"OPEN DIPLOMACY" AGAIN KNOCKED OUT

Provision Made for Secret Session on Arrival of German Delegates.

Paris, April 23.—The first of President Wilson's fourteen points, for open diplomacy, is again being put to the test in the arrangements for Versailles congress. The announcement of the probable arrival of the German delegation on April 28, postpones the opening session from Friday to Monday. An executive session is provided for, with no admission to the meeting or within the building in which the session is held. A pavilion in the neighboring gardens will provide accommodations for the press. The American correspondents are to hold a meeting to consider a protest to the American delegation concerning the secrecy of the proceedings.

President Wilson's plans for his departure have not been changed since he formed the determination to leave about May 20.

It is his purpose to await the signing of the treaty and personally attach his signature as senior American plenipotentiary.

The final drafting of the treaty is proceeding with difficulty, owing to the vast magnitude of the task and the great number of topics partially concluded. The force working on the draft has been doubled and the government printing facilities have been largely augmented.

An official summary of the treaty for publication after its delivery has been prepared, but the date on which it will be given out has not yet been fixed.

PLAYS, PICTURES AND MUSIC,

"Chu Chin Chow."

After more than a year of preliminary announcements lauding "Chu Chin Chow" to the skies, that famous musical extravaganza of the Orient will be seen all next week commencing Monday evening at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, under the management of William Elliott, F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest.

This big London and New York musical success is a story of ancient Bagdad, written by Oscar Asche, with music by Frederick Norton, and was staged by E. Lyall Swete. "Chu Chin Chow" is now in the third year of its London success, and comes to Toronto with a record of an entire year at the Century Theatre, New York. The same cast and complete production will be seen here, while the costumes, all of which were made in London, are exact duplicates of the originals.

T.C.C. Minstrels Tonight.

Beginning this (Thursday) evening the Toronto Canoe Club Minstrels will be seen for the rest of the week at the Princess Theatre with a matinee Saturday afternoon. This is the fifth annual show of the aquatic club, which is now firmly entrenched in the affection of local theatregoers. Amusing features abound in the well arranged program, in which no less than 120 performers, 20 end men and 100 in the chorus, take part. Many new features will be introduced, while the songs and music are of an appealing and tuneful character. Will G. Reilly is the interlocutor and Jack Strathdee the musical director. Popular prices will prevail for all performances.

Barry McCormack in "Macushla."

An Irish play without an informer, without treason, murder or even an abduction—that is the novelty that will be presented at the Grand Opera House next week, when Barry McCormack comes here in "Macushla," a four-act comedy drama by Aida Johnson Young. Even more startling is the announcement that not a single pair of knickerbockers are worn by any of the men. In other words, "Macushla" is an absolutely up-to date Irish play, written, mounted, cast and costumed just like any other modern play that is intended for a Broadway production in New York following this tour. In spite of these departures from the accustomed Irish play it is promised that "Macushla" has thrills and laughs, romance and song and such stage pictures of actual spots in the Emerald Isle as will warm the hearts of all who remember the old country and all who appreciate a rollicking love story well told.

Shea's Next Week.

Mme. Petrova, the distinguished musical comedy and picture star, is to appear at Shea's Theatre next week in a symphony of beauty, color and song. Mme. Olga Petrova is appearing in vaudeville for a few weeks only. This renowned actress will be remembered for her successful appearance in the leading role of the "The Quaker Girl," as well as for her vaudeville and picture engagements. She heads a bill of all star acts which includes a special extra attraction entitled "Petticoats." This is a comedy in one act by John B. Hymer and Grace Dunbar Nile, with a clever company, will be seen to advantage in it. George Moran and Charles Mack, "Two Black Crows," are among the funniest of black face comedians to be seen here in many a day, while the Four Readings have a clever and sensational juggling act. Jack Patton and Loretto Marks in "Just Class"; Walter Weems, the merry southern humorist; Zeno and Mandel and Willie Hale and Co. complete an attractive entertainment.

At Loew's Theatre.

Clara Kimball Young, who will be seen in "The Road Thru the Dark," at Loew's Theatre and Winter Garden next week, does not depart from her superb type of emotional acting in this production, in which she takes the part of a young French girl who falls in love with an American army officer. The scenes are laid in America and Europe with the more important scenes in France. A musical comedy extravaganza, "Just a Girl," featuring Blanche Boone and Ina Mitchell and a Winter Garden chorus, will headline the vaudeville. The theme, the music and the dances offered are all new. Muriel Hudson and Dave Jones, formerly of Ziegfeld's Follies, and Lew Fields shows, have an original musical comedy offering, "On the Bridal Path." Other acts embrace Mlle. Busse's performing dogs; Allen and Averett, in a revue of popular melodies; Peppino and Perry, Italian instrumentalists, and the Hill-Ackerman Co., in "Smiles and Tumbles." The comedy film introduces "Mutt and Jeff" in "Mutt, the Mutt Trainer." Loew's British-Canadian weekly will also be shown.

