THE GRAND TRUNK AGREEMENT.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company and the city council have struck a fair bargain with respect to a portion of the company's scheme of improvements. One important section of the city will benefit by the new crossing facilities at the Wortley and the Wharncliffe roads, and no substantial public interest has been sacrificed.

Both parties should now be in the mood to resume consideration of the company's larger plan. A little more diplomatic finesse might have settled the question before this. The company was not well advised in making a demand for a large cash grant toward the cost of the improvements. The request came at an advanced stage in the negotiations, and savored too much of "bluff." Several members of the council, too, have not shone in diplomacy. They have not met the company's representatives in a friendly spirit, and on occasions have been needlessly offensive. Many hundreds of citizens are dependent upon the Grand Trunk, and the company has the power to inflict great injury on the city, or to favorably influence its fortunes. It is surely good business to keep on terms of friendship with the Grand Trunk, if the city is not required to pay too high a price.

There is nothing in the agreement which has just been whipped into shape to indicate that the majority of the council have not been strictly mindful of their trust. If the company had overreached the city, the angry obstruction of two or three of the aldermen could be attributed to civic patriotism, but they will find it hard to explain, on public grounds, why they attempted to wreck the negotiations, and lose the city so valuable an asset as the goodwill of the Grand Trunk.

It is to be hoped the council will be equally careful of the citizens' interests in any further dealings with the Grand Trunk, and that the company will meet the city in as reasonable a frame of mind.

MR. MARSHALL AND THE TARIFF.

The bye-election in East Elgin, which is largely a rural riding, derives a special interest from the fact that it will take place on the eve of a session of Parliament in which the first general revision of the tariff in eight years will be undertaken.

The Conservative candidate, Mr. Marshall, stands on a platform of high protection. His private affairs incline him to that policy. He is the head of the Canadian Canning Company, and there are few industries in Canada in which the principles of combination have been more thoroughly applied. Mr. Marshall admits that his company is in control of 20 factories. This merger—Mr. Marshall objects to the word "combine"—is, of course, sheltered by the duty on canned goods, and the higher the tariff the easier it will be for the canners to control prices in the home market, and regulate production.

Mr. Marshall's election would strengthen the already powerful influences which are working for a sweeping revision of the tariff in an upward direction. The farmers of East Elgin have an opportunity of testifying whether as a class they are concerned over the tariff question. Mr. Ingram's majority two years ago was only 21, though he was an exceptional popular candidate. Mr. Marshall should be easily defeated, if the current of opposition to the high protection propaganda is as deep and strong as the Farmers' Association would have the country believe. East Elgin is typical of other constituencies in Ontario in which agricultural interests predominate, and what the farmers of the riding are thinking on this subject fairly reflects the opinion of the farmers of the Province. The defeat of Mr. Marshall would be a sign to the Government that the farming community expected it to hold the fort against the forces of extreme protection.

ONE TYPE OF PARTY MEN.

The American novelist, Winston Churchill, has been attracting attention in a new role. The Legislature of New Hampshire, and the Republican and Democratic "machines," have been under the control of a powerful railway corporation. Fired with the zeal of a moral crusader, Churchill took up the fight singlehanded against the corrupt influence which dominated his own party. He became a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and he addressed meetings in all parts of the state in the effort to capture the party convention. The party bosses at first ridiculed the movement, but the author-politician found himself a popular hero, and collected a following which frightened them into accepting every plank of his platform. Upon the first ballot taken at the convention he stood fourth on the list. He gradually rose to first place, and this forced a hasty combination of the machine elements in support of another candidate, who succeeded in getting the nomination by the narrow margin of eight votes above the number necessary to a choice. Churchill, however, could fairly claim a moral victory. He compelled his party to adopt his principles.

In Ohio, Congressman Burton, a foremost Republican, has been waging a courageous warfare against similar evils in his own party, though with less immediate success. The forces of decency in the Republican ranks in New York State have also overthrown Governor Odell, for years the dictator of the party. In several other states revolts of the same character are in progress.

