parish and missionary funds, namely a sale of art, utility goods, including a pillow, a new fine network knitted articles and a ubiquitous apron, a High Tea and a dramatic entertainment. The success of the Agitation Committee was the utmost and workers and donors came from every part of the parish.

Among the latter were representatives of all the evangelical denominations including their pastors and leading members. Little was left to show that a fair had been in progress for some time. The committee of the provision had been made to satisfy the appetites of all the expected guests. It was found that a two hundred and thirty men and women took breakfast but poor prospect for the Agisters. After tea the tables were replaced by benches and the delighted audience enjoyed an hour and a half provided by a score or
