A Number of Cattle Killed.

Hollen, June II.—A terrible storm passed over this place at six o'clock last night, blowing the gable end in and roof off the Presbyterian church, and the roof off the crill-shed, and entirely destroying A. Tark's barns. His son and team were in the barn at the time and narrowly escaped being crushed to death. The roofs of A. Miller's and T. Thompson's stables were also blown off. Several other smaller buildings were either blown down or badly damaged. Fences were levelled to the ground, and trees from one to two feet in thickness snapped in pleces and carried off. The telegraph line was badly broken north and south of here. The oldest settler admits that it was the most violent storm he ttler admits that it was the most violent storm her witnessed in this section. The loss is estimated

TERRIFIC TORNADO.

A County in Iowa Swept With

Twenty People Killed and Missing.
COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, June 11.—A terrible fornade swept through the south-eastern part of Pottawattomic County on Wednesday night. The storm clouds were first seen gathering east and west of Wheeler's Grove, the point where the most destruction occurred, and bravelled an eastward track about haif a mile in width, sweeping everything before it, demolishing farmhouses, barns and other buildings, carrying some of them bodily hundreds of feet and dashing them to pieces. In one place a farmer's house, surrounded by a board fence, was picked up and dashed to pieces in the yard, leaving every board on the fence in its place.
The killed are Jesse Ausler, wife and two children, Wim Hair, wife and two children, and another child fatally injured. Alex Ansler, wife and child were carried in the air almost 150 feet and seriously injured, the child fatally. A hired man employed by the latter, name unknown, was killed. Six or eight others were carried away, and have not been found. About twenty are reported dead or missing.
Not a house in the track of the tornado was left standing. Twenty People Killed and Missing.

ALLENTOW, Pa., June 12—Dr. L. B. Aldrich, a practitioner here, was shot by his wife this afternoon, but not seriously hurt. The woman then shot herself twice in the head and once in the breast. She is beyond recovery. Jealousy is believed to have been the cause of the tragedy.

A WIFE-BEATER IN TROUBLE

A Gang of Masked Men Seize Him and Threaten Tar and Feathers.

Lindsay, June 12.—A somewhat interesting case, in which nearly the whole male population of Little Britain is directly, or indirectly, concerned, has been occupying the attention of R. Lang and M. Deans, J.Ps. at Bell's Hall during the past two weeks. It seems that R. S. Jackson, a cattle drover, who resides in Little Britain, has been the cause of certain domestic troubles in his family which have created a strong sympathy among the neighbours for his wife, who has been the sufferer. It is alleged that Jackson has cruelly maltreated her to such an extent that she was forced to have him bound over to keep the peace. The sympathy of the neighbours for the wife found vent on the night of the 22nd May, in the attempt on the part of a band of masked men to give Jackson fitting punishment. The masked men entered Jackson's house at a late hour, and by force removed him to the street, Jackson struggling all the while to escape. Through the exercise of his fast and hands and repeated calls for assistance from his mother, who lived close by, his captors were compelled to relinquish their hold, evidently fearing that his cries would arouse the whole neighbourhood, and he made his escape. What the nature of the intended punishment was to have been tar and feathers, and the shought that such an indignity was contemplated towards him caused him to have warrants issued against about fifteen young men of the village, on suspicion of being members of the masked gang. The first hearing of the case was held on the 29th, when it was adjourned till the 4th inst., and it was again brought up yesterdence voluminous. Spectators treat the proceedings as a huge joke, and the dignity of the Court is frequently disturbed.

Drowned in a Fit. PERTH, June 11.—A boy named Jos. Patterson was drowned here this evening while swimming and playing on logs in the river. He has been subject to fits occasioned by an injury he received some years ago. He took one of these fits while on the logs and fell into the water and sank. The body has not been found.

Baussels, Ont. June 11.—The corner stone of St. George's English church at Walton was laid to day by the Grand Master of Western Onsario, Major James Bennett, of Toronto. Several lodges of Orangemen and Orange Young Britons were present, and over five hundred people and a number of clergymen from the neighbouring places assisted.

Everything passed off very satisfactory.

Too Much Wate's LONDON, June 13.—Early yesterday morning a couple of young men passing along Maitland street heard screams issuing from a water tank and proceeding thither tound the woman of the house struggling in the water, which was considerably over her head. It seems that the heat was og great that she resolved to take a bath in the tank, but the water had swollen by the recent rains, and was much deeper than she anticipated. deeper than she anticipated.