It will be noted that these political reformers have not thought it necessary or desirable to renounce their party allegiance. They believe in the party system, and have tried to develop it to the highest point of usefulness. Instead of railing at party politics and holding aloof for fear of selling their hands, they have plunged into the thick of the fray. They try to keep their party on the right track, not to wreck it if it is going in the wrong direction.

Mr. George E. Foster can point to his land deal as proof of the substantial quality of his faith in the Northwest.

The American system of party primaries lends itself to boss rule, but it also gives the reformer fighting ground within the ranks of his own party.

Argentina will spend $29,000,000 in warships, most of which will be built in British yards. It is not clear why Argentina needs the ships, but Great Britain makes no complaint.

The Australian free traders are trying to enlarge the scope of the preference on British goods. The Australian protectionists are evidently in the same boat as their Canadian congeners. They are in favor of a preference on British goods so long as it keeps out the goods.

Mr. John Tolmie, who has been nominated for the Commons by the Liberals of North Bruce, represented West Bruce at Ottawa from 1896 to 1904. The constituency of West Bruce disappeared in the last redistribution, and Mr. Tolmie was not a candidate for public honors in the last general election. The Liberals of North Bruce are fortunate in their standard bearer.

Mr. Whitney explains that the hydro-electric commission will after all have control of the Healey Falls power lease, and that the name of the Government was substituted in the agreement for that of the commission through an oversight. The Premier is trying to open a back door to let the commission out of a humiliating position.

with the surface, but passes through it at a slant. After the operation is over the skin is joined with the greatest nicety, a magnifying glass being used to see that the contact is perfect. Then a rigid dressing of wool and glass is applied to prevent contraction and as much pressure is applied as the skill of the operator. The surgeon who performed the process devoted himself entirely to making incisions in the skin and treating them afterward, leaving the operations proper to others.

WHISKY AND INCOMES.

[Toronto Globe.]

Chicago women's clubs are discussing the income essential to a venture in matrimony. Of whisky the Indian said: "I always want some more, and too much is just enough." The same is true of personal incomes.

A SHOCK.

[Harper's Weekly.]

The engagement between a wealthy Baltimore belle and an impecunious clubman, of that city, was at one time last winter perilously near the "breaking-off" point, and all by reason of the unfortunate mistake of a florist's assistant of whom the young man had ordered flowers for his beloved.

It appears that the young fellow had hastily dispatched to the florist's establishment two cards, one bearing an order for roses to be sent to the young lady's address, and the other intended to be attached to the flowers.

What was the astonishment and indignation of the beloved one when, on taking the roses from their box, she found affixed the card bearing the legend:

"Roses. Do the best you can for $3."

IS IT A FARCE?

[Hamilton Times.]

Hon. Mr. Beck's friends in the Western Ontario Conservative Association passed a lot of resolutions, but they didn't have the grace to strengthen his hands by one in favor of Government ownership and operation of water powers. Did they get a hint to drop the farce?

ANIMAL AND PLANT DISEASES.

[Francis Wayland Glen in Canadian Horticulturist.]

My mother said to me when I had working in the garden: "You cannot cheat a cow, hen, bill of corn or a fruit tree." She said that there was a law common to animals and plants. The roots of a tree are its stomach, where it takes in food and digests it. The leaves are its lungs, where it takes in that which gives life to its sap or blood. The tree must have healthy leaves just as a man must have healthy lungs. The trees in our streets are gradually dying because insects destroy their leaves by midsummer. They have less and less vitality each year, and finally die as a person, with consumption, or are winter killed because too feeble to resist the cold.

The doctors will organize a new profession and can render most beneficial service to the lover of trees, fruits and vegetables. We must learn to treat young trees and plants like children, study their habits, likes and dislikes, temperament, needs, appetites and ailments, and find remedies for their illnesses. They are more human than many of us realize.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

[Belleville Intelligencer.]

There are nearly two hundred ladies in attendance at the Ottawa Normal School and not one male teacher. Here is a rare opportunity for a single man to gain some distinction and shed a halo of sunshine upon those around him.

THE CEMENT AGE.

[Birmingham Leader.]

