

MISS IRELAND—TREMENDOUS SUCCESS

On Tuesday evening, Miss Margaret Ann Ireland played to a capacity audience in Mem. Hall. Ten minutes before opening all seats were filled and standing room was taken. Hundreds of people had to be turned away.

Miss Ireland gave an inspiring performance. The first item on the program, Beethoven's Sonata in C minor was very well received by the audience. Four pieces from the Suite from "Goyescas", by Granados followed. These pieces and the two others are named after paintings and tapestries by Goya. Together they beautifully evoked the fierce gaiety of the Spanish people, the tragedy and torment of their history. Miss Ireland superceded the technical difficulties of these pieces magnificently.

The recital was interestingly diversified and featured as an example of twentieth century music, the Serenade in A by Stravinsky.

Miss Ireland demonstrated the talent that has made her famous in her presentation of three selections by Chopin. The Revolutionary Etude, substituted on a suggestion, was heartily applauded by the audience. The performance had power, brilliance and clarity. The audience could not be satisfied until Miss Ireland played two encores; another piece by Chopin and Rachmaninoff's stirring Prelude in G minor. The latter was a triumph of her remarkable technique. The concert was an overwhelming success and is indicative of the Creative Arts Committee's aim to bring skilful and exciting performers to our campus.

The Future.... Still Lies Ahead

The following is a reprint from the McGill Daily, Thursday, Oct. 5.

Many an evening after concluding a College Concert, I have been stopped by students who ask me whether I am a cynic, a Nealist, or a futilitarian.

If I could say one thing to young people, I would say don't jump off the ledge. Things are getting better. Besides it would embarrass your parents.

In the field of Technology we're aiming for space. And if we win, think of the kick of being the first man on the moon. And even if we lose, I understand they're going to allow us to retain our native folk arts and dances.

A transistor radio half the size of a package of cigarettes will bring in short wave broadcasts from every part of the earth. One can go to sleep and rest assured that no one in the world has anything to say.

In the areas of mental therapy, think of the new leisure afforded the individual if he can submit his psychoanalysis to the doctor on tape.

We are reminded daily that the world is shrinking due to ultrasonic jets. A German scientist recently claimed that man could fly faster and higher than ever before, if the body were made up of active atomic molecules, could be decomposed, loaded into a rocket, shot through the high frequency altitudinous heat range and then the body would be reassembled at the passenger's destination. However, realizing the relative efficiency of TWA's baggage room today...

In areas of Sociology, Capital Punishment is giving way to negligible enlightenment to a point where people can kill each other, but it's certainly not with the approval of the State. And in some states sentences of indeterminate length are being passed upon prisoners. On the other hand, this consoles one. The attractions of prison as opposed to life: Knowing when you're getting out.

There is hope in education in that more non-conformists are appearing on the campus. Many are forming non-conformists clubs holding weekly meetings, exchanging information.

So you see regardless of what we hear about the Hydrogen Bomb and man's questionable tenure, some good things must be coming. I think we should leave it there. Otherwise the air of finality on my part would be false because I truly believe that women have the last word.

Nuclear Disarmament

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (CUP) — Indicative of the growing fear of a nuclear war some 300 students from 15 universities picketed Parliament last weekend in protest against Canada's stand on nuclear arms.

The students were members of the Combined Universities Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament which is allied with the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament in the U. K., although not with the civil disobedience group led by philosopher Bertrand Russell.

Beginning at 10 a.m. Friday the students picketed non-stop for 73 hours until 11 a.m. Monday when they paused for 73 seconds of silence in memory of the 73,000 victims of the Hiroshima bombing raid in 1945.

Chairman of the group, Dimitri Roussopoulos of Sir George Williams, said that the march was planned to emphasize student opposition to the present government policy of "aiding and abetting global suicide."

CUCND seeks total abolition of nuclear arms which its members declare are "wholly evil" and "nations which condone their use will be murdering mankind."

At present the government has not declared whether or not it will arm Canadian forces with nuclear weapons, although Mr. Diefenbaker has indicated that Canada would have the weapons if it became necessary.

Circling Parliament Hill the picketers played guitars, and bongo drums and sang songs pointing to the folly of nuclear arms. Signs carried by the students proclaimed warnings such as, "No H Bombs for Canada", "Let's Not Be Cremated Equal", "Ban the Bomarc", and "Americans Go Home". During the day their numbers reached 300 dropping to 50 during rest periods or at night.

The picketing was done in an orderly fashion with only one major interruption when Douglas Campbell of Toronto entered the group to campaign for "direct action and civil disobedience." He was later arrested by the police on a main street near the Parliament when he tried to sell some of his pamphlets in order to pay fines imposed upon him by the Toronto courts for his demonstrations in that city.

This was not the first time that the CUCND had paraded before parliament buildings. Last Christmas 400 demonstrators marched around the hill but there was no one to meet them except the RCMP guard. (Last weekend Frank Howard, a spokesman for New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas, told them that the new party would give full support to a nuclear disarmament program.)

When the Soviet Union renewed its present bomb tests a CUCND group from Montreal and Ottawa presented a note to the Soviet ambassador.
