Street Car Discrimination.

"This is too bad!" asid a lady.

"What is too bad?" asked the sympathetic bystander.

It was on the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets.

The time was a little after 10 p.m.

The lady explained that cars ran up and down Dundas street till a comparatively late hour, while the last Richmond street north left Dundas street at 10 p.m. The result is that if one were calling anywhere along the Dundas street ast line, it would be necessary to leave not much later than 9:30 in order to catch the last car on Richmond street going north!

"Why," explained the complainer, "do they make arbitrary decision that the people up Richmond street must be put to bed earlier than people living in London East?" Street Car Discrimination.

The complaint is a just one and must be remedied. The Street Railway Company gets a valuable privilege in using our streets—a privilege for which Toronto now obtains a large sum—and the citizens must —By mutual arrangement, almost all the prayer meetings in this city are now held on Wednesday evening.