A man has invented a cement shingle. It is a metal shingle covered with cement, and is really a tile as lasting as cement, and it is learned that every man can make his own cement, there will be a boom in cement building. The price of cement is high now, but there are vast supplies and no possible monopoly. Cheap machines for making the blocks and plenty of sand and a little knowledge is the foundation, and the price outside the cities will be cheaper. We are beginning the cement age, and concrete houses will be the houses of the future.

TALENT'S TRIUMPH.

[Detroit Free Press.]

"What's the difference between talent and genius?" "Talent makes money oftener than genius does."

THE REGULATION SIZE.

[Alli Slopier.]

Lady—I want some collars for my husband, but I am afraid I've forgotten the size. Shopman—Thirteen and a half, mum?

Lady—That's it. How did you guess? Shopman—Gentlemen who let their wives buy collars for them are always about that size, mum?

CLEARLY A REPUTATION.

[Toronto Star.]

The Whitney Government may or may not have a general affection for public ownership but the fact remains that in this particular case—the very first case that has arisen to test its regard for public ownership—it has abandoned the principle and gone over to the enemy. And it must be borne in mind that this particular waterpower was inspected by Mr. Beck, the chosen guardian of public ownership, and he expressly advised that it be not handed over to any private corporation. He said that it was a part of a system, of the Lower Trent, which ought to be administered as a united public enterprise. The Government took this power out of the system and gave it to a private corporation. There could not be a clearer case of reputation.

A HARD SLAP.

[Philadelphia Press.]

"Very well, sir," cried Dr. Kwack, after his quarrel with the undertaker, "I'll make you sorry for this."

"What are you going to do?" sneered the undertaker. "Retire from practice?"

One of Three Things Always Cause

RHEUMATISM

Do you know the system rids itself of waste matter through bowels and kidneys? Yes, but by the skin as well.

As a matter of fact, the skin rids the system of more urea than the kidneys do.

If the skin, or bowels, or kidneys are unhealthy—they won't throw off enough urea. This urea is changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to joints and nerves—causing Rheumatism.

One never inherits Rheumatism. One does inherit weak kidneys, irregular bowels and bad skin action.

Fruit-a-tives

ON "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

will positively cure Rheumatism because they rid the system of the eliminating action of skin, kidneys and bowels—and make these three organs so vigorous and healthy that there can be no urea or waste retained in the system to poison the blood and irritate the nerves.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are fruit juices, combined with tonics—the whole forming the most effective cure for Rheumatism.

SPANKED BIG GIRL TILL NOSE BLED

Gotham Woman Did Scientific Work on 16-Year-Old Daughter in Theater Lobby.

New York, Sept. 22.—A sound spanking in the presence of a crowd of theatergoers at Payton's in Brooklyn, was the punishment given by her mother to 16-year-old Susie Fisher, who had run away from home.

Pretty nearly everybody agreed that the spanking was scientifically administered. The girl was placed across her mother's bended knee and the spanks were of the kind that hurt and are heard at a long distance.

She walked up to the line and yanking her out administered the punishment then and there. The girl screamed and said she was being disgraced, but Mrs. Fisher did not stop to argue, but continued spanking.

When the job was finished Mrs. Fisher escorted her daughter, who was bleeding to the clyster street police station and had her locked up for the night. She was arraigned before Magistrate Higginbotham on a technical charge of vagrancy, and was placed in charge of a probationary officer.

Winnipeg, Sept. 21.—John French, whose home was at Harrison, Ont., while assisting in threshing at Mr. McKenzie's on Wednesday of last week at Cartwright, Sask., was descending from a load of sheaves when he pitched forward and fell before him. He was given every assistance that medical skill could command, but died on Tuesday morning.

Superior, Wis., Sept. 21.—The British steamer Turlet Crown was fined $1,000 yesterday for infraction of the marine regulations. The Turlet Crown arrived light from a foreign port and before being inspected began loading a cargo of grain, which is contrary to the law. Capt. Cavanaugh put up a bond for the amount and entered a plea of not guilty, claiming that while he was after clearance papers, the elevator company began loading without his knowledge.

CHOLERA and all summer complaints are so quick in their action that the cold hand of death is upon the victims before they are aware that danger is near. If attacked do not delay in getting the proper medicine. Try a dose of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, and you will get immediate relief. It acts with wonderful rapidity, and never fails to effect a cure.
