WOMEN'S AUXILIARY
Fifteenth Annual Meeting
Opened Here Today

Large Number of Delegates Assemble in Stone Church—There Are Now Eighty-Seven Life Members

The fifteenth annual meeting of the Fredericton Diocesan Branch of the Women's Auxiliary was opened in St. John's (Stone) church school house this morning, the president, Mrs. Thomas Walker, presiding. The session commenced with the celebration of the Holy Communion in the church at 9.30 when 280 communicants partook of the sacrament. Rev. Canons Daniel and Armstrong and Messrs. Kuhlings and Scovill administered.

The delegates then adjourned to the school house, where the business session was commenced at 10.30 with prayer. Mrs. George F. Smith, first vice-president, and Mrs. L. R. Harrison, second vice-president, received the ladies as they arrived in the school room. The roll was called by the recording secretary, Mrs. E. J. Mrs. Harrison called the roll of life members and announced that there were now eighty-seven life members in the auxiliary.

Mrs. L. F. D. Tilley made a formal address on behalf of Stone church and St. John, and welcomed the provincial delegates to the meeting. This was replied to by Mrs. J. CANADIAN WEDDING IN THE MOTHERLAND

A wedding of some interest in this city took place on April 4 in St. Mary's church, Ashford, Kent, England, when Miss Freddie Carlous, daughter of Staff-Serjt. and Mrs. Carlous of this city, became the bride of Q. M. S. Darrell Belmore Campbell, of Vancouver, B. C. The church was prettily decorated with Easter lilies and daffodils. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. A. Herbert.

The bride looked charming in a costume of white serge with satin trimmings and carried a sheaf of Easter lilies and maiden-hair fern. She was attended by her cousin, Miss May Couzens of London, who wore a pretty navy blue costume with rose hat and carried cream roses and pink carnations, while Willa, sister of the bride, as flower girl, looked very sweet in pale blue silk and cream lace hat and carried a bunch of yellow daffodils. Ewing Sandall of this city supported the groom.

After the wedding a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where a wartime luncheon was served, after which the bride and groom left for Brighton and London, after which they will reside in Buxton, Derby, for a short time.

The wedding gifts were very numerous and testified to the number of friends the young people have made since residing in England. These included several checks from friends in the distance. The wedding was arranged to take place on May 17th, but owing to the fact that Mr. Campbell expects soon to return to Canada on account of the serious illness of his father, the wedding took place at an earlier date.

FAMOUS BELL TO A NEW HOME

From Brussels Street to Central Baptist Church

WAS PRESENTED IN 1863

For More Than Half Century Has Called People to Divine Worship and for Many Years Has Sounded the Alarm When Fires Broke Out

The very large bell which for more than half a century has sent out familiar sound to the residents of the large eastern area of the city is being unhitched from its hangings in the old Brussels street Baptist church and is to be hoisted to the belfry of the Leinster street edifice, now known as the Central church, where the amalgamated congregations are progressing splendidly.

The task of taking down the immense bell is unusual and for a couple of days has been exercising the wits and muscles of a crew of "stunt" workers. The first stage of dismantling brought the metal burden from the latticed belfry to the base of the steps, much to the discomfiture of pigeons which had been homing there for a long time. At the time of writing the bell was about to be skidded out of an ornamental wagon down to a sturdy staging and then lowered by carpenter's process to a wagon. Its placement in the Leinster street building will doubtless be even more difficult.

In 1868 the bell was presented to the Brussels street church—then thirteen years organized—by Henry Vaughan, one of St. John's most estimable and prominent citizens and a pillar of the denomination. It was manufactured in Sheffield, Eng., and transported to this country in a ship commanded by Capt. Robert Moran, also a member of the young church. Allan Brothers, a flourishing firm at that time, hung the bell, and it was on this occasion that the use of special ceremonies. Mr. Vaughan's splendid gift is only one of several enduring memorials to his generosity and his beneficence. Henry Vaughan's surviving male relative in St. John is Frank P. Vaughan, electrical engineer of the Vaughan Electric Company.

Not only among Baptist people but citizens in general the removal of the historic bell from the eastern section of town will be somewhat on those sentiments great and small that keep this old sphere a moving. It was a faithful messenger while the Brussels street church was active, summoning the people to service and in the fifty-five years of its unflinching loyalty fully four generations of families have heeded its call.

During the last few days when the usual heavy crop of "housecleaning" fire alarms have been ringing in, people living within the familiar tones of the sonorous old bell have wondered at its giving forth no warning. When the scaffolding went up the secret was out. Whether or not the safety department will acquire a new fire alarm privilege for East End is not known at present.

With the removal of the Brussels street church bell a second interesting incident in the history of landmark church bells and fire alarms occurs in close proximity of time. Only a few months ago the familiar old bell in St. David's Presbyterian, in Sydney street, valiantly rang in its own alarm and continued repeating the insistent call for more assistance until electric connections melted away under the surge of roaring flame round about it.

CAPT. GERALD FURLONG WRITES TO SISTER

Madame K. Furlong-Schmidt of Union street, has recently received a very interesting letter from her only brother, Capt. Gerald Furlong, assistant commanding paymaster at Canadian Headquarters, Bramshot, Eng., in which he gives some sidelights on the intensive gardening and truck farming of the English people. Even the soldiers at the battlefront, in executive work have their planted plots. Captain Furlong relates that a helper who had been sent to him from one of the regiments turned out to be a Rothesay, N. B., fellow, a most enthusiastic farmer, too. The ex-St. John young man, Captain Furlong, was more than thirty months at the battlefront, until after the Somme offensive last autumn, when he was placed at work in his present responsible post at Bramshot. At the time of writing last he was in poor health, but stated it was no time for minor illnesses when so much serious physical trouble was on hand. Every man was glad to work top speed at all hours in these emergency times.

It was especially interesting to Captain Furlong's relatives here to have him write that he has learned of five of their Irish cousins having been in the thickest of this war; one of them—an aviator—has succumbed. Another of the cousins was through the Gallipoli campaign and another was sent to Serbia with the British relief force and survived the ordeal of the memorable retreating movement in that phase of the European conflagration.

"Lumbermen," was the reply.

"How much do they pay you for that kind of boarders?"

"Seven dollars."

"Well, they're certainly getting their money's worth if you feed them on Honour."

The case was postponed until Monday at 10 a. m.
