You're doing the politics bully, as all of our family agree;

Just keep your old goose quill a flappin' and give them a good one for me.

And now you are chock full of business, and I won't be takin' your time;

I've things of my own I must tend to—good day, sir; I believe I will climb."

Analyor defined this, and hea proceeded to denounce the Stipendiary Magistrate as a police spy. Persons acquainted with the English form of procedure were astonished at the forbearance of the Court towards Rea.

But in the great time that is coming, when Gabriel's trumpet shall sound,
And they who have labored and rested shall come from the quivering ground,
When they who have striven in all seasons to teach and ennoble the race,
Shall march at the head of the column, each one in his God-given place.
As they march through the gates of the city with proud and victorious tread,
The editor and his assistants will travel not far from the head.

THE AGITATION IN IRELAND.

EXCITEMENT STILL RUNNING HIGH KILLEN COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

London, November 26.—John O'Connor Power (Home Ruler,) member of Parliament for Mayo, will preside at the demonstrations at Hyde Park on Sunday. Among the speakers will be Justice McCarthy, Sullivan and Redmond (Home Rulers,) members of Parliament. Several London and Provincial contingents will ssemble at Trafalgar Square to Hyde Park, where the meeting begins at 3.

Sligo, Nov. 25.—Last evening the police patrol were stoned. Later in the evening Davitt was serenaded by two bands. The police paraded the streets. This morning further reinforcements arrived, but there were no fresh disturbances. It is thought that the Government intend to remove the trials of the prisoners to Dublin, in-stead of taking them up at the county

A larger number of magistrates are on the Bench to-day than hitherto. Killen's examination is proceeding. Davitt and

Daily are present as spectators.

Monroe, Queen's Councel, said that Killen, being a barrister, might, lead the people to believe that they could act upon his advice. He made long quotations from Killen's speech at the meeting on which he (Monroe) relied for Killen's committal, to the effect that "He would like nothing better than to see they sands of men coming better than to see tho asands of men coming over the mountains rifle in hand." He showed that others who were present at the meeting had remonstrated against Killen's counseilling physical force.

Sligo, November 27.—John Rea, counsel for Killen, was constantly interrupted during his cross-examination of witnesses yesterday by the Magistrates, who pointed out that his remarks were totally irrevelent. The examination lasted over four hours and embraced every variety of topic, including politics, polemics and adventures.

Manchester, November 27.—A London correspondent says it is generally believed that if the release of the Irish prisoners on ball is not followed by an exhibition of defiance the trials will not be pressed. It is thought that the exhibition of the authority of the law has already done good which might be dissipated if the Government pressed the trials and failed to obtain conviction.

Dublin, November 27.—Daly's return to Castlebar will be celebrated by bonfires and other demonstrations throughout the county of Mayo. Parnell left Sligo to-day. Davitt and Daly remain until Killen is released. Parnell received invitations from all parts of the country to address, meetings. His propaganda has address meetings. His propaganda has been actively carried on in Sligo during the trials. The speeches and other incidents cause increasing excitement. Last night a mob of 3,000 paraded the streets, followed by twenty armed constables to prevent stone throwing and violence, which occurred the previous night.

Sligo, November 27.—Davitt is confident of acquittal, if tried at the coming

Assizes, but declares that if his trial is removed to the Queen's Bench at Dublin he will not expend a faithing for his defence, as he will be convicted. The Crown is determined to inflict another year's im-

London, November 20.—In consequence of some technical points in the quence of some technical points in the qu fusion, it is intended to apply for a writ of habeas corpus to bring Killen before the Court of Queen's Bench and attempt to quash the Magistrate's proceedings on various points. The Assizes will be quasi the Magistrate's proceedings on various points. The Assizes will be opened at Carrick, on the Shannon, on the 11th prox., when the bills will be sent to the Grand Jury. The Crown will then suggest the removal of the cases to a special commission of the Queen's Bench of Dublin, Killen stated that some start. at Dublin. men were ready to bail him to-day.

