WANT TO BE RIFLE SHOTS VARSITY BOYS LINING UP

Great Interest Manifested by the Young Men in Their New Association.

University men have always been prominent in the arts of peace, but what has taken place in the last few days indicates that they realize the necessity for British subjects of a knowledge of the art of war. Another student society has been organized. It is what promises to be a large and efficient civilian rifle association within the university.

In the days before 1880, when Alfred Baker (now Prof. Baker) resigned the captaincy of K company, Q.O.R., the military spirit of the students found expression in the support of that company, which, until that time, was largely composed of university men. Prof. Baker was the last university man to command the company, and after his resignation the university membership in it decreased rapidly. The need of some military organization for the students was partly met by the formation of the Engineers, a company which, thanks to the enthusiasm of the students and the untiring labor of Major Ling and his lieutenants, has reached a high degree of efficiency. Unfortunately, however, the Engineers have to content themselves with the old Lee-Enfield rifles, and there is no provision for training in marksmanship. Besides this, the wide scope of the field operations which the Engineers must master necessitates a large amount of drill and occupies more time than the average student can spare, especially if he is to maintain a good record in the class and in the athletic field. The great need for training in the shooting for sports might be called on to take up arms was seen in the South African war. The Canadian militia department was not slow to take the hint, and the result was the general order of 1901, providing for the formation of rifle associations. It is in accordance with this general order that the University Rifle Association has been formed, and the students feel that they will make by no means the least skillful of marksmen.

Prize Money Support.

The credit for the formation of the rifle club is largely due to S. A. Cudmore, a prominent junior in the department of classics in University College. He conceived the idea last spring, and found, on talking it over with a few fellow-students last fall, that they were very ready to support the plan. Accordingly, Mr. Cudmore brought the matter before a large and representative gathering of arts men, held about the middle of February, this year. The meeting endorsed the scheme, and a preliminary meeting was announced for Feb. 20. At this meeting about 40 were present, and all faculties were well represented. The government regulations with regard to rifle clubs were read and discussed, and the formation of a university company carefully considered. Among others present were Prof. Vandermissen and Prof. Baker. Prof. Vandermissen was a member of the old university company in 1880, and he only wound in the Fenian Raid. He was one of the company from 1875 until 1880. Both gentlemen were very helpful, with suggestions and advice, and the newly formed association. The meeting resolved unanimously that a rifle club would be a very useful and popular organization. At a subsequent meeting, held the under-graduate representatives of the various faculties, a committee was appointed, consisting of the captain, however, was left open until March 20. On that day the association held another meeting, and unanimously selected Prof. A. T. Delury to command the company.

Many Are Sworn In.

The company was not fully under way, however, until the swearing in began on March 31. On that day 23 men took the oath before Col. T. D. Delamere and signed the service roll. At the present time 48 men have been sworn. One hundred and thirty-five have signed a promise to join the association, and these will probably be sworn in before the close of the examinations.

The city members, of whom a number are graduates of Varsity, are constituted a committee to manage the affairs of the association during the summer, and to obtain the grant of rifles and ammunition from the militia department. It is expected that the city members will do some shooting this summer, and that everything will be in readiness for all the members to begin their musing course in October.

The association considers itself fortunate in securing Prof. Delury as captain. This is a valuable qualification of being well known to all the students, both of the School of Science and University College, as he delivers lectures in both faculties. But Prof. Delury's ability in the academic way does not prevent his being thoroughly acquainted with every phase of student life. No member of the faculty is more highly esteemed by the students. E. L. McGill, the first lieutenant, was chosen chiefly on account of his experience. For three years he served in the varying capacities of private, sergeant and captain of the Cadet Company of Jarvis-street Collegiate Institute. The second lieutenant, Norman K. Wilson of the Medical School, can boast a similar experience in the Harbord-street Collegiate Institute Cadet Company. S. A. Cudmore's services in organizing the association were recognized with the post of secretary, while Emerson Wickett, a corporal of the Engineers, was chosen treasurer. The other officers are: Arts representative, A. McEvoy; representative - Toronto Medical School, C. W. Murray; S.P.S. representative, C. S. L. Hertzberg; Victoria representative, E. R. Johnston.

That the association is being wisely taken up is shown by the number of those who have signed a promise to join. This unofficial enrolment is as follows: University College, 70; Toronto Medical School, 25; School of Science, 27; Victoria University, 7. In all faculties, 135.

It is hoped that a number of graduates will soon be enrolled in the company. Several have sent in their names already. This additional bond between undergraduates and graduates will be an immeasurable benefit to the alumni.

It is found by the present executive that the most enthusiastic members of the new association are those who have had experience in cadet associations at the collegiate institutions, in which they were prepared for the university. It is only within the last two years that cadets have been allowed to shoot, and the stream of cadets is as yet only beginning to flow thru the university. The class of '08 will most likely bring with it many whose short acquaintance with rifle shooting in the cadet companies will have been sufficient to ensure their hearty support to the larger and more mature association of the university.

The rifle company is being formed not only with the entire cognizance but with the hearty support of the university authorities. President London views the project with great favor, and undoubtedly expects that the board of trustees will sign the bond required by the militia department as security for the rifles which they will send. In the event of the board failing to do this, it is understood that President London will sign it himself.

Roll of Present Members.

It is necessary for every member to swear allegiance before being allowed to share the privileges of the association. The swearing-in is now going on before Col. T. D. Delamere, who has kindly consented to swear the men at his office, in the P. O. department, in the parliament building.

A BIG WAD OF MONEY.

The general manager of the Crown Bank of Canada, Mr. O'Grady, went to Ottawa last night, taking with him gold certificates for a quarter of a million dollars, which he will deposit with the treasury department on behalf of the Crown Bank as a preliminary to obtaining the necessary license for the transaction of business. Mr. O'Grady will also take a list of nearly 400 stockholders, amounting to considerably more than the $200,000 which the Bank Act requires. The institution is now on a sound footing and will be prepared to open for business as soon as the necessary formalities are completed and the building on King-street remodeled, probably about the end of May. In the meantime the offices will continue at 23 West King-street, Bank of Commerce building.

Horses Overbalanced Car.

Charlotte, N.C., April 8.—A freight train of the Prince Edward Island Railway, which left here for Georgetown, was wrecked this afternoon. One flat car and two box cars containing seventeen horses, left the rails. All the cars overturned and were badly smashed. The horses were taken out thru the roof of the cars cut and bruised, but none fatally injured. The accident is supposed to have been caused by the horses over-balancing the cars rounding a curve.

Motorman Too Hasty.

The coroner's jury in the inquest on Mrs. Ann Kelly, who died in St. Michael's Hospital, brought in this verdict: "That deceased came to her death on Wednesday, 26th of March, 1904, at St. Michael's Hospital, from peritonitis, which may have been accelerated by the fall from street car No. 740, in her feeble condition. We, the jury, find from the evidence that undue haste was shown by the motorman in starting the car without signal from the conductor."
