Old King Coal. BY CHARLES MACKAY,

Old King Coal was a merry old soul; "My country's high, and rich and great,
But greater she shall be;"
And he called for the pick, and he call

And he called for his miners bold;
"And it's dig," he said, "in the deep,

You'll find my treasures better worth Than mines of Indian gold!"

Old King Coal was a merry old soul, Yet not content was he: And he said, " I've found what I've desired, Though 'tis but one of three."

And he called for water, and he called For smiths and workmen true; "Come build me engines great and strong,
We'll have," quoth he, "a change ere long;
We'll try what steam can do."

Old King Coal was a merry old soul; "Tis fairly done," quoth he,
When he saw the myriad wheels at work
O'er all the land and sea.] They spared the bones and strength of men. They hammered, wove and span; There was nought too great, too mean The giant Steam had power for all; His task was never done.

Old King Coal was a merry old soul, Quoth be, " We travel slow; I should like to roam the wide world round, As fast as the wild winds blow," And he called for his skilful engineers,
And soon through hills and valleys,
O'er rivers wide, through tunnels vast,
The flying trains like lightning passed,
On the ribe of the mighty rails.

Some of the Wanders's Africans are in the covered with light earth, till the hole in the covered with light earth, till the hole in the covered are ready. If they have become in any degree shriveled, by them in a treet, and cover root and branch with alguly-moist earth, for three or four days, which will generally restore them, then plant out.

To plant a tree properly, the hole should not be less than three feet in dismeter, and sightless to it wenty inches in duph——the don't be less than three feet in dismeter, and sightless to it wenty inches in duph——the top soil reserved, and the under earth thrown away. Every year give the trees a dressing of good manure and leached ashes, and keep them free from grass and weeds, and-if you have the right sort of trees to start with -you will be sure to have fine fruit. Trees that are slender should be supported by a light stake till they become strong.

With regard to pruning, if the heads are not already formed, prupe them so that the main limbs will be about four and a half feet from the ground for apple-trees, and a round, more perfect head, and induce a greater fruitfulness, with less liability to break down with the weight of fruit. When Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, break down with the weight of fruit. When inclined to overbear, a portion of the fruit. Something about Icebergs,

Something about Icebergs.

Few sights nature are more imposing than that of the huge, solitary iceberg, as, regardies alike of wind and tide, it assers its course across the lace of the deep, far away from land. Like one of the frost giants of Scaadmavia mythology, it issued and its state of Scaadmavia mythology, it issued and its state of Scaadmavia mythology, it issued and its state of the morth armed with great blooks of stone. Proudly it sails on. The waves that desh in foam against its saides shake not the strength of crystal walls, and clearly and the clift, and numbers avera, eight, nine aloes shake not the strength of crystal walls, and clearly in the clift, and numbers avera, eight, nine sheet and snow, storm and tempest, are its songenial elements. Night falls around, and the stars are reflected trenulously from a thousand peaks, and from the green depths of "average measureless to man."

The visible portion of an iceberg is only about one ninth part of the real bulk of the whole mass; so that if one he see 100 feet below the write, he was point mist, perhaps, how very down 900 feet below the write gains gliebed will often grate actions and the size members to be cheese whall be it is easy to see that such a sometime and one will often grate action. Tile great popularity acquired by these Fills during the I receive years they have been offered for sale in this Province is a convincing proof of their value, as no undue, means of increasing their sale have been resorted to, by putting advertisements—no certificates published respecting them.

These Fills are considerely recommended for Silicon Complaints, or morbid action of the Liver, Dysgepsia, Coastveness, Headache, want of Appetite, Gliddiness, and the numerous symptoms indicative of derangement of the digestire organs. Also as a general Femily Aperient. They contains no Chlomel nor any mineral preparation; are effectual, yet so gestile in their operation, that they may be taken at any time, with perfect safety, by persons of both sexes; nor do they, as do many Fills, necessitate the constant use of Furgative medicine, the ingredients of which they are composed effectually obvinting the common difficulty.
