

MOB MENACE TO RELIGION

The National Council of Congregational Churches showed commendable common sense, when, at its recent meeting in Springfield, Mass., it denounced organizations which, while professing patriotism, foster social and religious suspicion and give opportunity for lawlessness and brutality.

The Congregationalists are not alone among non-Catholic bodies in discovering that "a secret organization that attempts to work government to its own ends is a menace to the stability of the Government as well as to individual rights."

There is a significance in the fact that the Congregationalists should see fit at this time to reiterate the pronouncements of a year ago. The record of that year must have furnished food for reflection for every intelligent non-Catholic minister.

MENELIK'S ACT OF DEVOTION TO THE MADONNA

A Lazarist missionary writing in the Missions Catholique concerning the devotion to the Blessed Virgin in Abyssinia, mentions the following incident showing the generosity inspired in the Emperor Menelik by his devotion to the Mother of God.

"I am only a poor woman and I know that my son is a prisoner in your hands. O great Emperor, have pity on an unhappy woman and restore her child to her. I ask you this in the name of the Madonna. Yesterday I went to burn a candle in the church of my village, and while it was burning it seemed to me that Mary smiled at me and said: 'Hope! Menelik will give you back your son.' It is therefore in the name of the Madonna, O great king, that I ask you to give my child his liberty."

Scarcely had the letter been read when Menelik had the young soldier in question called before him, and after making sure of his identity he said to him: "I give you your liberty. You will leave tomorrow. Here is money to pay your passage and I shall give you an escort to protect you in the desert. But you will tell your mother this: 'It is not Menelik who gave me back my liberty, it is

Our Lady Mary.' For, you see, Mary is my Mother also. And when my Mother has said yes, I cannot say no. Go! and may Our Lady Mary protect you."
