

FIG. 78. (Full Size).

In figure 78 we have a good imitation of the very best Indian attempt I have seen, to represent the human face in clay. It is only a mask, but as such is perfect. The pipe-bowl of which it formed a part must have been a tolerably capacious one. Even as a fragment this specimen has been prized, for the broken edges are rubbed smoothly down, and one can only wonder that no hole is bored to hang it by. It was procured from Mr. Jos. W. Stewart, who reports that it was found "somewhere about Lake Simcoe."

Was the pipe, of which figure 79 represents a fragment, made before or after the French occupation of Canada? If made subsequently the hatted form may be regarded as an imitation of the white man, perhaps of a priest; but if made previous to the French occupation, it may represent a native costume. The pipe-bowl is a simple, rounded form, and terminates in a small, pointed projection. The medial line of the pipe-bowl is slightly curved. The pipe-bowl is about one inch in length, and the pipe-stem is perpendicular to the pipe-bowl. The pipe-stem is that formed by a smoker.

The specimen is more for ornament than for use, and depth. It is not out any reference to the surface of the pipe-bowl, back of the pipe-bowl, other. From Tweeddale collection.

"White man" only two inches in length, near Hamilton, is $6\frac{1}{2}$ inches in length. Lake Meda.
