SAVE THE CHILDREN. Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets cure these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the newborn babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE MOLE AND THE MAN

Once upon a time a hermit and a mole had a quarrel. The hermit was old and knew the ways of the forest folk and he boasted of his wisdom. "I am old and wise," he said, "wiser than any beast or bird in the forest for I am a man, and only a man is intelligent."

"Man," said the mole, "lacks many a thing. I myself can smell better than any man, even such an old and bearded man of the forest as you."

The hermit laughed. "Prove it," he said. The mole pointed his nose toward the ground.

"Show me," he said "where I can find water here in the forest." "There is none," said the Man. "I carry mine from a distant brook."

This time the mole laughed and set to work with his strong claws. With its keen sense of smell it dug through to underground water and the Man was amazed.

"Keep that spring near your hut," said the Mole, "as proof of my wisdom." The hermit snickered.

But still the Man was not convinced that the Mole was smarter than he. "You," said the Mole, "are a Man and wise and intelligent. Men boast of engineering skill. Let each of us work through the livelong night and build a tunnel and the owl shall decide. For you are big and strong and human and I am small and of the animal world. The owl shall judge in proportion to our size. Let us see what wonders your human skill can work."

So most carefully they planned and set to work one night when the soil was soft from a newly fallen rain.

All night they worked. The man with his hands—the mole with his claws, and in the morning the mole had dug a passage 75 yards in length and more.

The owl inspected both tunnels and wisely bobbed his head. "Mole," he said, "thy tunnel is 75 yards long and big enough to admit your body. Man, if you would equal his work, your tunnel, big enough to admit your body, must be 27 miles long. Is it so?"

"I am not used to working with my hands," he said. "Could you dig your 27 miles with a spade?" asked the Mole sharply. "No," said the Man. "It is a foolish question."

"Then," cried the Mole. "I not only have a better nose and better claws, but I'm a better workman. I have built the hole equivalent of 27 man miles in one night, working only with nose and claws."

"Who was the wiser—the Mole or the Man?"
