Create your own future

At IBM, you'll be encouraged to pursue your goals, to break new ground and truly create your own future.

Here's what some recent graduates have been doing.

"I'm a Development Analyst in the Lab, working with existing and upcoming releases of software. Coming from a Mathematics background, I've learned a lot about software development and acquired new skills that I can take with me as my career develops."

Wendy Matchett
 University of New Brunswick

"I'm participating in a joint study project with an American artist to design, develop and test an art archiving system for about 10,000 of the artist's paintings. I work with IBM research to perfect the color quality of the scanned images. This is an exciting application area where we are pushing the state-of-the-art."

Serge Limoges
 University of New Brunswick

"I am currently a member of the OS/2 Compiler Group. Our team is involved in the design and implementation of compilers in support of the IBM Systems Application Architecture (SAA) direction. This is a challenging assignment which provides me with an excellent chance to develop both my technical and personal skills."

Lan See Chen
 Dalhousie University