CHURCH AND STATE IN FRANCE

BY CABLE TO THE MAIL.] FROM LONDON. N. Y. HERALD BUREAU.

LONDON June 12, Mr. Gladstone's majority in Parliament already gives signs of instability. The discontent reaches further than Parliament and daily finds popular expression. The general hope was indulged that when the Liberals came into power they would reverse the policy of the late Government, both in home and foreign affairs, but nothin the state of the late of the l thing of this has happened. Mr. Glad-stoue's Government follows much the same lines of policy as its predecessors relative to foreign affairs, seeking excuses to avoid dealing promptly and popularly with home questions of great importance to the people Great Britain and Ireland. The with. rawal of troops from Afghanistan is startling and inexplicable, and it is considered will probably weaken England's prestige in India. There is a general impression that Mr. Goschen's mission to Constantinople will fail, and that Turkey will become more and more demoralized by interference in her home matters. The new Budget is terribly disappointing, the fiscal changes appearing to most people quite unneces-

THE GREEK QUESTION, The only foreign question to which Mr. Gladstone is paying immediate attention is the Greek. His Hellenic Majesty has had an interview with the Premier with relation to the extension of the Greek boundaries, and doubtless his Royal consort is harping on the same chord at St.

Petersburg. It remains to be seen how far the great English phil-Hellene will be able to give practical effect to his views. Nevertheless the great Powers will scarcely permit England to assume anything approaching a dictatorial settlement of Greek affairs. Mr. Gladstone has re-opened the ball at Constantinople light-heartedly, but the conviction gains ground that men stronger in European policies than he, and nations stronger than England will have the ultimate settlement of this ancient source of dispute. PARNELL SCORES A VICTORY.

It has fallen to the lot of the Irish party to inflict the first defeat on Mr, Gladstone's Ministry. On Saturday morning, a motion was made in Parliament calling upon the Government to lay information before the received a legal training previous to their appointment. For pruden-tial reasons the Government refused to furnish the required information and opposed the motion. Unfortunately for the Ministry, they did not expect the question to be reached on Saturday, and they allowed their supporters, who were bored by the Irish business in progress, to disperse. The English members abandoned the House, till by 2 a. m. it was converted into an Irish Parliament sitting at Westminster, and when Sir Frederick Cavendish challenged a division in behalf the Government he had the mortification to find himself in a minority of 19, while Mr. Parnell scored 39 votes, and for the first time enjoyed the satisfaction of a victorious encounter with the Treasury benches. The announcement of the re-sult was received by the Irish members with ringing cheers, such as have seldom been heard at Westminster.

MR. GLADSTONE'S BUDGET. Mr. Gladstone's supplementary budget

Mr. Gladstone's supplementary budget is likely to meet with severe opposition. The benefits in the proposed changes will be confined to England and France, while the increased taxation will fall with equal weight on Scotland and Ireland; consequently the proposed budget will be opposed strenuously by the Scotch and Irish members, who intend to propose a small increase of the duty on beer, so that England may be compelled to contribute her fair probe compelled to contribute her fair pro-portion of taxation. Under the new sys. tem 100 degrees of alcohol in the form of whiskey would pay 10s. duty, while the same quantity in beer would only be taxed 2s. This question has had the effect of bringing about a coalition of the Irish and members, who have hitherto been always in opposite camps. Mr.
Parnell has undertaken to lead the Scotch-Hibernian cruzade in favour of the equal taxation of alcohol, whether whiskey, wine or beer. The injustice under which Scotland and Ireland suffer in this matter is so glaring that a goodly number of English members will join the coalition. The result will doubtess prove very embarrassing to the Gov. negotiation of a commercial treaty with France on the basis of the new

A DUTCH DRAMATIC COMPANY. London's dramatic sensation of the week is the Dutch actors at the Imperial, who being somewhat less understood than the French company at the Gaiety receive even a larger share of adulation. The company arrived last week, and on Monday they performed for the first time, the piece chosen for the debut being "Annie Mie," a drama by Rosier Faasen, representing the national life and manners of the dwellers of Zealand. Faasen, the author and principal actor in the troupe, is said to be an Irving in his own country. The English critics attended the first performance, and though they admit that they do not understand the language of the players, they are unanimous in their praise of the excellent stage management and remarkable ensemble, all playing together in a manner seen in London only at "The Danites," at Sadler's Wells. Besides the play mentioned they only at "The Danites," at Sadler Wells. Besides the play mentioned they have given the drama of "Marie Antol A Dutch drama de militaire wil ensue. The Dutch actors have, in a mild sort of way, taken the town by storm, and al though they may not reap a great pecuniary reward, they will leave with the highest artistic honours. It is 135 years since a young company of actors from Holland was licensed to according to the Holland was licensed to perform at the Haymarket. Since that time England has remained, as the Athenœum admits, quite ignorant of the existence of such a thing as Dutch drama.

