingham spoke of the 100 years of peace between the United States and Canada, saying that the two nations are now more friendly and closely knit than ever.

President Peterson of McGill defended so-called British navalism.

Rustom Rustomjee spoke on the "Indian Aspects of the War." He told of the support India is giving its emperor in sending native troops to Europe.

The Belgian relief fund is now $221,000.54, and the Red Cross total $110,441.97. Children are to canvass houses in the Hebrew section of the city for contributions to the Jewish relief fund.
