

Q. What winters would those be, what years?

A. It would be from '68-'72, or '73, I suppose.

Q. Did this man Peter George live there in the summer as well as the winter?

A. We were not there in the summer time but I expect he did live there, he had no other home that I know of.

Q. When you were there in the winter did you see any part of the lot fenced in? A. There was a piece around the house, yes.

Q. During these winters that you have mentioned?

A. Yes.

Q. How much? A. I never looked.

Q. About how much would that contain?

A. It was not a large piece.

Q. Half an acre?

A. I would think so. I don't think it would be less, anyhow.

Q. Did your father---What happened to the place after '72 or '73, when, apparently, you quite wintering down there. What happened to the place after that?

A. Well, now.----

Q. Why did you quit wintering?

A. We lived down there, we bought our cattle up and across the river. I know Peter George himself stopped me from taking wood, he claimed the lot.

COMMISSIONER:

Q After that Peter George claimed it? A. Yes.

MR . HEAP:

Q. That is after the Treaty?. A. Yes.

Q. That would be in '72 or '72? A. Yes.

Q. Is Peter George alive now?

A. I think so.

COMMISSIONER:

Q. Was Peter George a Treaty man?

A. Yes, I think he was.
