

Provincial Wesleyan.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12, 1868.

In consequence of the official notice which this paper publishes to the Conference of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, we regret that we are unable to publish the proceedings of the Conference...

Our own Correspondent.

We gladly give our usual Editorial column this week to a letter received by the last mail from "our own correspondent." We have been very much gratified with the unthought encomiums which have been passed upon this correspondence...

ENGLAND, Feb. 21st, 1862.

Our domestic intelligence during the past fortnight presents very little that is novel or attractive. "The House" was opened by commission last week, the Queen's Speech being read to a very limited number of legislators by the Lord Chancellor. The document was of the usual order of Royal Speeches in England.

It is a sad and touching story, and one which has been given to the world for the last three months. We were greatly interested in the "Trent" difficulty and its adjustment. Other topics, equally novel, were introduced in the ordinary mode. The Queen's English was murdered, and the rules of grammar defiled, as is usual with royal speeches...

The union of great requirements and rhetorical powers, so manifest in Macaulay's mind, could not fail to render him an acquisition to any political party, and an opportunity was soon found for his admission into Parliament, where he appeared in time to join in the discussions on the Reform Bill. We may not always be able to agree with his political sentiments; but we must accord to him the tribute that his political life was a life of unswerving consistency and of stainless honor.

Obituary Notices.

Died, at Tansor, Northamptonshire, England, on the 27th of January, Mrs. SARAH MILLER, relict of the late Lieut. Wm. Miller, R. N., aged 76. Mrs. Miller was during the latter part of her life, a member of the Church of England, but was of Wesleyan parentage, and brought to the religion of religion in this city at the early age of 13 years, while attending a class-meeting...

The Marriage of the Princess Alice.

The treaty between Her Majesty and the Grand Duke of Hesse, relative to the marriage of the Princess Alice, has been issued. It consists of the original articles, and the ratification of the same. The impression left upon my mind by all this conflict of criticism is a profound conviction of Macaulay's power. There are faults in the history, but they lie upon the surface, and are patent to the most ordinary observer.

The Tuscans and the Bismarcks both at Gibraltar, but do not seem inclined for a fight. The Nashville has got quite away. The talk of England and France breaking the Southern blockade is moonshine. The Duc d'Annam is writing a pamphlet, entitled "France under Louis Philippe," for the purpose of defending the reign of the citizen king, and proving its superiority over the present regime.

The Late Martyrs of Eromanga.

"I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the Word of God, and for the testimony which they held." Rev. iv. 9. "Sing to the Lord! It is not in vain. High praise the church like some four-hallowing psalm."