ENGLISH IGNORANCE OF HOLLAND. If the advent of the company has brought out no intelligent criticisms in the way of praise, it has adduced an amusing admission respecting the average Briton's knowledge of Holland. According to the London Figaro, Englishmen con-nect Holland mainly with dykes, cheeses, schnapps, cork-legs, smugglers, and silver skates. Motley threw an electric light upon its history down to the assassination of William the Silent. After that sination of william the Silent. After that the Englishman sees only dim figures, with brooms at the mastheads sweeping the channel of navigators and sailing up the Hudson, and burgomasters swathed in wonderful breeches, struggling with Swedes and English at New Amsterdam and Staten Island. He has heard faintly and Staten Island. He has heard faintly from the depths of history and legends of the Dutch cannon booming at Gravesend and of Dutch skittle balls of a ghostly sort thundering among the Catskills. These and a few historical incidents remain in his mind, but he knew not until the last few evenings that Holland has histrionic claims which prove that the little kingdom has a national drama, and exponents for that drama who may rank in the very highest order of London theatres. Let it be recorded. DRAMATIC NOTES. The "Danites" is to emigrate shortly from Sadler's Wells to the Globe, where it from Sadler's Wells to the Globe, where the will doubtless receive a new lease of its brilliant success. "The separation of Church and State," says an anenymous writer of a long article in that paper, "is natural and advisable in Pretestant and Democratic countries like America but in France the conditions are entirely different. The Catholic Church has the most powerful organization in the world. There would be serious danger to civil so-clety in adopting a laissez aller—laissez passer policy toward it. Once let the State give up its right to control the movements of the Church, and it will imme diately become a formidable secret society. How the Church, controlled or not controlled, could possibly do more mischief to trolled, could possibly do more mischief to the State than it does already is not very easy to see. The example set by Washington has been followed by all with pious respect. General Grant essayed to shake off the restraint of this respect. Certainly he rendered his country great services when he vanquished the Southern rebellion, but they are not comparable to those of the founder of American Independence. Moreover, the General gives himself Cesarean airs, and his double Presidentship from 1869 to 1877 has done a very great deal to lower the standard of public morality. Whether he wished it or not, he seems to have grouped around him elements unhappily very similar to those we know as Bonapartism.

Art and Graceful Poverty. (From a Paris Letter.)

English and American students, on coming to Paris, find themselves subjected to much severer criticism than they experi-enced at home. They also find that they must work harder than they before had any idea of, if they would excel in art. In fact, they learn that nothing but unremit-ting drudgery will enable them to take even respectable rank in their profession, no matter how much raw talent or genius

The average cost of living in Paris among the American students is $650 a year. Some have to get along on $500, and others swell out on an allowance of $800 or more. The general custom is to hire a lodgingroom and take one's meals at a restaurant. The evening is usually spent in a café, where, at a trifling expense, we can have all needed comforts, a talk over the work of the day and compare notes on art, or otherwise enjoy ourselves. The poor atu-dents do not feel their poverty in Paris as they do at home, because things are peculiarly adapted here to give comfort to poor people who are intelligent and refined, without in any wise touching on their self-respect. There are so many persons of learning and distinction in Paris who are poor that there is what a what highly highly highly in the people who are the self-respect. where he has access to all the papers and periodicals, and is surrounded by high-bred gentlemen. Here he will see distinguished-looking personages, with heads like the antique busts in the Louvre, and the manners of polished courtiers, many of them decorated with the ribbon of the Legion of Honour, sipping their six cents' worth of wine, and reading the papers with an air of prefound satisfaction. One elegant old gentleman whom I have often met, whose apparent poverty is radiated by his exquisitely genial urbanity, and who, I am told, is a member of the French Senate, always drinks three sous' worth of hot milk, and yet he is treated with as much courtesy and deference as though he spent Napoleons instead of sous. The social atmosphere which is exhaled from such a state of things is soothing to the feelings and exhilarating to the spirits of poor students who have to count their pennies on all occasions, and renders life n Paris exceedingly attractive to them.

