Wolfville a Shipping Port

THE NATURAL AVENUE FOR SHIPPING FROM AND TO A FINE SECTION OF COUNTRY.

It is the evident destiny of Wolfville to become the shipping port for the eastern end of the Annapolis Valley and that destiny will be realized when our people awaken to the fact and unitedly take the necessary steps to bring it to a reality. We have all the required conditions and all that is needed is the expenditure of a little public money. The harbor needs dredging, the wharves require repairs and railway facilities considerable attention. The government wharf is fast disappearing and instead of again replacing it the government should be urged to make the necessary appropriations for work inside the creek. It is understood that before the war the government had secured land for this purpose and that plans had been made that would have greatly improved our shipping facilities. This work, which was interrupted by the war, should be pushed forward with the least possible delay. Unfortunately we have no live Board of Trade that might take the matter up and present the claims of our town and sections adjacent upon the action of the government. However, the citizens should get together and at once take such steps as are required to launch a vigorous campaign in the interest of the scheme. This is Wolfville's opportunity. Grant it. Unless some improvement is made we probably lose the Parrishore boat next summer.

Nova Scotia Egg Laying Contest

TWO ENTRIES FROM WOLFVILLE

The first Nova Scotia Annual Egg Laying Contest has been inaugurated at the Agricultural College, Truro, and consists of 30 pens of fowls, chiefly pullets. This contest began on Saturday, November 1st, and continues until September 30th, 1920. Each entry consists of five birds, hens or pullets, male birds being excluded in this contest. All the pens, with the exception of two are pullets. The houses have been erected at the east end of the Poultry Department, on a plot of freshly seeded ground, and contains four trap nests in each pen, also a dry feed hopper, grit shell box, a record file, a hopper for hard grain and a small wooden feed trough. The results of the contests will be published weekly, giving the number of eggs produced by each hen in each pen and also the weight of the eggs produced by each hen in each pen. A systematic record of the quantity of feed will be kept in order that at the close of the contest an accurate estimate of the cost of producing the eggs will be made.

Among the entries are the following:

Pen No. 1.—E. C. Griffin, Port Williams, Rhode Island White pullets.

Pen No. 5.—J. W. Williams, Wolfville, White Wyandotte pullets.

Pen No. 10.—Evangeline Poultry Yards, Wolfville, White Wyandotte pullets.

Pen No. 12.—E. C. Griffin, Port Williams, Rhode Island Red Pullets.

Children's Aid Society Holds Annual Meeting

EXCELLENT WORK DURING PAST YEAR

The Children's Aid Society of Kings County was organized about seven years ago and the good work done for the children and homes of the county has given it good ground for its existence.

The annual meeting was held at the Town Hall, Wolfville, on Tuesday evening of the week. There was a good attendance and most interesting discussion took place.

Rev. Mr. Miller, who for several years has worthily filled the position of president, gave a brief outline of the work done during the year. A number of successful public meetings, addressed by members of the Society, had been held in various parts of the county, and a very satisfactory interest had been created. Fourteen children had been taken over by the Society during the year. The total number of children who have come under the control of the Society is fifty-five, most of whom have been placed in good homes.

The report of the secretary-treasurer was referred until a special meeting on Nov. 13th.

Mr. H. Stairs, the efficient agent in charge, more than any other person has done the good work done by the Society, gave a detailed account of the work done by his department, which was very interesting and which was well received by all the members.

dent, Rev. G. W. Miller, Wolfville; Vice-Presidents, Dr. Elliott, Wolfville; Judge Webster, Kentville; R. W. North, Canning; Rev. Mr. Wright, Waterville; Sec. Treas., C. A. Patriquin, Wolfville; Agent, H. Stairs, Wolfville.

Mrs. Sutherland, who has rendered splendid service to the movement in charge of the Detention Home, was called on and gave an interesting address, describing conditions of the children under her care from time to time.

An interesting discussion followed relative to conditions that exist throughout the county, the conditions of the various institutions for the poor, and the need of some provision being made for care of the feeble-minded and harmless insane of the county.

The meeting was called to present some plan of work and lines at the special meeting on Nov. 13th.

Owing to an unusual demand on our adv. space and a very busy week in our job printing department we are unable to give as large amount of reading matter as we would like this week. We have good things in store for our readers, however, in the future. Our extra two pages in last week's issue were evidently appreciated.

Put your money in Victory Bonds and make it earn bigger dividends for you.

What are YOU going to do about it?

It really shouldn't be necessary at this stage to educate, argue or persuade the people of Wolfville into buying Victory Bonds.

For reasons of patriotism, of thanksgiving and of good business, the people of Wolfville are going over the top to achieve their allotted quota and to secure the much-prized Prince of Wales Honour Flag.

If you haven't any ready money, arrange with your employer or with any bank to buy on the instalment plan. You will be able to meet the instalments all right, and a few months hence you will be glad you arranged to do so.

So, go now and
