HUMBER BAY.

Breakwater is Pushed Forward in the West End.

HUMBER BAY, Sept. 1.—A stone breakwater is being erected by the city along the waterfront on the Lake Shore road, at 14th way from the Humber River to Sunnyside. This will not only protect the road from the incursions of the waves, but will make the road considerably wider and give it a better appearance. A sidewalk for the convenience of pedestrians is also contemplated for this road in the near future.

NORWAY.

Officers Keep Tab on Kingston Road Highwaymen.

NORWAY, Sept. 1.—It is stated that the men engaged in the hold-up of ex-controller Fred Richardson and his father, John H. Richardson, on the Kingston road, in June, have crossed the line into the United States. Since the robbery on the Kingston road they have been seen in Owen Sound, where a warrant has been issued for their arrest on the charge of burglary.

A Man More Value Than a Tavern

The old question, "How much, then, is a man better than a sheep?" could be modernized by substituting the word tavern for sheep. Tavernkeepers say, by keeping bar, that a licensed bar is of more value to them than a man's life and soul, whereas those who think, know that a man is of more value to the country than all the drams in existence. You can show your appreciation and love for your brother men by voting LOCAL OPTION.

TORONTO JUNCTION, Sept. 1.—Rev. Dr. Pidgeon of Victoria Presbyterian Church will give his decision to the presbytery on Tuesday night as to whether he will accept the call which has been extended to him from First Presbyterian Church, London.

There are 80 cars of stock in the Union Stock Yards for to-morrow's market.

Alice Maud, the nine-year-old daughter of J. O. Schreiber, 24 Carleton-place, died last night from rheumatic fever, after an illness extending over some three months. The funeral will take place at 3.30 p.m. to-morrow to Prospect Cemetery.

Luke Joseph Dillon, aged 56 years, died to-day in St. Michael's Hospital. He is survived by three grown up daughters. The funeral will take place on Tuesday next from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. McInerney, 288 West Dundas-street, to St. Cecilia's Church, and thence to Mount Hope Cemetery.

Edith Amber Sweeten died yesterday in her 24th year at her mother's residence on Pelham-avenue. The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 2 p.m. to Prospect Cemetery.

The infant child of Mr. Allen, corner of Louisa-street and Rose-avenue, died to-day. Mrs. Allen, the child's mother, was buried last week ago. The funeral will take place to-morrow at 1 p.m. to Prospect Cemetery.

The services in Annette-street Methodist Church to-night, Rev. Dr. Hazelwood made special references to the labor question of to-day. "A man's life is not his own," he said, "it is the property of the community as a whole. We must give something for something, and not take something for nothing, else we are thieves. What does the price of all commodities we buy? It is the cost of production. It is not honest to demand the maximum scale of wages for the inferior workman, any more than to demand the lowest wage for the superior workman." Dr. Hazelwood believed that labor and capital should be federated, as each is essential for the utility and welfare of the other.

"No man is a complete man without a home of his own—when he can keep one," said the speaker. In referring to street corner orators Dr. Hazelwood affirmed that ministers are accused of being afraid of the capitalists, and that seldom are pulpits references made to the crimes of the moneyed men. "You'll never hear me preach against capital," said the speaker, "but you will hear me preach against thievery, dishonesty and trickery, whether the perpetrator is laborer or capitalist." The interest in the working class to-day is the direct product of the gospel teachings. The Church of Christ is emphatically the friend of labor and I defy any street corner orator to disprove it."

NORTH TORONTO.

Youth Meets With Mishap While Riding Horse.

NORTH TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Douglas Jeffs, son of Mr. Jeffs, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon, which at first looked as tho the lad had his leg broken. He was riding his horse home from Glenora-avenue, when the animal stumbled and fell with the boy partially underneath. James Wells, who saw the accident, came to his rescue, and carried the lad into his house, where his injuries were attended to. He was afterwards conveyed to his home, where he is now recovering. The lad did not suffer a fracture, but the young fellow will be laid up for a couple of weeks.

Rev. J. F. Scott of Rodney, Ont., occupied the Eglington Presbyterian pulpit to-day, both morning and evening.

EAST TORONTO.

Local Ball Team Lose by Very Close Margin.

