THE FIRST Public Anniversary of the Toronto Mission Union held on Thursday, May 14th, was a meeting which will be looked back to with much pleasure, and with devout gratitude to God. Aside from the reports as to the blessing which has been vouchsafed the work, there was clearly demonstrated the fact that there is a platform upon which all Christians may unite.

That while there may be differences as to doctrine and as to Church government, there is after all a oneness of heart and desire with all true followers of the Lord.

On the platform every Evangelical Denomination in the City was represented by one or more of its ministers, and all united in grateful acknowledgment of the good which had been accomplished through the Mission Union. We could only wish that our space were sufficient to enable us to report some of the addresses, but, such being impossible, we must content ourselves with one or two points touched upon. One speaker (Rev. P. McF. McLeod), expressed his pleasure at the fact that Toronto had not acted as some of the cities of the old land, by waiting till the evils had become so vast as to render it a herculean task to cope with them, but had taken hold while the City, its sins and sorrows were comparatively infantile in proportion.

W. Gooderham, Esq., said that when Mr. Fegan came to America with his last lot of boys, some person asked where he would gather more. "Why," he answered, "that will be no
