Dr. Radway & Co.—As an introduction I must make the fellowing remarks:
Had each one of the lawmakers of our country the virtues and power of your pills, America would soon become a paradise. That your pills would conquer the obstinacy of my complaint is more than wonderful. The movement of my bowels is as regular as the works of a good watch. I began with four pills and decreased to two, and for a long time took one two hours before dinner, and have a watery movement of the bowels every morning. It is seven weeks since I have taken any of your pills, but still have regular movement every morning.

Kind gentlemen, I wish further to tell you: A poor washerwoman that suffered from a tumor and would have paid $150 for an operation, I dissuaded from doing so. Owing to her tumor she was obliged to stay in bed, but now she has gone to Pennsylvania, cured through taking your pills and Resolvent, as you directed in your treatise on tumor. Respectfully,

A. When St. St. E. 134th St., New York.

We have the evidence of a large number of aged persons from 60 to 80 years of age, who have been cured of this defect who had been compelled to resort to injections to empty their bowels, by the use of Radway's Pills. Two or three pills every night in all cases insure a natural evacuation from the bowels and the regular flow of urine. In cases where there is irritation of the bladder the Reselvent should be used alternately with the pills. If these organs are kept regular life may be extended to a much longer period. ARDENT LOVER'S LENGTHY CHASE

Followed Woman From Chicago to Newark, N. J.

PURSUED HER FOR TWO YEARS

Wouldn't Marry Him, and Landed in Jail.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 26.-Charged with attempting to kill a woman whom he has followed from city to city for two years in the vain attempt to persuade her to marry him, William A. Magurn, a traveling salesman, has been arrested in this city. A complaint of atrocious assault and battery, with intent to kill, has been made against him by Mrs. Harry Root, a detective in a local store. Magurn called the other night at Mrs. Root's boarding place. She had told him his attentions must cease. When she learned he had entered the house she refused to see him, but he sent her word he had some important pers for her. She then came into the front parlor on the ground floor of the house, and they sat together for about half an hour. As he made no mention of the papers, she concluded he had simply sought an excuse to see her, and told him to go. know you mean me harm," she Magurn protested he did not.

"I will go," he said, "if you will let me kiss you first." He stepped up to Mrs. Root and she repulsed him. Then, it is alleged, he drew a revolver, sprang on her, pressed the muzzle against her head and told her he was going to kill her Her right arm was pinioned at her side. With her left hand she struck the barrel of the revolver upwards. Then she seized the hand which held the There was a desperate struggle. She screamed for help, but none of the other boarders in the house

HURLED HIM BACK.

By a desperate effort she forced Magurn to the door and hurled him against the wall of the hallway. Then she turned and dashed along the hall, threw open a door and fell into a room where several women were sitting. A young man who boards in the house heard the sound of the struggle in the hall and came running out. Magurn saw him and fled.

There was great excitement in the house. Mrs. Root almost was prostrated from the effects of her desperate encounter. As soon as she recovered she went to police headquarters and asked that Magurn be arrested. Detectives were sent out and found him after an hour's search in a saloon, somewhat the worse for liquor.

MET IN CHICAGO. Mrs. Root says she met Magurn for the first time while she was a detective in a Chicago department store. He became infatuated with her, and for a time his sentiments were reciprocated. He obtained a position with a house furnishing store in Chicago, to be near her. They became engaged, and the wedding was set for the fol-

Soon after she had promised to become Magurn's wife, Mrs. Root says, he began to drink heavily. She reasoned with him, but it did no good. The wedding date was postponed, and two years ago, because of his objectionable habits, she says she bloke the engagement. He still was pe sistent in his attentions, Mrs. Root says, and to escape him she went to Riverside, Mich., and obtained employment in a store. He found out where she was and followed her. She went to Siginaw, and he followed her there. Then she tried Detroit, but could not shake

Not long ago she went to New York, believing that in that city she could lese him, but her blief was a delusion. In New York she was a store de ective. Magurn came to the store every day, and try as she would she could not shoke him off, she says. At length his persistent attentions be came objecti n be to her employers, When she came here she again tried so stake him off her trail, but again

Necessity for the Education of Our Artisans-Importance of an Outlet for Trade.

