REASON NO 37
WHY YOU SHOULD USE

Red Rose Tea

Because it is perfectly clean.
Wouldn't you like to know that the tea you drink has not been touched by human hand since it was plucked on the plantation?

This is what you get in Red Rose Tea. The old method of rolling and packing tea by hand has been entirely done away with on the tea estates where Red Rose Tea is produced. There, as well as in the blending and packing rooms, machinery—scrupulously clean machinery—is used exclusively.

Red Rose Tea is never touched by hand after being plucked.

This fact alone will help you enjoy drinking it. The Blue Label is recommended.

Volcanic Dust.
A volcanic eruption at St. Vincent once threw a cloud of dust against the wind to Barbados, a distance of 100 miles. The deposit fell for twelve hours over the entire island, attaining a thickness of nearly half an inch. Its estimated weight was, therefore, nearly 2,000,000 tons.

MAKE MONEY IN LONDON.

Miss Baden-Powell's Bees Give Half Hundredweight of Comb.

In the heart of London over a half a hundredweight of honeycombs has just been gathered. The bees responsible for this rich harvest belong to Miss Baden-Powell, sister of the hero of Mafeking.

These wonderful bees are the subjects of an interesting experiment. They had been removed from an old residence in Piccadilly to Miss Baden-Powell's new house at Prince's Gate.

During their fifteen years in their old quarters the bees had never failed to store up large quantities of honey, and were quite content to live in the drawing room where their specially constructed hive, invented by Miss Baden-Powell, stood on a table near the window. A passage all in the house wall gave them free ingress to the drawing room at all times.

"The mystery is where they fed in order to make honey so excellent and in such large quantities," said Miss Baden-Powell, "for there was no garden attached to this house."

In their new home at Prince's Gate the bees come and go through a passage in the wall as before, and Miss Baden-Powell is watching anxiously for signs of discontent, which she hopes will not be shown. On the first night they were all in by sundown, but there was a great deal of puzzled and uneasy buzzing before they settled down to rest.

A new idea embodied in the hive invented by Miss Baden-Powell consists in having several glazed frames connected by cloth hinges like a screen. They are fastened at the end to the centre of the hive and fold into a compact form, but may be unfolded by any one wishing to observe the bees at work without disturbing them.

Famous John Knox a Galley Slave.
John Knox, the famous Scotch preacher, was a galley slave on French vessels. "For 13 months he had to endure this living death," says a writer, "which for long-drawn out torture can only be compared with what the Christians of the earliest centuries had to suffer when they were condemned to the mines. He had to sit chained with four or six others to the rowing benches, which were set at right angles to the side of the ship, without chance of posture by day, and compelled to sleep at night, chained under the benches by day and night alike, and during the lash of the overseer who paced up and down the gangway benches, ran between the two lines of rowers, tearing the coarse canvas shirt and securing the neck of the rower; feeding on the fragments of meat of coarse biscuit and porridge of oil and beans, chained along with the vilest malefactors."

Extremes of Land and Sea.
The average depth of the sea is about 12,000 feet; the average height of the land above sea level is about 1,500 feet.

Sold to His Soldiers.
When the Emperor Henry in 1194 captured Salerno, he ordered the wives and daughters of the leading citizens to be put up at auction and sold, and all these unhappy ladies were thus disposed of to a brutal soldiery.

Strange Fish Trap.
At Dover, England, there is under construction a series of immense breakwaters which will greatly increase the size of the harbor. In the work, says The London Express, a big diving bell is employed. When this machine was descending recently the men seated electrically sides saw in the glare of the electric light a strange sight.

The water was then suddenly became alive with the silvery fish, which darted hither and thither in their efforts to escape. In diving under the edges of the bell, but as it descended nearer the bottom the few inches of water remaining became thick with the fish.

Dangerous Metaphor.
Matrimonial metaphors are dangerous. Dr. Norris was recently appointed chairman of the Melbourne Board of Health, and in returning thanks he humorously remarked: "When I was a student I determined to specialize in public health, but I was diverted from marriage such as George Bernard Shaw, and went into general practice. But I remained true to my first love, divorced my temporary bride, and settled down to work on the problems of the public health. Thereupon an outraged Caledonian rhapsodist wrote to the papers to inquire how such a high appointment came to be conferred on a man who confessedly held the laxest views on the sanctity of the marriage tie."—London Chronicle.

Some Modern Bulkheads.
It was recently discovered that the bulkheads in some of England's modern warships are useless to resist water pressure. By order of the Admiralty the Channel fleet the steel walls of all the spirit rooms were shored up and water was pumped in. Long before the compartments in several of the ships were full of water, and the doors and walls began to give and buckle several inches. Had the rooms been filled with water, as they might have been in the event of collision, and had there been no shoring, the walls would inevitably have burst and the other bulkheads gone in turn, with disastrous results.

A Case of Suspense.
A remarkable capital punishment case is recorded in "The Chronicles of Hertford," under the vague date of "several years ago."—A culprit was condemned to death, but as the warrant for his execution was not received at the expected time, the governor of the gaol employed him as odd man about the place, often sending him on errands into Hertford town—in fact, he had all the freedom of an ordinary servant would have had, and always returned punctually to the prison. One day, while he was busy digging gravel in a field opposite the gaol, the long-delayed warrant for his execution arrived, and the following morning he was hanged.

Digging For Fish.
The natives of certain parts of India are in the habit every year, in the summer, of digging in the dry river banks for fish, which they bring out by hundreds, just as they would potatoes. The mud lumps are broken open, and the fish, perhaps eight or ten inches long, will always be found alive, and often fresh, as if just removed from its supposedly native element—the water.

There is nothing like Sunlight Soap for Household Utensils.

When you have to use hard water it is not an easy matter to wash household utensils. To do good washing you should have good soap and soft water (rain water). If you use hard water you must have good soap, and the best soap you can get is Sunlight Soap because it softens the hard water and makes a copious creamy lather. Use Sunlight Soap for all household purposes and the results will surprise you.

Perfumed Warming Pans.
In some of the country mansions of France perfumed warming pans are used. When guests remain overnight the host endeavors to discover the scent each prefers, and thus the sheets are impregnated with heliotrope, rose, lily or other desired perfume.
