Talk to 20,000 Fellow Farmers

FOR A FEW CENTS A WEEK

Just ponder this fact for a moment and realize exactly what it means. Suppose you have Seed Grain for sale. If you were to write a letter to only twenty farmers, the postage alone would cost you forty cents. And there would still be the cost of the paper and envelopes, and there would be the cost of the valuable time expended in laboriously writing letter after letter. And after it was all done you would have no assurance that any of the twenty people you wrote to were in the market for seed grain, and you would probably be out both your time and money and your seed would still be in your granary.

But to talk not to twenty people but to twenty thousand people at no greater cost, at the expenditure of considerably less of the valuable time expended in laboriously writing letter assured—that must interest you.

You can do it through a Want Ad. in The Guide

On this very page you see a number of advertisements offering a variety of seed grain for sale. These little ads cost only 2 cents per word for one week, or 10 cents per word for six weeks. And the farmers who are inserting these ads are offering their grain to over twenty thousand farmers every week. They are offering it to farmers in every nook and corner in the Canadian West. Some of these farmers are sure to need good seed and consequently the advertiser is sure to get replies.

There may be just one man in the West who requires the very thing you wish to sell. The finest detective agency in the world probably couldn't find that man for you. But a little "want" ad in The Guide will find him wherever he may be—the cost is practically nothing—and you consummate a profitable bargain.

So if you have anything to buy or sell, use the methods of the twentieth century—put a "want" ad in your own paper, The Guide, and we believe you will be highly satisfied with the results.