EAST TORONTO, Sept. 1.—The final game between the East Torontos and the Evangelists in the local league, and which was played off on the athletic grounds here to-night, was full of interest from first to last, resulting in a score of 4 to 3 in favor of the Evangelists. Trebilcock, who was scheduled to pitch for the locals, was suffering greatly from strained arm, and although doing excellent work, was forced to retire, and was succeeded by Shaw, who was very wild, allowing the visitors three runs. He was replaced by Frank Taylor, who held the visitors down to 2 hits and 1 run. The winners of yesterday's match have still two games to play with the Balm Beach Club. If the latter win both of these the pennant will remain in East Toronto, if only one there will be a final game between the Evangelists and the locals.

Great credit is due the East Toronto team for the manner in which they played, in the face of difficulties.

MARKHAM.

Big Works Closed for a Week—Farms Change Hands.

MARKHAM, Sept. 1.—Farm property in Markham Township continues to sell well, as proved by the sale of 100 acres belonging to Mrs. Geo. Halse, a part of the old Haacke estate, on lot 18, near county line, of Markham Township for $400 cash. Tilman McDowall was the purchaser.

The farm is greatly in need of repair, and the price is regarded as fair.

"LETTERS ON THE EXHIBITION"

By DR. QUILL.

MY DEAR AUNT MAGGIE:

Please excuse me for being so long in writing. I am just enjoying a resting place in a quiet corner of the exhibition, and thought that I would describe a "butter-making contest," which appealed to me as a very "funny thing," yet, upon reflection, one of the many good exhibits at the fair.

Just imagine yourself, and remember you have to dress up to be a dairymaid in this "splendid century of ours," in beautifully laundered white, and tiny cap to match. There are four others all of whom I shall designate—dangerous tho it be for "a man." The churning day has arrived, with every modern invention at hand, hot water steaming in readiness. Nothing is yet doing save an occasional plunge of a thermometer in the ready cream, with ominous signs that the same is prime. The gallery is fairly good, no doubt composed of admiring husbands, "and others." Then, too, the lady-referee, whose keen eye might see specks on the sun itself.

Now, Auntie, hold your breath, for the quintet are off. It is a "five-mile" race, and among so many strainers, lids and ladles, a little nervousness would make a "sorry spectacle." They all glide away quite gently. The churns are scalded; the cream strained and deposited; springs and plugs secured, and then you hear the machines go "mergily like marriage bells."

Brown-eyed Lady is in the lead clearly and neatly; Princess Mary closely pursuing; Madame entering with unruffled nerves. But as both Butternut and Maple Leaf have difficulty with the stiff levers of their machines they are handicapped by "half a length."

There is not much to say about this "strenuous part of the race." We noticed, however, that Lady believed in the "virtue of hustle," while Madame's deft hand seemed to woo the yellow beads to the surface. Her speed was slow, yet effective. Soon she saw gleams of light on the signal and was the first to peep into the maelstrom. Fortunately "it" was there.

Princess Mary, as sprightly as her namesake who makes the "famous bread," applied the hot-water remedy. But Lady, whose beginning was so promising, labored hard and must have decided that Saturday for both marrying and churning was "no day at all." Maple Leaf, however, was following swiftly, now with right, then left, while Butternut looked earnestly for "Blucher or night." It seemed "awfully mean," but Madame by this time had the tart liquid draining from the tap, and showing that women at least can "do many things at once."

Lady was not so unlucky after all, and into her sweetly cleansed tub the yellow article was raised, she could not but see that Madame was almost finished "mixing" in her angular machine. Princess must have felt like "hurting something," for, in spite of hot water and every seductive art, there was nothing but "labor and sorrow." And it became a question whether she might lose her position as third.

Madame seemed now to be satisfied with the grade which resulted from the steady application of ladle and roller, for we noticed that she was "printing for dear life." Lady was succeeding well, being ready for the salt, but the belated trio, by whipping up their energies, unfortunately got their "ropes tangled," with the result that here was a splash, there a leak, and yonder a "muff." Nothing, however, escaped the Referee, who might be supposed to fear a drop of spilled milk with all her horror of microbes.

No doubt Madame was now conceded to be first. Lady was a good second, altho her mixer had the "rattles." Maple Leaf and Princess were surely exemplifying the training of their respective schools, for both were able to do with butter what the potter performs with clay. Madame, however, was not in for "form," altho she finished with as tidy a dairy house as you yourself, Aunt Maggie, ever had down there at the spring.

I did not wait for the end. It was thru fear that I left. For if, in the final clear-up, Butternut had dropped her ladle or Maple Leaf forgotten her brush, I might have fainted.

