THE QUEST.

There once was a restless boy Who dwelt in a house by the sea, Where the water danced for joy And the winds were glad and free; But he said, "Good mother, oh! let me go;
For the dullest place in the world, I know, Is this little brown house,
This old brown house,
Under the apple tree."

"I will travel east and west;
The loveliest homes I'll see;
And when I have found the best.
Dear mother, I'll come for thee.
I'll come for thee in a year and a day,
And joyful then we'll haste away From this little brown house,
This old brown house,
Under the apple tree."

So he travelled here and there, But never content was he,
Though he saw in lands most fair The costliest homes there be.
He something missed from the sea or sky, Till he turned again with a wistful sigh,
To the little brown house,
The old brown house,
Under the apple tree.

Then the mother saw and smiled, While her heart grew glad and free.
"Hast thou chosen a home my child?
Ah, where shall we dwell?" quoth she.
And he said, "Sweet mother, from east to west,
The loveliest home, and the dearest and best,
Is a little brown house,
An old brown house,
Under an apple tree."

OBEDIENCE TO PARENTS.

A Christian merchant who from being a very poor boy, had risen to wealth and renown, was once asked by an intimate friend to what under God he attributed his success in life.

"To prompt and steady obedience to my parents," was the reply,

"In the midst of many bad examples of youths of my own age, I was always able to yield a ready submission to the call of my father and mother; and I firmly believe that a blessing has in Health, Voice, Appetite and Strength Failed—Completely Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My health failed entirely and paralysis stared me in the face. My limbs were so weak that I could scarcely walk, and heart trouble was one of my ailments. I had no appetite and suffered with constipation. My voice failed me in the pulpit, and life had become a burden to me. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and very soon saw a great improvement. In the winter I was attacked by the grip which left me in a bad condition. I was weak and prostrated. I went back to my old friend, Hood's Sarsaparilla. After taking a few bottles I felt like a new man.
Hood's Sarsaparilla seems to be the thing for me, and I find Hood's Pills the best corrector of the liver and stomach."

THE MOST PROMINENT ARE FASHIONABLE.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion has become a fashionable disease. There are very few individuals who have not at various times experienced the miserable feeling caused by defective digestion. No pen can describe the keen suffering of the body, and the agony and anguish of mind endured by the Dyspeptic. Dr. La Londe, of 286 Pine ave., Montreal, says, "When I ever run across chronic cases of Dyspepsia I always prescribe Dr.
Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and my patients generally have quick relief."

A DAUGHTER'S PART AT HOME.

One of the sweetest things a girl can do is to receive things graciously, particularly at home. In one's own house a cordial manner is peculiarly fitting. Do not stand off in the middle of the room and bow coldly and formally to the friend who has called.
Walk over to meet her; give her your hand, and say pleasantly that you are very glad to see her again. Stiff, cold and formal ways of greeting acquaintances are not proper in a girl welcoming guests to her father's house.
A daughter's part is to assist her mother on every social occasion.
The girl pours the tea in her mother's drawing room when friends drop in at five o'clock. Quite often, when no maid is present, she helps the guests to sandwiches and the cakes which are served at a five o'clock tea, and herself hands the cups, and takes them from the guest who would like to be relieved.

Apart from and more important even from her manner to a guest who happens in for an hour or a day, is the manner of a daughter to her father and mother. The father returns to his home after a wearying day at business. He is tired in body and mind. Coming back, as his latch key turns in the home door, he throws off care; he is joyous at the thought of the dear ones he will meet after hours of absence. His young daughter, in a pretty gown, with the bloom and freshness only girlhood wears, should be ready to give him the attention he loves—the kiss, the cheery word—to help her mother and the rest in letting her father see how much he is loved at home. Men give up a great deal for their families—their time, their strength, the knowledge they have gained in life's experiences—they spend everything freely for thir home's sake, and the home should pay its debt in much spoken love.

SPREAD OF LA GRIPPE.

Distressing Nature of the Influenza Phase of the Disease—Immediate Help from Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder—
Fifty Members of Parliament Bear Testimony.

Grippe this season attacks the head and throat with great severity. That remarkable remedy, Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, gives instant relief. W. H. Bennett, M.P. for East Simcoe, and fifty other members of Parliament have borne testimony over their own signatures to the virtues of this remedy. It is known the continent over.
C. G. Archer, Brever, Maine, says: "I had catarrh for several years. Water would run from my eyes and nose, days at a time.
Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder was the only remedy that gave substantial relief, and since using it I have not had an attack."

POLITICS.

The Church has a business with public concerns.

Sermons that are dead disquisitions upon dead subjects are worse than useless. We need such a discussion of live topics, such an exposition of living needs, as will move men to meet these needs. It is the business of the Church to initiate reforms and to lead them. The pulpit should be used to demonstrate in perfectly definite fashion what the need of the day is, and to so move those who listen as to leave them no rest until they have done their duty in the premises.

It is because so many Christians, men who profess to be moored, are in reality "dragging their anchors;" it is because we have so many men in the Churches who lack "such confidence in the right that there is felt no need of shoring it up with influences conceived in sin and shaped in iniquity; men who have such faith in God that they are willing to take His promises and to honour his drafts without asking to have them endorsed by the devil."

sequences prevented, by Chase's Syrup