Several new lodges have been opened, and the Order is in a prosperous condition, both financially and as regards membership.

FATAL ACCIDENTS TO CHILD-REN.

A Little Bey Brewned in the Stenebee, and a Little Girl Killed on the Track at Whitby, PETERBORO', June 10.—A young lad four years of age, son of Mr. John Simpson, an employe of the Auburn woollen mills, was accidentally drowned in the Otonobee river near his father's residence yesterday afternoon. A short time before the accident his father had taken him home from the river, where he had been playing. Unobserved by the family, he returned, and not appearing at tea search was made. The body has not been re-

Daring his recent visit to London, Mr. Pat Gilmore engaged, it is stated, the services of Mr. S. Hughes, the celebrated ophecleide player, for his autumn concerts at Manhattan Beach.

Earl Cowper, the new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, who has been very enthusiasti-ally received in Dublin, is in the prime of life, with a most agreeable presence, and has the advantage of a princely fortune, with no family and a very handsome and charming wife. She is also a great sportswoman. Few men, it is said, can throw a woman. Few men, it is said, can throw a salmon fly with more dexterity, and many stage have fallen to her Henri rifie on the Polack Mount or in the Isle of Mull. There is not a better game shot in all England than Lord Cowper.

"Are our schools improving?" was a question recently asked with regard to the schools in the State of Massachusetts, and was answered in the following manner:—An examination of the schools by disinterested parties was resolved upon. The examination extended to about two hundred schools, with five thousand pupils. They were practical in character, and were confined to the elements of reading, writing, and arithmetic. The tests in the main were: In reading, a selection from some easy narrative, not previously seen by the pupils; in spelling, the writing of a number of plain English words; in composition, the writing of a letter; in arithmetic, the solving ef easy problems involving the use of the four elementary rules. These tests were very different from those usually applied from the text books used, but were very fair, and well calculated to exhibit the extent of the practical knowledge gained in the schools. The results obtained in this way were very astonishing, showing that while the extent of the practical knowledge gained in the schools. WYOMING, Ont., June 13.—Hugh McVicar, a young man twenty years of age, son of Duncan McVicar, who lives on the town line between Plympton and Enniskillen, was drowned in Bear creek to-day, while bathing with two or three friends.

Kingston, June 13.—Last evening, about 7.30 o'clock, three men, named Elliott, Wales and Taylor, started out from their homes in this city on a fishing expedition to Kingston mills, five miles below this city on the Grand Trunk railway. They had a plentiful supply of liquor along with them, and during their travel along the track indulged in it very freely. Elliott, while under the influence of liquor, is subject to fits, and several times during the night had terrible attacks. The two men accompanying him worked hard with him to bring the night had terrible attacks. The two men accompanying him worked hard with him to bring the night had terrible attacks. About three o'clock this morning he had another fit, and Taylor and Wales laid him down and used every effort to recover him, but for a long time unsuccessfully. Wales became angry and lett Elliott and Taylor together, he pursuing his way towards the mills alone. It is supposed that he became stupid from the liquor, and laid down on the track for a sleep, for shortly after the midnight express from the east came thundering along at a high rate of speed, it being on a down grade. The engine driver saw something lying on the track, but could not stop the train, and it ran over Wales, tearing and mangling him into a horrible mass.

MASKED BURGLARS MASKED BURGLARS.

A Net Very Fruitful Visit to a Realdence mear London, Ont. 1 100000, June 12.—On Friday morning early, the residence of Mr. John Bradehaw, situated about three miles from the city, on the 4th concession, was entered by two masked burglars. They made their way to the bedroom of Mr. Bradehaw, and flaring a lamp in his face and that of his wife, demanded money, at the same time pointing a revolver at their heads. Mr. Bradehaw said that his pants, which were in the kitchen, contained all his money, and from this the burglars obtained $18. They then demanded more, and rummaged the house till they found a box containing $9 belonging to a visitor, and an old silver watch. A gun was also taken, but the robbers dropped it in the orchard. Mr. Bradehaw is a cripple. There is no clue to the identity of the robbers.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED

Mill-Owner Believed to Have Bee Robbed and then Drowned. Rebbed and then Drowned.