Hippodrome Next Week.

William Farnum will lead the bill at Shea's Hippodrome next week in a great, big, splendid story, "Fighting Blood," for which the background is a Kentucky lumber camp. Never in the history of Farnum's success on the screen has he appeared in a story more suitable to him and it is said that in its presentation he adds new laurels to his already famous career. There are a number of very fine vaudeville numbers for next week. Duquesne, vaudeville's greatest comedy illusionist, has a way of "putting over" his portion of the program with originality. The merits of the bill are further enhanced by the appearance of Townsend, Wilbur Company and the sketch, "The Smart Alex." Pat. Barrett, the entertaining monologist, is remarkably clever, and Hayden and Ercelle present an offering acceptable to any audience. Corelli and Gillette and the Pathe News complete the entertainment.

At the Gayety.

Barney Gerard has a great card in Mabelle Courtney, a cultivated coloratura soprano, who is doing wonderfully well with his "Follies of the Day," which will be the attraction at the Gayety, beginning with a matinee on Monday next in a revue of last season's successes, entitled "Polly's Going Up." Miss Courtney does several big numbers during the performance, aside from leading some of the larger ensembles.

At the Star.

"Speedway Girls!" What a name—and what a show. A self-starting sixty horsepower, twin-six production that moves along at such a breakneck pace that it takes your breath away—yes, and leaves you speechless with surprises except for the "ahs" and "ohs."

Beginning Monday matinee, this burlesque speed demon will entertain patrons at the Star Theatre twice daily for week of April 28.

This attraction is in no sense a musical comedy, but strictly a burlesque show—a greater burlesque show—the kind you have always hankered after, but which no burlesque manager has ever offered.

"The Heart of Humanity."

"The Heart of Humanity," which comes to the Allen next week, is not a gruesome war story, but a play destined to live forever in the hearts of those who see it. It is the story of the love that lives in a mother's heart, of the love that dwells in the hearts of all sweethearts, of the love that exists in the hearts of all husbands and wives.

The story opens in a picturesque community in the Canadian northwest, where Nanette marries John Patricia. News of the conflict in Europe comes to the little community on the wedding day and a call is issued for recruits. Four of the five sons (including John) of the widow Patricia, respond. The first year of the conflict is an anxious one for Nanette and the widow Patricia. Finally, the little wife decides to enlist as a Red Cross nurse, and goes overseas to take care of the orphaned French and Belgian children. Husband and wife are reunited after a series of thrilling scenes. Later there is a happy reunion in Canada, a reunion which crowns with complete happiness the work of Nanette.

Nazimova is Coming.

It is always a source of gratification to be able to present to the motion picture public of Toronto the charming and versatile star, Mme. Alla Nazimova. Next week the Regent offers her latest production, "Out of the Fog," as the principal attraction. This film is an adaptation of "Ception Shoals," the play in which Nazimova herself created a sensation in New York. The wonderful dramatic ability of this wonderful woman has been the talk of critics not only in Toronto but in all theatrical centres, and it is expected that this picture will endear her to the hearts of Regent patrons to a greater extent than any of her previous releases. There will be a Harold Lloyd comedy, the Regent News Weekly, Frank Bessenger, tenor soloist, in addition to selections by the famous Regent orchestra.

Billie Rhodes at Madison.

An exceedingly delightful comedy-drama is "The Lamb and the Lion," which, with charming Billie Rhodes in the lead, will form the feature at the Madison Theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday. The fascinating and versatile star has one of the best parts of her screen career.

Grainger Recital Tonight.

A most attractive program has been arranged for the Percy Grainger piano recital to be given in Massey Hall tonight. The composers represented are Bach, Liszt, Chopin, Greig and Grainger—in all, it is a characteristic Grainger program. Two hundred rush seats will be sold at 50c.

"Tea For Three."

"Tea For Three," brightest and gayest of Broadway comedy successes, comes to the Royal Alexandra for the week of May 5, following the engagement of "Chu Chin Chow." Written by Roi Cooper Mergue. "Tea For Three" has created a sensation among theatre-goers at the Maxine Elliott Theatre, where it has been playing to capacity audiences for the past twelve months. Critics and dramatic reviewers have been unanimous in acclaiming it a gem of literary merit and bright, sparkling wit. A specially organized company headed by Elsa Ryan, famous for her splendid interpretations of the star roles in "Out There," and "Peg O' My Heart" will be seen in Toronto. Other members of the company are Norman Hackett and Hayden Stevenson, Mara Koval and S. Sydney Chon.

