

CONTENTS

PART I

THEORY AND EXERCISES

	PAGE
1. ARTICLE. General function of the article. . . . .	1
2. Omission of the article. . . . .	2
3. Use of article. . . . .	4
4. Use of article for grammatical reasons. . . . .	6
5. Replacements of article by attributive adjective. . . . .	9
6. THE NOUN. Formation of plural, weak declension. . . . .	10
7. Function of the noun. Proper names. . . . .	12
8. The noun as adverb. . . . .	16
9. THE ADJECTIVE. . . . .	19
10. Adjectives requiring objects (Genitive and Accusative). . . . .	22
11. Comparison of adjectives and use of Superlative. . . . .	25
12. THE VERB. Auxiliaries of tense. Modal auxiliaries. . . . .	27
Semi-modal auxiliaries. . . . .	29
13. Compound verbs with separable prefixes. . . . .	32
Inseparable prefixes. Prefixes used in two ways. . . . .	33
14. Intransitive verbs with special cases. . . . .	35
15. Transitive verbs with special cases. . . . .	37
16. Reflexive verbs. . . . .	41
17. Impersonal verbs, — with Dative; with Accusative. . . . .	42
18. General remarks on conjugation. The tenses. . . . .	46
Indicative and Subjunctive mood. . . . .	48
19. The Subjunctive in dependent clauses. . . . .	51
20. The Imperative . . . . .	55
21. The Infinitive. . . . .	58
22. The Participle . . . . .	60
23. NUMERALS. . . . .	62
24. THE PRONOUN. Personal pronoun, use of es . . . . .	64
Reflexive pronoun. . . . .	67