Toronto, Jan. 26.-Mr. A. E. Ames, the retiring president of the Toronto Board of Trade, on Friday night entertained his colleagues upon the council and a number of friends at a private banquet at the Toronto Club. Among the guests were Hon. George W. Ross, who made an important speech. The Premier said in part:

CANADA'S IMMEDIATE NEEDS. The three matters most worthy of immediate consideration for Canada, Mr. Ross went on, are education, transportation and repulation. By education I mean the ducation of our artisans in the production of first-class goods for home and foreign markets, so as to give a standing to Canada as a trustworthy producer in the markets of the world. It should be a sufficient recommendation for our Magurn is a Canadian, about 38 years old. When searched at police head-butter, cheese, furniture, machinery quarters he had in his pockets a ticket and the varied production of our facof membership in the Y. M. C. A. of Grand Rapids, Mich., and several pawn tickets. It is believed these repsettles its intrinsic value, and every board of trade in Canada should keep resent property he pledged to get money erough to follow Mrs. Root about the country. this in view. Under education I desire further to include the education of the people of Great Britain in the teeming resources of Canada, in its climate and in the industrial energy of its people. To that end I would have OR GRAVEL no hesitation in encouraging the expenditure of a considerable sum of money either for the establishment of

We ask no favors, but we think we have a right to expect that British gold will be expended in the British colonies so long and so often as 20 shillings will buy as much here as they will in the markets of any other country.

THE EAST AND WEST.

The question of transportation, to use a common expression, is worked ly picture more acute and agonizing rather hard in one of two lines. We suffering than that caused by kidney hear a great deal about discrimination hear a great deal about discrimination in freights, in which there is some element of truth. I think it is quite certain that justice is not done to ship-As is well known, it is the duty of pers at every distributing point in the Province. To my mind, however, this is a minor matter, having regard to poison from the blood, or, in other words, the impure waste matter taken the future development of the country, and if I could presume to sketch When in health the kidneys perform out a policy for Canada I would ask this work perfectly, but when over-worked on account of excessive eating the farsighted leaders of public opinion and the captains of our industries to and drinking or improper diet, and sit down and study the natural courses of trade, having regard to existing conditions, but more particularly having regard to the relation in which the eastern half of Canada stands comurine the uric acid forms into small mercially to the great Northwest as well as to the contiguous States of the It is when these stones pass into the American Union. CHOOSE AN OUTLET FIRST. There are the two important propositions involved in transportation, viz., existing conditions and future development. With regard to the first, ur eastern outlet is the most urgent. What are the possibilities of the St. Lawrence route is, to my mind, the key to the situation. Will Montreal Quebec be our main seaport for summer traffic? If there is any doubt as to the feasibility of making Montreal our summer seaport, that doubt should be removed. What I desire to say is that we should thoughtfully, cientifically and almost regardless of expense settle the question of transportation by the St. Lawrence route, and, having settled it, bend all our the veins of the patient of antiseptic solutions in large quantities. Dr. Thomas Grant Allen has been a close collaborator of Dr. Wilfrid G. Fralick, of New York, the first physician to use the method in this country. Three thousand infusions have been made by Drs. Fralick and Allen, with highly satisfactory results, and it is possible that an institution will soon be established in Chicago for the treatment of tuberculosis and other diseases by the new method. In telling of his work, Dr. Allen said today: "Dr. Fralick's method differs from that of the Italian baccilli in that he uses large quantities of comparatively non-poisonous antiseptics He cuts down to the vein, exposing it for a short distance. Then the fluid is introduced by inserting either a needle or a canula into the vein and allowing it to run in by gravity. A comparatively small vein, such as the radical, is usually selected, and the quantity infesed varies from six to twenty ounces. The temperature of the fluid is maintained at 110 degrees to 115 degrees Fahrenheit. The treatment has been remarkably successful in the first stage of tuberculosis and very beneficial in advanced stages of the disease. "The new method has been used in cases of carcinoma, lupus, typhoid fever and septicaemia, as well as tuberculosis. Last summer I used the method on myself, for typhoid fever, and was gratified at the result. "Four recent cases treated by me are remarkable. In two of these the patients were in the last stages of tuberculosis, and were not expected to live more than a few weeks treatment ceased in July last, but both natients have gained flesh.

