A "Soda Biscuit" Roaster

HAT necessity oftentimes is the mother of invention was brought to my attention a few days ago. I was spending the week-end with a I was spending the week-end wild a friend at her summer cottage. Of course it is impossible to have con-veniences in a summer home to the same extent as one would have on the same extent as one would have on the farm or in the city. When prepar-ing meat for dinner, my friend pro-duced one of the long, narrow the soda biscuit boxes, which are com-ception. monly purchased nowadays. "This is my roasting pan," she said, "and it works to perfection. One day shortly after I came out to the cottage I wantafter 4 came out to the cottage I wanted to roast some meat and suddenly it occurred to me that I did not have a roasting pan. What was I to do?
I hunted through all my pots and pans and finally came across this biscuit
box. The lid fits tightly care, fasten down the lid, and have an improvised roasting pan, which fills the bill nicely. I also use the same it no for baking roasting pan, which fills the bill nice-ly. I also use the same tin for baking bread, as I like the size of loaves it accommodates."

Probably on the farm such a roasting pan would be too small for the majority of roasts that we buy. In these days of high prices, however, and also in view of the fact that we are asked to cut down our meat supply, no doubt our roasts will assume ply, no doubt our roasts will assume considerably smaller proportions and in lieu of a better roasting pan, we might well try out the soda-biscuit-roaster.—R.
