The Waltham Watch

THE NEW UNION STATION
TORONTO, CANADA

TRAINS run very largely on Waltham time, for the reason that such a large proportion of railway men carry a Waltham. The "Vanguard" is the railway man's first favorite, because it is designed especially for railway service. It has an improved steel barrel containing a mainspring of extra length and width that enables the watch to keep accurate time for more than forty hours at a stretch. It has double roller escapement and steel escape wheel. Both balance pivots run on diamonds. The 16 size there is also a winding indicator, preventing the watch running down unawares.

UNFINISHED TOMB OF J. C. BENNETT

Owl 200 Feet High Was to Have Been His Mausoleum—Stanford White's Death Ended Work on It

In the studio of Andrew O'Connor, sculptor, at Paxton, Mass., there is a pencil drawing of a great owl mounted upon a high pedestal, and a simple model of the owl itself in clay. The two are all the work which at the time of Stanford White's death Mr. O'Connor had done toward a design for the tomb of James Gordon Bennett.

Mr. Bennett had commissioned Stanford White to design the tomb, and had given him specific directions. Mr. White had called in Mr. O'Connor, who was working with him at the time, to make the model for the owl, and the work had got well under way. But when in June, 1906, Stanford White was killed, Mr. Bennett let the whole project of the owl tomb drop.

The enormous owl was to be not only James Gordon Bennett's monument but literally his tomb. It was to stand on the Bennett land in Washington Heights, a gigantic statue 200 feet high, of which about seventy feet was to be the height of the pedestal. As Mr. Bennett explained his idea to Mr. White, the owl was to be hollow, and was to contain his sarcophagus. Two slabs of marble were to be hung from the top of the owl's head, and midway in the monument Mr. Bennett's coffin was to be placed. The interior of the tomb's clear staircase was to ascend from the bottom of the owl's head to the top of the owl's head, and the great iron chains, up to the eyes of the owl, which were to be worked by the owl's head, were to be open to the public. The material was to be glazed granite. The high ground, which it was to stand upon, had been formed a suitable vantage point.

It was only a short time before Mr. White's death that Mr. Bennett gave him the commission. Like Sarah Bernhardt's in Pere la Chaise, Mr. Bennett's tomb was to be finished and set up at once, to be a monument to him and an arresting feature of the city's "scene" while he was still living.

WATERING.

There is always the danger of watering vegetable crops over abundantly. Ontario has been fortunate this spring in the amount of natural watering that the gardens have received but this does not necessarily apply all over Canada. A city garden should never be watered in the heat of the sun. In any event, the water should be applied in as fine a spray as it is possible to obtain. Force will wash out the seeds, flatten the soil, expose the roots to the sun's rays and thus cause the wilting of the plants. As the seeds are first breaking through, the ground should be gently watered in the evening with the watering can. The hose is destructive if used too soon after planting. It is necessary to stir the soil after each rain or watering in order to conserve the moisture.

Particular care must be taken in the watering of transplanted vegetables. It is a good plan to put a little water in the holes before the plants are put in them. Or, on the other hand, the watering may be done immediately after planting while the soil is loose. This will prevent the plants from wilting.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE SUN ON JUNE 8

Professors' Plans for Observing it at Green River, Wyoming

According to Director Edwin Frost, of the Yerkes Observatory, the University of Chicago, observers of the coming total eclipse of the sun have selected as their principal station Green River, Wyoming, a point on the Union Pacific Railway, lying between Cheyenne and Ogden. This station is situated in the so-called Red Desert, with a rainfall of about ten inches a year and at an elevation of more than 6,000 feet. The remarkable transparency of the air in this region makes the station one of the most promising of any along the line of totality. The observing party from the University of Chicago will have about twenty members, including Professor Edward Emerson Barnard and Assistant Professors John A. Parkhurst and R. Barrett, besides volunteers from the Yerkes Observatory and other institutions. Some of the volunteers will use apparatus at Denver. It is hoped also that the weather will permit simultaneous observations with the spectroheliograph at the Yerkes Observatory by Dr. Oliver J. Lee.

