monia by the older doctors was better than the modern name. They called it capillary bronchitis, meaning that it is essentially an inflammation of the smallest bronchial tubes. And a still older title is halfway descriptive, toothe disease was once known as "suffocative catarrh." Suffocative was right, but we need not apply the meaningless name of "catarrh" to anything unless we are not sure what we are talking we are not sure what we are taking about.

Unlike ordinary pneumonia (lobar pneumonia, lung fever, pleuro-pneumonia), which has been discussed in recent issues, broncho-pneumonia is usually secondary to some other illness, and it usually develops gradually or insidiously without the sudden chill of onset commonly noted in the ordinary lung fever. It is likely to oc-off or prevent pneumonia.

I do not mean to say that external and internal remedies are without value in bronchitis or in broncho-pneumonia. Much may be done to increase the patient's comfort or diminish discomfort. But it is silly to imagine that any known internal or external remedy will prevent pneumonia, or break it up. It is the veriest chicanery for any healer to pretend' that he can abort or break up pneuomnia. All such assertions are founded on nothing more substantial than a happy agreement between Old Doctor Nature and Trained Nurse Coincidence.

Whenever a child with measies, whooping cough, chickenpox, or other disease shows a noticeable increase of fever, increased coughing, more rapid pulse and more rapid breathing than usual, parents should immediately summon the physician to determine whether brencho-pneumonia is developing. Here someone rises to ask why call the doctor to settle the question if the doctor to settle the questical treatment aims to help the patient weather the illness, and when I say medical treatment I do not necessarily mean plying the patient with medicines, for that is but a minor feature of skillful treatment, though cften a vitally important feature.

said my little 10-year-old girl one day. She had heard the name, and thought it was a traveling wagon from which you could buy your dinner ready-made. When I explained to her that it was really a tray on four wheels which could carry a cooked dinner from kitchen to dining-room without the usual many trips, she suggested that a discarded baby carriage should be robbed of its wheels to help us make a discarded baby carriage should be robbed of its wheels to help us make a dinner wagon.

We called into council the man of the house, and after getting a picture from an advertisement, with much planning and discussion we decided to use the two smaller wheels of the carriage and two large-sized rubber-faced castors. When finally it was finished and put into service we determined to get all the value we could from the effort we had put into it. As I had no servant, the dinner wagon piled three times a day' between kitchen and dining-room. All the dishes needed to set the table were put on it at once. If we had to make more than one trip, we would say, "We must plan that better next time." When the meal was ready the wagon waited by the kitchen range, and as only one trip was necessary, we were able to announce dinner. wheel in the wagon when the family was ready to set down, and serve a steaming-hot meal.

When the plates were to be changed they were placed on the wagon, which then made the return trip, bringing the tea, the dessert, and the necessary dishes.

No single piece of furniture in the house has given us such satisfaction, has had such good results in causing us to plan details, and in training the little daughter who suggested it, as has the

Give This to a Constipated Baby

Why Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is the Favorite Constipation Remedy with so Many Mothers

OUNG Mothers in the midst of bringing up a family of small children should consider it a duty to investigate the action of the various remedies for constipation. This is the ail-ment most common among children, and it often leads to serious diseases. It is important for the mother to know the right remedy to give, for they differ widely in action.

Children do not take kindly to drastic drugs, salt waters, calo-mel, physics, castor oil, carthar-tics, mercurials and such things, and they find difficulty in swal-lowing these harsh medicines even when disguised in sugar-coated tablets or pills. It is not only that the child doesn't like the taste, but these drugs are so violent that they wrench the little system. They should not be given to children.

Thousands of wise mothers, after having tried many things, give only a combination of simple herbs with pepsin, known to druggists as Dr. Cald-well's Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

The formula is on the package. It is a mild, gentle remedy, free from all narcotics, that relieves constipation and its symptoms, such as headache, biliousness, colds, fever, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, and it does it without griping or weakening. A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin can be bought at any drug store for sixty cents and is enough to last an average family many months.

Last year over eight million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin were sold in drug stores, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, and as the prepar-ation has been on the market over thirty years the second generation of mothers are now giving it to their babies. No care-ful, well-regulated home will be without a bottle for a mild, safe constitution remoder. Who constipation remedy like this may be needed by someone in the family any minute. Every bottle is guaranteed to do ex-actly as claimed for the ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels or your money will be refunded.
