BENTON GOING TO N. Y. LIFE INS. CO.

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 9—Guy Potter Benton, whose resignation as president of the University of Vermont was accepted last June, during commencement week, is to be connected with the New York Life Insurance Company of New York, as vice-president. He is now in New York completing arrangements to assume his new duties about Sept. 1. Dr. Benton returned to this country late in June from Coblenz, Germany, where he had been workin since January, 1919, as educational director for the 3d (occupation) army. Prior to that service he had been one of the directors of Y. M. C. A. work in France since the summer of 1917. He has been absent from his duties as president of the university since that time, on leave of absence.

"Grandpa," said a small girl. 'I need your advice. I have only five shillings to spend on Cousin Blanche's wedding present, and I want to give something that looks twice as much as it is. What do you suggest?"

"Well," he replied, "in consideration of the high cost of living, I should buy five shillings' worth of rice and boil it."

Service and Growth

Great and permanent growth in any institution is impossible except on the basis of genuine service to the public. For 87 years we have aimed to give a sound and comprehensive service—yet withal a friendly and sympathetic one—to our customers. Our present strong position is a measure of our success—but more largely a measure of our usefulness. Why not let us serve you too?

HOW WILFRID LAURIER BECAME SIR.

After he became prime minister, the Queen's Jubilee took place in England and he was deputed as the representative of Canada on that occasion. He had not altered his views; he had not changed; he was as ever, a democrat to the hilt. But how could he refuse the honor, the distinction, when, without being consulted, on taking his seat at Windsor Castle, as one of her majesty's privy councillors he found his title in front of him. That is the history of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's knighthood. If he had been consulted he never would have accepted it, but if on the other hand he had refused on that occasion it would have been looked upon as a lack of courtesy on his part. But, as we all know, he was a grand gentleman. The manner in which the honor was conferred upon him on that occasion reflected his modesty, his true chivalry, and at the same time his devotion to the interests of Canada.—R. Lemieux in House of Commons.

"Men are so queer," said Ethel. "Tell them a month after the honeymoon that your love is growing cold, and they never glance up from the paper."

"That is so," 'a friend agreed; "but tell them the soup is getting cold, and they jump about ten feet."

PATRICK CUDAHY

Remarkable Career of Irish Boy Who Rose to Commanding Position in States

Patrick Cudahy, whose life began in a little shanty in Callan, County Kilkenny, Ireland, came to an end a few days ago in a mansion in Prospect avenue, Milwaukee. With his passing, brought about about by apoplexy, in his 71st year, there was concluded one of those romances of which America has seen a few in the pioneer days of industry. His life story was that of the grocer's boy who became a millionaire; or the waif of Erin who arose to a commanding position in American business. In fact, the birth of the founder and head of the packing firm of Cudahy Brothers Company had a tinge of the romantic in it, for it occurred on St. Patrick's Day, and it was for that reason that his parents bestowed upon him the most hallowed of all Irish names.

A Delivery Boy at Twelve.

He was brought to America the same year, a few months old, and with him came two other ragged brothers, Edward and John, who with him were destined to write their names in the history of the business development of Milwaukee, where their parents settled. Of scholastic training Patrick had little, and of higher education he had none. His formal training was cut short at the age of twelve, and it was then that the future millionaire might have been seen trudging from door to door with a basket on his arm delivering vegetables for the poor grocer, who gave him only a few pennies for his labor. For two years he worked at that job, getting to the store in the early morning, sweeping out, washing windows and probably never dreaming of the great business of which he was some day to be the largest owner. During that time his brothers also struggled and scraped to earn a little to keep their poor little household going.

On the High Road.