This total solar eclipse, which is one of six to occur in the United States during the present century, will be visible on June 8, 1918, over a narrow strip having a maximum width of about sixty miles and extending from the state of Washington through parts of Oregon, Wyoming, and Idaho, across Colorado and Kansas and finally reaching Florida at about sunset. The duration of totality is two minutes, two seconds at the coast of Washington, and less than half that time in Florida.

The partial phase of the eclipse will be visible over the whole of the United States, at Chicago more than 75 per cent. of the sun's face will be obscured by the moon. During the few minutes of totality, however, and then only, can observations be made of the mysterious corona which surrounds the sun and is then plainly visible to the naked eye. It is variable in its extent and brilliance, being connected in the sun's corona and not yet in any star or on the earth. It is important to collect as much information as to the spectrum, and hence as to the characteristics of this gas, which will probably be found in the earth; just as helium, which was discovered in the sun at the eclipse of 1868 independently and simultaneously by Lockyer, of England, and Janssen, of France, was found twenty-seven years ago in the spectrum of the mineral effluvia occurring in the Scandinavian peninsula.

Director Frost has recently written an article for Popular Astronomy in the interest of the fullest scientific attendance of the coming eclipse of the sun, in which he calls the attention of astronomers and physicists at American institutions not only to the line of totality but to the important spectroscopic observations they may be able to make if they are situated within some 200 miles of the line.

Old Winter Coughs Now Easily Cured

A New Remedy Now Cures Without the Use of Cough Syrups or Drugs

Just think of it—you can clear away that hard, racking cough, drive it completely out of the system, make yourself perfectly well by the new breathing cure that employs no medicine at all.

You wonder how, very simple, indeed; you simply breathe in through a Catarrhone Inhaler rich balsamic essence that heat and soothe away the cough in a few hours' time.

In using Catarrhone you bathe the lining of the nose and throat with that powerful antiseptic of the Blue Gum Tree of Australia, which is probably the surest cold and cough cure in the world today.

Clarence E. Crowwell, writing from Medicine Hat, says: "To cure a sneezing cold in about ten minutes the one thing I know of to do it is Catarrhone. To relieve an irritated throat quickly, nothing can excel Catarrhone. It simply eats up a cough or cold of any kind. I know of colds that have hung on for months that Catarrhone cured quickly."

Nearly every man I know carries a Catarrhone Inhaler with him day and night, and in this country it makes a wonderful protection against all winter ills."

ONE OF NATURE'S COMMON TRICKS

Acts just like a wireless message and "ouch" is the answer

Press an electric button and you form a contract with a live wire which rings the bell. When your shoes press against your corns it pushes its sharp roots down upon a sensitive nerve and "ouch" you get a shock of pain.

Instead of trimming your corns, which merely makes them grow, just step into any drug store and ask for a quarter of an ounce of freezone. This will cost you one hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn stops the soreness instantly, and soon the corn shrivels up so it lifts right out, root and all, without pain. This drug never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin.

NINE BOILS

Kept Coming on Neck One After The Other

Anyone who has ever suffered from boils knows how sick and miserable they make you feel.

When you think you are about cured of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your wretchedness. All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are simply bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system and removes every particle of foul material from the blood, then never another boil comes and the cure is permanent.

Mr. Geo. Ayers, 802 Gloucester street, Ottawa, Ont., writes: "I want to tell you what I know about your wonderful Burdock Blood Bitters. In the spring I suppose my system needed cleaning out, for I had nine boils come on my neck one after the other. I quickly got a bottle of B.B.B. and before it was half finished I felt a great change, and it certainly put an end to my boils, otherwise I might have had a lot more. I recommend B.B.B. to all I can, for I know it to be a great remedy."