Transportation and Population energies to make it as perfect as the Mersey or the Clyde for navigation

Having settled our summer seaport, then take simi'ar precautions to determine a winter seaport, and from these radiate as to control every rill and riv-ulet of local trade from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and if there is to be another New York in America, let its foundations be laid somewhere upon Canadian soil. As to future commercial routes the same prescience should be exercised. We need another transcontinental railway, and we need it soon, and perhaps you, sir, may live long enough-I hope you will-to see three or more transcontinental railways. Railways not only convey trade, but they produce trade, and under ordinary circumstances fertilize every mile of country through which they pass. Can we get the trade of the American Northwest as well as of our own Northwest? I think we can, either by way of the Georgian Bay and the Canadian Atlantic, or by Collingwood or Owen Sound through Toronto, which to us here would be even the better way. But we cannot get it without an effort. Speaking of the doctrine of election to a parishioner who disputed it, a negro preacher said that he never heard of a man being elected who was not a candidate. We must be candidates for this trade, just as the Suez Canal is a candidate for the trade of the Orient, and has got that trade. What the Government should do with regard to these great problems I am unable to say. We would never have had a C. P. R. without the Government, nor would we have had our canal system, nor our Intercolonial Railway. I do not think that Government initiative is yet exhausted. Canada can afford to spend $10 a day on national de velopment for every dollar she could afford 25 years ago, and the money wisely spent would yield a better dividend than the diamond mines of Johannes-

My third measure is population. Stuart Mill said, "Give yourself no trouble about consumption, if you want to build up a market. Production is the secret of commercial supremacy." Perhaps Stuart Mill was right. I prefer, however, accepting the dual proposition that consumption and production should go together. What is the cause of the great increase of wealth in Canade in the last ten years? It is not so much from the increase of popula-tion as from increased production. But population means consumption as well as production-a home market as well as power to take possession of a foreign market. It means national strength—a feeling of security and independence. For the promotion of these three great ends boards of trade have done a great deal-can do a great deal more. We must not fear the future. We must rather invite the future, with its risks as well as its responsibilities. We must push out beyond the pillars of Hercules; we may even be obliged to sail in lone seas; if so, let us sail them with confidence. The destiny of Canada is, I believe, to be a great nation, and we must remember the words of Tennyson:

NEED OF POPULATION.

"Pray heaven we may not greatness Through craven fear of being great."

If, however, the population could be doubled, how rapidly the figures would run up into the millions! Our trade today is greater per head than the trade of the United States, and crowds hard upon the trade of Great Britain, and still we are but a fragmentary line at the basis of one of the most productive portions of the world. We stand in Ontario ten to the square mile, or for Canada less than two to the square mile, while Britain has 350 and the United States 21. Our industries are crying for more help—our farmers are embarrassed for the want of help; our prairies invite the plowshare and the harvester; our minerals, cold and sullen, are waiting for the flush of the smelting furnace. goods that we could produce ourselves are pouring in upon us by every steamship and railway train. England buys 160,000,000 bushels of grain a year, and we send her less than 20,000,000. She buys 400,000,000 pounds of dressed meat and we send her a few thousand pounds. She consumes 500,000 tons of pulp and we send her 50,000 or 60,000 Who should satisfy the voracity of this monstrous power that employs the greatest mercantile navy in the world to feed it and to supply it with colonies that regard it with reverence and sometimes with affection because ts place in the civilization of the

MURDERED HIS GIRL WIFE

When attacked Saturday night she was with Miss Laura When attacked Saturday Philps, at whose home she had been stopping since Thursday. She saw her husband before he approached her and told the girl she thought there would be trouble

Radliski asked her to accompany him across the street, saying he had something to tell her. She refused to go, saying, "It's the same old story, Frank; you have made me many a promise, but you have broken every one. We are parted now for good. I shall never live with you again."

She had barely finished when he threw his arm around her neck and drawing a knife plunged it into the right side of her neck. He then drew it forward and turned it half around, inflicting a fatal wound.

Fearing that his job was not complete he struck again, this time on the shoulder. His last effort was to strike her breast, but his wife threw up her hand and her fingers caught the force of the blow. One of them was cut almost off. Residents were attracted by the screams of the woman, but not until Radliski had made his escape. After being stabbed the woman was taken to the home of Charles Day, where her friends had assembled and were holding the party she was about to join. When taken to the hospital later asked that her husband be forgiven, and said she was willing to share the blame. At last accounts the murderer had not been arrested.

TWO BIG EARTH-CRACKS

Whitman, Mass., Jan. 26.-The selectnen of Whitman have been asked to investigate one of the strangest problems. They must determine to their own satisfaction whether Lakeview, a suburb, has suffered from an earthquake or not. The other morning, just before sunrise, the residents there were awakened by a rumbling noise that lasted a few seconds, and was followed by a muffled roar last-ing a little longer.
