Fact v. Fiction. The Local Optionists glibly urge you to "Abolish the licensed hotel and the liquor shop and you will auto-matically abolish crime." This is the fiction of it. With more than 1,000 lic enses all told abolished in Ontario during recent years; 700 so treated in Quebec; with Nova Scotia (except Halifax), New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, "dry," what has been the result? Crime in Canada, notwithstanding all that, has increased from 77,299 summary convictions to 130,960 while the convictions for years have increased from 31,089 to drunkenness alone in the last five 53,171-and the latter increase was most noticeable where local option and prohibition prevailed. That is the act of it.-Advt.

WHAT THEY HAVE DONE Chicago Tribune:-B. L. T. suggests that if, as the King of Greece put it, Germany demanded Boston or Seattle as a base of attack upon Canada, the United States, if it had pled ged its word to support Canada, would keep its word, regardless of conse-quences. Probably, although if the United States were no larger than Canada and Canada had 100,000,000 inhabitants, we'd say possibly, and say that hesitatingly. The thought of our probable or possible recitude and sacrifice is unction, and costs noth ing. If we formed a guess as to what we might do by recalling what we have done we might not be so con-
