

THE TYRO.

A SPECIAL COURSE is arranged in the third and fourth years, for young women desirous of thorough culture. This course includes Mathematics, Latin, French and German, Natural Science, Mental and Moral Philosophy, &c. A prominent feature of all the courses of study in the Institute, and one deserving of attention, is the continuous and critical reading of the best English authors. The are by no means neglected. Provision is made for regular instruction by competent teachers and at very moderate charges, in Instrumental Music, in Pencil and Crayon Drawing, and in Painting in Water Colors and Oil.

FINE ARTS

Those wishing information in regard to the Theoretical Department of this School are requested to apply to Da. Fyfe.
