Many Amethysts Found In Canada

Prized Purple Stone May be Picked up on Shores of Lake Superior or in Parts of Nova Scotia.

Although Canada does not possess any deposits of amethyst, the purple stones still there are many of the best value kind found within the Dominion. One of the most common is the amethyst which is found in large quantities around Thunder Bay on the north shore of Lake Superior. At Amethyst Harbor this mineral constitutes almost the entire vein and numerous openings have been made to obtain it for tourists and to secure it for sale at many summer resorts in stores. Several tons of amethyst are often found covered with crystals from one quarter to five inches in length, rich in color and having a very sharp point. This deposit is one of the greatest in the world but, unfortunately, the crystals are often not evenly colored and so a great part of their value is lost.

In Nova Scotia fine amethysts occur in bands and veins at Partridge Island, Cumberland County—surfaces a foot square being covered with crystals one inch across. De Monts, the early discoverer for France, is said to have taken crystals from this place to be given as a gift to the King. A few years ago nearly a ton of separated gems were obtained while digging a well for a Kenville doctor. Other deposits are found at Hairs Harbour, Cape D'Or and Mait's Cove and at various other places along the Bay of Fundy.

Although to date no deposits of great value have been discovered in Canada the field of exploration is so large that it is not yet established by any means that the Dominion does not possess a real gem mine. Small stones of many kinds have been found and later exploration may find valuable mines of many types.

Miss Marion White, of Moncton, is visiting her cousin, Miss Jean Webster, in town.

One of the very enjoyable social events of the week was the bridge of three tables, at which Miss Selma Bourne is the guest of relatives in town, following some time spent with family connections in the U. S. A. and Halifax.

Rev. Dr. Weddall and Miss Maud Weddall, are expected home from Fredericton this week, and the Rev. Dr. will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday the 23rd inst.

Mrs. Jas. Atkinson is spending some time with relatives in Woodstock.

Word has been received by Mr. J. M. Lyons, of Shediac, of the marriage on August 3rd of his son, Dr. George Lyons.

PROVINCIAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN FOR N. S.

Shortly after the return from England of Miss Carmichael, of New Glasgow, says the Halifax Herald, arrangements will be perfected for a Provincial Council of the eight Local Councils of Women, and a large group are anticipating that gathering with keen interest. The eight Local Councils in Nova Scotia, each of which represents an influential body of womanhood, are those of New Glasgow, Pictou, Yarmouth, Sydney, North Sydney and Halifax.

RIOTING GOING ON IN RISBURN

Followed as Result of Assassination of Police Inspector Swansay.

Belfast, Ireland, Aug. 22.—Rioting is in progress in Risburn, as a result of the assassination today of Inspector Swansay. An attempt was made to wreck the shop of a Sinn Fein leader within forty yards of the scene of the crime and only intervention by Ulster Volunteers prevented it. The crowd then attacked the residence of a Nationalist Republican, who fired from a window. His assailants returned the fire and wounded him.

Lyons Miss Maise Dickman. The marriage took place in the chapel of Our Lady of Victories, Kensington, England. The groom's cousin, Dr. Nord Lyons, who is taking a post graduate course in Edinburgh, acted as best man. The groom enlisted early in the war, from McGill University, Montreal, and did his bit for king and country during the strenuous days of battle. Since the armistice he has been carrying on his medical duties in one of the London hospitals, and in the very near future expects to sail for the home land. Shediac friends extend best wishes for a happy future to Dr. and Mrs. Lyons.

Apple Pudding.

Four cups of apples, 1 cup of cornmeal, 1/2 cup of molasses, 1 tablespoonful of butter, 1/2 teaspoonful of salt, 1/4 teaspoonful of cinnamon. Cover cornmeal with enough boiling water to make a paste, then mix with the salt and butter. Use dried apples if fresh apples are not available, but they must first be soaked and drained. Mix apples with cinnamon and molasses and fill into buttered baking dish. Spread cornmeal over the top, set in a pan of hot water and bake 45 minutes.

TIPS TO HOUSEWIVES.

A little cold cereal can be added to soups to thicken them.

To make a bread pudding light add a little baking powder.

Have shortening very cold before it is put into the flour.

If paint spots stick to the window pane, dip a cloth in hot vinegar. The paint will come off beautifully.

CHURCHILL TURNS TO SCREEN TO REACH THE MULTITUDE

William Churchill, eminent novelist, has found a new field in the motion picture. He has turned his attention to the filming of his novels so that he may set forth his philosophy of life presented through dramatic action and life-like characterization to an infinitely larger audience than he can reach through his novels.

Mr. Churchill is not a one-sided man. In addition to writing novels he was for a time in politics and previous to that a midshipman in the United States navy. He is keenly interested in horticulture, forestry and has never outgrown his fondness for athletics and all forms of outdoor sports.

But his chief interest is in setting before the public his conception of the true value of life and the ultimate attainment of happiness through living up to one's highest ideals. This is done through the dramatic conflict and the action and reaction of character on character.

"The Dwelling Place of Light," his famous novel, published in 1917, has been turned into a photoplay under the direction of Benjamin B. Hampton and will be released by the W. W. Hodgkinson Corporation in September.