"Fiddlers Three" Next Week.

"Fiddlers Three," the book and lyrics by William Cary Duncan, and music by Alexander Johnstone, is announced as the attraction coming to the Princess next week beginning Monday. The sale of seats begins this (Thursday) morning.

Enid Bennett at Strand.

A girl who had been a New York cabaret dancer long enough to believe there was no such thing as real love; then on the scorched Arizona desert found a real man—two of them—that was the experience of the character in "Partners Three," played by clever, dashing Enid Bennett. The surprises awaiting her make up the story of this red-blooded photoplay showing at the Strand Theatre today and for the remainder of the week. It has all the strong characteristics of a Thomas H. Ince production—a powerful love story, swift action, stirring adventure and a surprising conclusion. Enid Bennett's role is that of a girl confronted with every great problem that can enter a woman's life. The supporting cast is fine and the production artistic.

GIBBONS A WINNER.

San Francisco, April 23.—Mike Gibbons of St. Paul, was given a decision in a four-round bout last night over "Soldier" Bartfield of Brooklyn. They are middleweights.

"DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR

Stop dandruff and double beauty of your hair for few cents.

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Your hair appears soft, glossy and twice as thick and abundant. Try it!

PAULIST CHOIR EXCELS ITSELF

Father Finn's Choristers Repeatedly Encored at Massey Hall.

Father Finn's Paulist Choristers cannot be done justice to in any ordinary notice. It would take columns of analysis and appreciation to characterize all the excellences, all the distinction, all the art, all the masterly intent and achievement that attend the performance of such a program as delighted the audience which filled Massey Hall last night. Father Finn is generous, but gave his choristers no rest, so many encores did he tender to the eager audience. There was little difference in the applause as between solos and choruses, and the unfailing excellence of the singing in every number left little room for discrimination. What struck one most in the singing of the National Anthem at the start was the rich quality of the contraltos, full and deep-toned and golden. A Russian carol followed, in which the ethereal voices of the boy sopranos in the upper register were remarkable for utter purity of tone. Clarion clear, they rang out in the middle register, and in the concluding "All Hail!" the bell-like chime which pealed out from the full choir was perfect in its power and thrill. The exquisite crescendoes and diminuendos in the encore introduced further virtues to the audience. In the Alla Beata Trinita and the Tota Pulchra which followed, the tone purity was enchanting, and transitions from double forte to pianissimo were as faultless as the shadow flight of a cloud.

Ravishing Effect.

Father Finn's Benedictus was sung with ravishing effect. It is aeolian in its wandering harmony, and Master McManus, who sang the solo in perfect style, was encored, and gave a verse of "The Last Rose." Enunciation is not always the strongest point in the singing of the choir, but this was commendable in Palingren's "Sorrow," where definition and phrasing were also well marked. "The Lullaby" was beautifully sung, and in Schuetky's "Emite" the choir confirmed the impression that nothing conventional or commonplace could be found in their renderings. In Mr. Finnegan's absence, one of Rachmaninoff's wonderful motets was sung an encored, and a Russian "Day of Judgment" was dramatic in gravity and spirituality. Bach's Fugue was a technical triumph. In Mendelssohn's "Lift Thine Eyes," the flue tones of the sopranos and the purity of the solist contrasted with the rare contralto harmony. In the second part, Masefield's "Cargoes," by Gardiner, was sung. Father Finn reminding the audience that the satire was British. Arthur George sang impressively, his fine baritone capturing the audience, who demanded two encores. Perhaps the most artistic performance of the evening was Converse's "And the Smoke Rose Slowly." The last line of this was an example of perfect expression.

Father Finn introduced Master Dolan to bring to an end his career as a soloist. It was pathetic to listen to the "Swan Song" of this lad, who has sung to more audiences than any boy of his generation. "His voice, like a beautiful flower, is fading away," said Father Finn, but there was no symptom of it in his perfect rendering of Del Aqua's "La Villanelle." Dr. Vogt's "Indian Lullaby" was the next number. "Mother o' Mine," Burleigh's setting, was given in chorus and Master Probst sang the negro "Deep River" most beautifully, with a voice of singular purity. Gounod's chorus from Gallia, "Jerusalem," was the last item. The whole concert was the work of a choir of the highest eminence in art and spirit.

