Potatoes and Berries on the River Steamers—News of the North End

Great quantities of potatoes are coming down the river boats this season and are now selling for fifty and sixty cents a bushel, and in some cases potatoes are reported to be of exceptional fine quality this year and of good size. Peas are still coming quite plentifully and have been selling from $1.25 to $1.50, while for beans they are asking from seventy-five cents to $1 a bushel.

With the small fruits, raspberries, which are not as plentiful this year as formerly, have been bringing fifteen cents a box by the crate. Blueberries are exceptionally high at twelve cents.

Attention is drawn to the conditions of the sidewalk on Douglas avenue, near the Suspension Bridge. There is a complaint that because of the tearing down of a building there the walk is so obstructed that people have to take to the roadway.

The local Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen met in Temple building in Main street last evening to welcome James Murdoch of Toronto, grand officer of the Brotherhood, who is in the city on his annual tour of inspection.

THE GRAIN CONVEYORS

A letter was yesterday received by Commissioner Schofield from Mr. Valquette, inspecting engineer of the Dominion Public Works department, Ottawa, saying that that department had received tenders for the construction of grain conveyors to No. 5 and No. 6 berths, and the matter of letting a contract was now before the government.

He said if a contract were given the understanding would be that the conveyors must be finished before December 15, which Commissioner Schofield thinks would be in plenty of time.

MAIN COMPANY TO DO DREDGING THEMSELVES

According to word received late yesterday from Montreal it would seem that the settlement of the dispute between the Norton Griffiths Co., and the Norton Griffiths Dredging Company will mean that the latter will not resume the work of dredging at Courtenay Bay. G. E. Palmer said last night that the dredging would in future be done by the main contractors. He is expecting the dredges to be taken to leave Southampton on next Tuesday for carrying under their own steam and is carrying her own scows.

ENGLAND'S GREAT EDUCATION SCHEME

A deputation of the International Cotton Federation waited upon the Marquess of Crewe, Secretary for India, at the India Office the other day to urge upon him the importance of encouraging the growth of cotton in India. The deputation, which was introduced by Sir Charles Macara, president of the Federation, included Herr C. O. Langen, Germany; M. C. Berger, France; M. J. de Hemptine, Belgium; S. Watanabe, Japan; S. M. Johnson and J. F. Edgely, India; J. B. Tattersall and J. McConnell, England.

Sir Charles Macara said five-eighths of the cotton crop of the world came from America, and next to America India was the most prolific producer of the staple. The Indian crop this year, it was expected, would be worth $250,000,000. Some improvement in quality and quantity was already manifest, and he attributed it largely to the educational work of the last few years, which had brought about better co-operation among governments, growers, spinners, and manufacturers. The present cotton crop was three times greater than the crop of forty years ago, but if the demand for cotton goods was to be adequately met the cotton fields of the world must be enlarged at an even greater pace than had been the case in the past.

Mr. Johnson submitted that agriculture in India could not be sufficiently developed unless adequate and timely financial aid was forthcoming. Several other members of the deputation spoke, the foreign representatives pointing out the increasing quantities of Indian cotton being used on the continent. Herr Langen declared that Germany used six times more than England.

Lord Crewe said it was satisfactory to notice, by the admission of more than one of the speakers, that in their belief some progress had been made in the promotion of cotton growing in India. They would recognize that the government of India had tried to do what it could. As regards large and immediate expansion in the growth, it was recognized that certain qualifications must be admitted. It was not reasonable to ask the Indian cultivator to displace other crops by cotton unless the cultivator could be definitely assured that the cotton crop would be more lucrative than that of which it took the place. Of course there were other means of expansion, such as the use of land which had substitution of a superior for an inferior quality of cotton. He was glad to admit that something substantial might be hoped in the direction of an increased output, and he looked forward to something substantial in the future.

Where the Babies are Red-haired.

The red-haired children of Burbridge there are about fifty of them in this Warwickshire village of 800 families—are likely to become more famous than ever in September, when the members of the British Association are to inspect them, as an illustration to a paper which will be read by Major Hurst, who lives in the locality.

When a red-haired baby is born in Burbridge, comments a special correspondent of the "Express," the first thing the local mother says is, "Tell Major Hurst there's another of 'em." Major Hurst has studied the children of Burbridge for twenty years, and his conclusions are as follows:

When both parents have red hair, all the children are red.
When both parents have brown hair, either all the children are brown, or most of them are brown, and a few red.
When one parent is brown and the other red, either all the children are brown or about one-half are brown and one-half are red.
The red-haired ones are no more fiery tempered than the rest.

WEARING SLIT TROUSERS MAN IS MOBBED

Pittsburg Newsboys Have Fun With Mr. W. Leffingwell Doak

A martyr to fashion, W. Leffingwell, of the North side of Pittsburg fashionable set, was on Sunday afternoon mobbed by newsboys in Fifth avenue when he appeared in slit trousers.

Mr. Doak's trousers were of a light check material. The slit extended from the bottom of the legs on the outside to within about six inches of the knee. A glimpse of bright green hose, of the long feminine variety, was disclosed. Mr. Doak carried a light bamboo cane and a handkerchief, was tucked in the cuff of his right sleeve, his clothes.

He was the first follower of the style predicted at the National Convention of Tailors, at Cedar Point, Ohio. Mr. Doak bore the clappings of the boys until they began to kick him in the shins. He called for a policeman and when one appeared the boys scattered. Mr. Doak took a car, announcing that he would go right home and change his clothes.
