SMART'S NEW RED CAR MAY GET BAPTISM OF FIRE AT THE FAIR

Model House Will Be Razed to Ground By Voracious Flames
One Quiet Evening and Chief Will Be Summoned In His Nameless Auto to Extinguish the Blaze.

THIS HOUSE IS CONDEMNED TO FIRE

I have noticed with considerable interest the articles which have appeared in connection with the nameless car, and I think it is only fair to say that the car is taking a hand in it, no matter what the question is. The car is taking a hand in it, no matter what the question is. The car is taking a hand in it, no matter what the question is.

FORTUNE FOR RIVAL HOMESTEADERS WHOSE DIFFERENCES ARE ADJUSTED

Three Men, All Claimants for Valuable Piece of Land Within
One Mile of Athabasca Landing Agree to Share Land
Ottawa Will Approve.

A. E. HOPKINS of 725 Fourth Avenue, will probably be the proud possessor of one-third of a most valuable homestead, only one mile from the town of Athabasca Landing. This is the result of the opening of the land for entry last month. There were three claimants in the line, and the dispute arose immediately. Each of the three claiming favorably on the part of officials which list him the prize. An inquiry was ordered by the land office authorities and the other the police. An inquiry was ordered by the officials at Ottawa and when Land Agent Norquay was proceeding to start his investigation the three came to the agreement by which, if it is sanctioned by the Ottawa people, the matter will be settled. The three men are John W. Frame, an Edmonton butcher, and A. Murray of the Capital Barber store.

100 Years Ago—British Hospitality to French Prisoners of War

Edinburgh Weekly Scotsman. It may be interesting at this time to recall the fact that a hundred years ago our country was the home for the time being of many soldiers of fortune who had been captured by the British forces in those disastrous Napoleon wars which marked the end of the eighteenth and the beginning of the nineteenth centuries. At first these prisoners were confined in old warehouses, which had been converted into temporary prisons, at Plymouth and other seaports. Those old hulks, however, were literally floating prisons, and the prisoners were in a state of misery and suffering. The British government, however, was not content with this. It decided to treat the prisoners with the same hospitality and care as it would give to its own soldiers. The prisoners were housed in comfortable quarters, and they were given food and clothing. They were also given the opportunity to work and earn money for themselves. The British government's policy was to treat the prisoners with the same hospitality and care as it would give to its own soldiers. The prisoners were housed in comfortable quarters, and they were given food and clothing. They were also given the opportunity to work and earn money for themselves.

A Big Food Bill. This state of affairs, combined with the fact that the number of prisoners was fast assuming enormous proportions, forced the government to consider the question of providing better and more permanent accommodation for them. This was a big task, however, for in 1794 there were some 28,000 prisoners in England alone, and they were also sent to other parts of the world. The government decided to build new prisons, and it also decided to treat the prisoners with the same hospitality and care as it would give to its own soldiers. The prisoners were housed in comfortable quarters, and they were given food and clothing. They were also given the opportunity to work and earn money for themselves.

Deaths at Dartmoor. Dartmoor prison was originally built for those prisoners of war, and although at the time there were many protests against confining so many of those poor unfortunates from warm climates to endure the rigorous climate of Dartmoor, the records show that it was the healthiest of all the prisons. This, however, may have been largely due to the fact that the prisoners were chiefly engaged in healthy outdoor occupations, and were also much better fed than those elsewhere. The daily ration for each person here was 1-1/2 lb. bread, 1-1/2 lb. beef, 1-1/2 lb. cabbage, with a certain proportion of soup and small beer. The work was also voluntary, and was paid for at the rate of 4d. of 6d. per day. Dartmoor Castle is a memorial of their industry. Those confined elsewhere found employment chiefly in manufacturing all kinds of ornaments out of any rubbish they might find lying about which was sold to visitors, and that some found their enforced sojourn in this country unprofitable and they gathered from the fact that many sold their turn for exchange to their comrades for trifling sums, and some were known to return home with as much as a hundred pounds in their possession.

"GLEN LYON" LOTS FOR AUCTION HERE

Valuable Vancouver Property
In Heart of New C. N. R. Development Will be Auctioned
By McCallum & Co., Ltd.,
8th Ave. and 3rd St. West,
In Calgary.

Arrangements have been made by the firm in charge of the sale of "Glen Lyon," the property lying close to the suburban end of the great tunnel which will carry the Canadian Northern into the heart of Vancouver, to have a sale of the lots offered at auction in this place. This comes in response to a demand on the part of a number of intending investors in Calgary, and is in line with the sales policy of the firm in charge. It is not yet known just what section of "Glen Lyon" will be put on here, but it is stated by the firm's representatives that some of the best lots in the property will be knocked down to the highest bidders locally. The auction method of selling reliable properties is one that is gaining in favor in Western Canada, and it is one that has many good points both for the purchaser and for the vendor, although, of course, it would hardly be a paying proposition to offer anything but first class property in such manner.

"Glen Lyon," lying on the north arm of the Fraser, which Sir Donald Mann has described as the coming industrial district of Greater Vancouver, is one of the fortunate properties that happen to be on the very spot where some great transformation is to take place. It is property that cannot help but increase rapidly in value, owing to the development work for greater industrial space to serve the expansion of the Coast Metropolis. The date of the sale here will be Saturday, June 14, and on the same date sales are also to be held at Medicine Hat, Moose Jaw, Swift Current, Regina, Brandon, Portage La Prairie, Winnipeg, Weyburn, Saskatoon, Yorkton, Edmonton, Lacombe and Lethbridge.

FRUITGROWERS MADE THOUSANDS BY RAIN

St. Catharines, Ont., June 7.—Friday night's rainstorm, instead of causing any damage to the orchards of the fruit belt, was just what was required. It is estimated that the downpour was worth many thousands of dollars to the district. The accompanying storm was not heavy enough to cause any damage.