He was still a child, fourteen years old, when destiny transferred him to the packing business, which the little Irish lad entered in a most unostentatious way and in what was naturally an inconsequential position. For a few years he was office boy, clerk, and held other little odd jobs with the Roddis Packing Company of Milwaukee, and then fate began switching him around from one job to another untill in 1874 he began to stride toward his goal. In that year he became superintendent of the firm of Plankington & Armour. His climb then became rapid, and in 1676 he became a member of that established firm. Two years later the former grocer's clerk and John, one of his once ragged brothers, bought the interest which Plankington owned in this firm, and changed the name to Cudahy Brothers. By this time Cupid had crossed his path, and Patrick Cudahy had married Miss Annie A. Madden of Milwaukee.

One of the "Big Five."

From the day of the establishment of the Cudahy firm fortune continued to smile upon the offspring of the Kilkenny immigrants, and in 1893, the plant of their company was moved to Cudahy, Wis. ,and greatly enlarged. At the same time Patrick organized Cudahy Brothers Company, which concern, worth many millions, is a great force in the packing industry. The total time which Patrick Cudahy spent in actively developing his packing interests was forty years. In 1915, he decided that he had done enough, and retired from the presidency of the company, which he turned over to his son, Michael. He had that year lost his elder brother, John. From that time the life of the former grocer's clerk began to cloud with sorrow. His only daughter, Helen Cudahy, whom he greatly loved, in the Fall of 1917 heard the call of her country and sailed for France, where she was to be connected with a Red Cross unit.

The next that her father heard of her she was reported to have ended her life by jumping into the sea in the submarine zone. A brief note which she left in her stateroom read: "It is for the best. Keep as much as possible from father and mother." When his sons, Michael and John, entered the service during the war, Mr. Cudahy again took the reins of business in his hands and once more became president of the Cudahy concern, remaining in office until his death. The packing company which this once ragged boy founded was not confined to Milwaukee and the vicinity. It spread out and became national in its operations and today it is known as one of the "Big Five" of the packing industry.

A SAD TRAGEDY

It often happens—your sore corn is stepped on. Why not use "Putnam's Corn Extractor." It cures in one day. Absolutely no pain with "Putnam's." Use no other, 25c. at all dealers.

You could tell from his hair that he was a musician or something of the sort. "Yes," he said to the company at large, "the greatest tenor in the land once paid me the biggest compliment I could wish."

"O," remarked some one interrogatively.

"It was like this: I sang without accompaniment—I always have trouble with accompanists, they're so unsympathetic, you know—and at the end of the song he said to me:

"'Do you know, when you began without an accompanist I was surprised; when I heard you I was astonished, and when you sat down I was delighted!"

And the sun shone down and lit up the youth's beatific smile of satisfaction.

Present Day Business

depends so much upon outward appearances that a man who is unappropriately dressed suffers under a handicap. Hundreds of successful business men come to us year after year for their clothes, and their satisfaction is absolute guarantee of the appropriateness and worth of our goods.

New suits are continually coming in—waist-line coats and form-fitting for younger men; regular models for those who prefer them.

A POPULAR BANK

(Montreal Journal of Commerce.)

Banks are not usually popular institutions. The number of would-be borrowers is usually larger than can be hospitably welcomed at the banker's office. That the banks are tight, allowing too low a rate of interest on deposits, charging too high a rate on loans, and generally inclined to look very sharply after their own gain, is the common notion of banking policies, even in Canada. It is pleasing therefore to hear of a bank that calls forth no unfriendly criticism. This remarkable kind of an institution is found in the "old lady of Threadneedle Street," London, the Bank of England.

Such at least is the information given by an American financial writer, Herbert N. Casson, in the Boston News Bureau. "The Bank of England," said Mr. Casson, "is a money power that has no enemies. It has never been attacked by agitators, either violently or verbally. Even the Socialists are proud of it. It disarms criticism by regarding itself as a trustee of the public good. It refuses to be a profiteer. Recently, for instance, it announced that all its excess profits had been handed over to the government." Here is a chance for some of our Canadian banks to win glory. An Englishman, whose name was not given, wrote lately to the Times offering a large part of his private fortune to the government to assist in meeting the war debt. Funny people these English.