BURRITT'S RAFIDS, Ont., June 12.—Mr. Thomas Dell, of the firm of H. & L. Dell, mill-owners, of this place, has disappeared rather mysteriously. It seems he, in company with some friends, were at the Carleton House late on Thursday night. He was last seen leaving for home about 11 c'clock, since which time he has not been heard of. He was in the habit of going home along the bank of the river, which is quite sloping, and it is feared by his friends he may have slipped in and been drowned. KEMPTVILLE, Ont. June 12.—To day the body of Thomas Dell was discovered in the Rideau canal, near Burritt's Rapids: He had been missing since Thursday. Foul play is suspected, as he had $175 on his person when he disappeared, and he was utterly penniless when discovered.

A STABLE BURNED.

The Tretting Stallion John E. Rysdyk Among the Herses Bestroyed.

St. Thomas, June 13.—What has proved a most disastrous fire broke out this morning, at 2.45 a.m., in the stable owned by Geo. Penwarden on William street, in rear of his hotel. The stable was a total loss, and was only insured for $300. The contents were also lost, which were as follows:—A span of Shetland ponies and a racing horse valued at $6,000; two horses owned by John Stutts, of London, valued at $6,000; two horses owned by the Singer Machine Company and their agent; one owned by John Stutts, of Iona, and two left by strangers over night; also a number of covered buggies, waggons, cutters, sielghs, robes and harness, and five hundred bushels of oats.

Suicide of a Farmer, RODNEY, June 11.—Duncan McInnes, a farmer living three miles west of here, hung himself to a ladder in his barn about four o'clock yestenda afternoon. He was quite dead when found. In sanity is supposed to have been the cause of the suicide.

Shot Himself Near the Heart. ST. CATHARINES, June 12.—Mr. Thomas Westall who resides near Beadle's Nursery, shot himself near the heart this morning, causing, it is believed, a fatal wound. He was brought to Dr. Downey's fitte, who afforded such relief as was in his power it is supposed that the act was dictated by jealousy. Stabbed by an Indian.

LONDON, June 18.—At the Police Court on Saturday an Indian named Joseph Doxtaler was on trial charged with stabing a Westminster farmer named Wm. Murray. It seems that they were going home in a waggon together, when the Indian jumped out, saying that he would not ride with such a man as Murray. Mr. Burray proceeded to drive off, when the Indian approached and said, "Well, no hard feelings," at the same time offering his left band Murray was about to take it when the Indian stabbed him in the breast with a pocket knife that had been concealed in his right hand. The wound is not a serious one. The Indian was remanded.

Deimonico's on Tuesday, June 15.

In London the dressing-rooms of the artists are merely comfortable. Henry Irving's lodge comes the nearest to pretension of elegance, and Toole's little box at the Folly is quaintly and nicely furnished. The dressing-rooms of the St. James' Theatre are neatly appointed, but as it is not the habt of English actresses to receive their friends in their dressing-rooms, but little money is spent in adornments. Madame Patti's room at Covent Garden boasts a few pictures and flowers, and Madame Albani dresses in a room that is devoid of all pretensions to sumptuosity.

ORRIN ROOT'S STORY.

Mew He Lecked Himself out of Gael and the Sheriff Hs.

St. Catharines, June 10.—Orrin Root, the man arrested by the police here on advice from the sheriff of Alleghany county, N.Y., on a charge of attempted murder and robbery, states that it is a put up job to get him back to the other side. He says the only indictment against him is for grand larceny, having bought some old iron which he afterwards found had been stolen. He broke out of gaol he says, because the sheriff was too careless with his prisoners. The door was left open and he took the opportunity to look him.

OTTAWA, ONT., March 2, 1880. The writer has been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer now for the last 22 years, and can confidently recommend it to the public as a sure remedy for Cholera, Diarrheza, Sore Throat, Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Burns, Scalds, &c. Have known it to cure a case of Syphilitic Sore Throat of two years' standing, when all the usual remedies failed. The patient took half a teaspoonful in water three times a day, and gargled the throat three times a day as follows: one teaspoonful in a wine glass of water, and used as a gargle.

I have been using the Pain-Killer for many years with results that justly entitles me to recommend it. As a family medicine, we consider it almost indispensable: being good not only as a pain-killer, but for colds and sore throat, and many other ailments for which it appears specially adapted. I have used it myself, chiefly as a limiment, and find it valuable for rheumatism and pains and stiffness belonging to old age. I pronounce the PainKiller agood and cheap medicine, and worthy of all acceptation,