STILL DRAGGING FOR MISS BUTWELL'S BODY

A crew resumed work dragging the mouth of the Humber and the surrounding area of the lake yesterday in search of the body of Madeline Butwell, who was drowned on Sunday afternoon. The body of L.-Corp. Black, who accompanied the girl, was found on Monday. Dragging operations had to be discontinued on Tuesday on account of rough weather.

The draggers say that the bottom of the lake, near where the soldier's body was found, is covered with logs and other refuse, making it almost impossible to make much headway in the search. It is thought that the body has been caught beneath one of these obstructions.

BRANTFORD MEN OF FOURTH.

Out-of-town members of the 4th Battalion slept in the agricultural building, Exhibition Grounds, last night. They number approximately 600 men, 200 of whom will go back to Brantford. It was stated last night that a very large aggregation of the 4th Battalion men would accompany the Brantford contingent and take part in the feature parade, which is to be held this evening in that city.

A note of interest attaches to the fact that Major-General C. E. Ashton, adjutant-general of the Dominion forces, is a Brantford man, and was at one time the O.C. The 38th Dufferin Rifles are well represented in the "Mad Fourth."

TUNNELING CORPS HOME.

Among the heroes welcomed yesterday by the thousands of Toronto's eager citizens were 15 officers and 377 other ranks from the Tunneling Corps of the Engineers. Among these were men who had not only seen service from the commencement of the great war, but who had also served in previous campaigns. They were all demobilized at the Exhibition Grounds before 9 p.m.

TORONTO ENGLISH HONOR ST. GEORGE

Society's Banquet at Prince George Celebrates Victory.

JUSTIFIABLE PRIDE

That Once Again England's Glory Shines Untarnished.

Englishmen in Toronto celebrated St. George's Day with justifiable pride. Over four years of stern, sacrificial war has proved again that England's glory cannot fade. At their annual dinner, which was held in abeyance since the war began, the members of St. George's Society, to the number of between 200 and 300, in the Prince George Hotel last night, honored "the day" with an enthusiasm which could well be understood in the light of England's patriotism, the grim doggedness of her sons and old-time ability to pull thru on the right side. The figures which were cited by James Nicholson as to the percentage of Englishmen in the army and navy was ample reputation to people who have hankered the idea that England was not bearing her fair share of the war.

Sir Frederick Stupart, the president, was in the chair, and among those present were: Mayor Church, Bishop Sweeny, Brigadier-General McCuaig, Brigadier-General Gunn, Sir Henry Pellatt, Canon Plumptre and others.

In the empire's army, said James Nicholson, who proposed "The day, and all who honor it," 68 per cent. were English born, nearly ten per cent. Scottish, four per cent. from gallant little Wales, and owing to dissensions, three per cent. from Ireland, making 86 per cent. in all. The other 14 per cent. came from the Dominions overseas. Of the casualties 70 per cent. were English born. Sometimes it had been said that England was willing to carry on war at the expense of other people, but that was a base slander and a foul calumny, as the figures showed. He also declared of the men in the navy 88 per cent. were English born.

In the Eyes of World.

Rev. F. W. G. Clayton, who responded, said many Englishmen had the St. George's Society to thank for help when they had arrived in this country. It was a notable fact that the more British a country was the better was that country in the eyes of the world.

R. S. Hudson of the Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation, gave the toast of the Canadian army, and paid a high tribute to the achievements of the soldiers from the Dominion. He remarked they should also be proud of what England had done. The only trouble with the Englishmen was that they were too modest.

Brigadier-General McCuaig and Brigadier-General Gunn, in appropriate speeches, acknowledged the appreciation of the Canadian forces. The former stated that he was born in Toronto, and tho he was with a Montreal regiment at first, he had latterly had experience with Ontario units. He gave an interesting account of the last stages of the war, and how the Canadians had acquitted themselves. Dealing with the situation as he saw it in the occupied area in Germany, Brigadier-General McCuaig said he was impressed by the rather passive attitude of the Germans.

Mother Country's Part.

Mayor Church said it was St. George's Day and St. Julien Day, and they had also the return of the 3rd and 4th Battalions. Tho proud of what the Canadians had done, they could never forget the magnificent part played by the mother country in men and money. The British army had earned high praise, and to the fleet the civilized world owed all that it had. Alluding to the problem of getting the soldiers back to civil life, the mayor criticized instances where returned men had to pass civil service examinations for positions under the federal government, and stated the city of Toronto did not ask this. He added that when all the men got back they would educate the government and would solve the problem in a way which would be creditable to the returned men.