Now, Auntie, long live the Queen of Butter-makers! What do you say about getting down to practice and showing what "our people" can do? Remember also that we are depending on you for a "good tub" this fall. Kind regards to Uncle. Bye-Bye.

containing 50 acres sold to Alex. Douglas for $4500.

Markham Village is confronted with a problem, as to how best raise money to pay off current expenses.

The public school cost $1000 more than was thought, or was provided for, the issue of debentures.

The electric light plant is greatly overtaxed, and the town must either refuse new applications, cut off some 50 light bulbs, or largely increase the capacity of the plant.

The approaches to the new bridge over the Rouge are not yet completed, and provision must be made for the cost of the work, or the other roads and sidewalks will go unprovided for another year.

Judge Morgan will hold division court in the town hall here on Wednesday.

The Speight Manufacturing Co. closed their extensive works here last night for one week to permit of the machinery being overhauled and enable the employees to visit the exhibit.

The management being at a low cost, its growth is healthy and steady, and the insurance benefits are secured to members at actual cost.

Guessing Contest.

In connection with this exhibit a guessing contest has been inaugurated which will be open to all visitors to the exhibition. A prize of $20 will be awarded to the person guessing the correct number of packages used in the erection of the stand. Everyone has an equal chance, the contest remaining open until the 15th inclusive. A coupon is handed to each contestant, on which he (or she, as the case may be) is required to write down their estimate of the number of packages and their name and address, after which it should be returned to one of the representatives in charge of the stall. The person fortunate enough to guess correctly will be notified and requested to call at 30 Church-street for the cheque.

Royal Arcanum.

The above order is represented on the society roll for the first time in the history of the exhibition. It was founded in Massachusetts and is now in Ontario. All members are invited to visit the tent and also to attend a grand rally of the Toronto council at St. George's Hall, Elm-street, on Thursday evening, Sept. 5, at 8 o'clock.

The order is composed of men of good moral character, over twenty years of age. Benefits are promptly paid upon the death of a member without either trouble or cost to the beneficiaries. The management being at a low cost, its growth is healthy and steady, and the insurance benefits are secured to members at actual cost.

The Foresters' Tent. Wholesome and hearty is the welcome extended to the exhibition visitor at the luxurious tent of the Independent Order of Foresters, in the premier position at the end of Society Row. This location has become a landmark of the landmarks of the exhibition by reason of the warmth of the reception that is accorded every visitor, and thousands are now accustomed to make the Foresters' tent their rendezvous for the purpose of meeting friends and renewing old acquaintances. As of yore, the headquarters of this popular fraternal organization are in charge of Mr. George A. Mitchell, superintendent of field work, who has become so widely and favorably known among the members of the Order as a past master in extending the glad hand to prospective members. He is ably assisted by two worthy Deputy Supreme Chief Rangers, Mr. Jas. Glenning and Mr. J. C. Davidson, each of whom has a wide circle of acquaintances in the Order, and is not kept busy in the renewal and extension of friendships. The tent is decorated in the most artistic way, the adornments having been chosen with the best taste and creating an impression of comfort and ease. A striking feature is a life-sized portrait of the late Supreme Chief Ranger Hon. Dr.

These representatives are handing out to visitors a concise and striking summary of the benefits to be derived from membership in the Order. They are very enthusiastic about the wonderful impression that has been made on the many members of the Order by Hon. Elliot G. Stevenson, successor to the late Supreme Chief Ranger. He has just returned from visiting nine High Courts, three of which were held in Ontario. From these he received a full expression of the confidence they had in him as their supreme leader. It will be very gratifying to the members to know that the strides made in the past six months have far exceeded all previous records. The surplus has now passed the $11,000,000 mark, and the membership is over 256,000. This will be further increased by a scheme now under contemplation for the establishment of a memorial class as a living monument to the late revered Supreme Chief Ranger. It is expected that at least 20,000 new members will be added through this plan.

The Foresters' tent always presents a pleasing opportunity for taking a rest after doing the grounds, and a hearty welcome is assured to any of the members or their friends who make a call. The members are presented with a button emblematic of their connection with the Order and the reception accorded them is of such a cordial nature that non-members are sure to wish that they, too, were enrolled under the same banner. Beautiful souvenir post cards of the Foresters' Orphanage Home can be secured at the tent.
