

Streeter

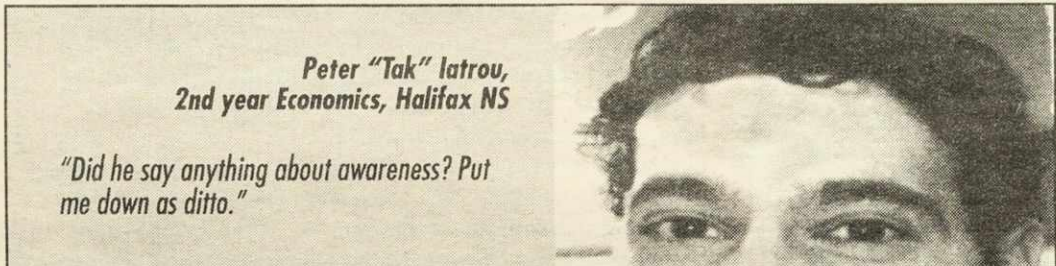

INTERVIEWS BY SHELLEY ROBINSON, PHOTOS BY PASCAL LANGUILLON.

January 15 is Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday. What should be done to further his dream?

Dimitri Iatrou, Grade Nine teacher, G.P. Vanier Junior High School, Halifax NS

"Speaking as a teacher, education is very important... making students aware because they are the future — as corny as that may sound. I think it's important to convey multiculturalism to them."

Peter "Tak" Iatrou, 2nd year Economics, Halifax NS

"Did he say anything about awareness? Put me down as ditto."

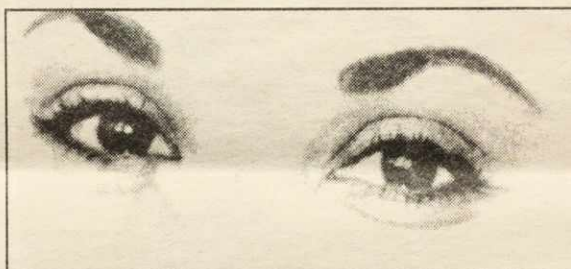

Joanne Pererra, 2nd year Masters in Environmental Studies, Toronto ON

"Understanding differences between people and to appreciate differences rather than to divide. Let's bring people together."

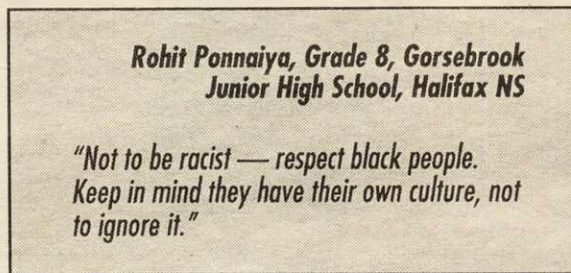

Kellie Johnston, 2nd year Law, Edmonton AB

"Maybe Canada should have Martin Luther King Jr. day off like they do in the States — sometimes it gets glossed over in Canada. It needs recognition."

Natalie Sutherland-Velasquez, 4th year History

"I think they should have more classes devoted to black history — from public school to university — but it should be encouraged for all races to take the classes."

Rohit Ponnaiya, Grade 8, Gorsebrook Junior High School, Halifax NS

"Not to be racist — respect black people. Keep in mind they have their own culture, not to ignore it."

Maya Mukhida, 2nd year Biology, Dartmouth NS

"Emphasize it in classes and put more information about it around campus."