Liverpool, Nov. 29.—A meeting attended by 15,000 persons was held opposite St. George's Hall to-day. Parnell fully endorsed the speeches for which the recent arrests in Ireland were made. He strongly denounced the action of the government, which he predicted would utterly fail in its object. The agitation against landlordism, he said, would be continued. Resolutions were moved by Partoned. tinued. Resolutions were moved by Par-nell and carried with enthusiasm, that the arrests are arbitary, unconstitutional and calculated to weaken the confidence of the people of Ireland in the impartiality of the laws; that the Government which squanders the blood and treasure of the peo-ple in unjust wars abroad, while misery ple in unjust wars abroad, while misery and famine are unrelieved at home, stands condemned in the eves of all right-minded, thoughtful men. Finnegan, Obstruction-ists member of Parliament, strongly denounced the Government. There was no disturbance, the authority having taken strong precautions. The committee at a prior meeting issued an appeal to the Irish to maintain a firm but peaceful attitude.

A torchlight procession of 4,000 persons at Kilrush, county of Clare, last night, was witnessed by an immense crowd, who cheered the prisoners and O'Donovan

A great demonstration by unemployed laborers has taken place at Ballin, county of Mayo.

Rome, November 29.—The Tanfulla Rome, November 29.—The Tanfulla trish Bishops asking them to interfere between the people and the Government to avert strife and pacify the people by assuring them that the English Government will promptly examine into the questions which cause the present agitation.

London, November 29.—Daly, the Irish gitator, arrived at Castlebar, county Mayo, and was received with great enthusiasm.

London, Nov. 30.—The gathering at Hyde Park to-day, in response to a call for a demonstration in favor of the Irish agitation, consisted of an immense mob and great enthusiasm was manifested. Speeches were made and resolutions adopted. The speakers at the side meetings used most seditious language. The authorities apparently took no precautions for the maintenance of order. London, Nov. 30 .- The gathering at maintenance of order.

London, Nov. 30.—There were agitation and sympathy meetings all over the county Mayo, Ireland, Sunday. At Ballghaderin Daly was enthusiastically greeted by 10,000 people. Daly said he did not advise non-payment of rents, but non-payment of exorbitant rents. Davitt addressed a crowded meeting at Newcastle-on-Tyne. He spoke temper-

Dublin, November 30.—A great sensa-tion has been caused in Ireland by Glad-stone's reference to the Irish Church. He said the jail in the heart of the metropolic was broken open under circumstances which drew the attention of the English people to the state of Ireland, and when in Manchester a poleeman was murdered in the execution of his duty, at once the whole country became alive to the question of the Irish Church. The Irish Church Act followed and the natural inference among the opponents of land-Church Act to lowed and the natural meference among the opponents of land-lordism in Ireland, perhaps, is that the blowing up of two jails and of a few landlords would pass the Land Act. The agitators feel greatly encouraged by Gladstone's language. They intend to carry stone's language. They intend to carry the movement into England.

The next few weeks will probably wit as he will be convicted. The Crown is determined to inflict another year's imprisonment upon him.

In the trial of Killen to-day, Rea, his counsel, during the temporary absence of the Magistrates, harangued the audience telling them that he had been threatened with imprisonment for contempt, and will probably not go to America in consequence of the arrests and the coming the contempt, and the coming the contempt is the contempt of the magistation.

THE AIMS O'CONNELL HAD IN VIEW.

The Irish Parliament, which expired The Irish Parliament, when expired with the eighteenth century, was not in fact an Irish Parliament. It was a Parliament of the Protestant section of the country's inhabitants. The Penal Laws were then in force, and only those who were prepared to take oaths abjuring the "errors of Popery," and in particular renouncing the miracle of Transubstantiation were permitted to sit in either tion, were permitted to sit in either House, or even to enjoy the electoral franchise. The body which thus held the franchise. The body which thus held the entire legislative power, was, according to the best estimates, only about one-fourth of the population of the island. The condition of affairs remained substantially of the property ways of ter the tially the same for many years after the "Act of Union" was passed. Then came O'Connell, and following his entrance into public life, at a long interval of intense public life, at a long interval of intense excitement, came Catholic emancipation, bringing political freedom to a vast mass of persons who were previously "supposed by the law to have no existence." This was in 1829, and in the succeeding years the agitation for the redressal of Ireland's grievances was continued with increasing boldness and vehemence, until at last the great project of "Reneal of the increasing boldness and vehemence, until at last the great project of "Repeal of the Union" was broached and taken up by the people with a feverish eagerness. "Repeal the Union, restore the Irish Parliament, bring back Grattan's constitution of 1782," exclaimed the advocates of English Alliance. "Do you forget that in the old Parliament none but Protestants could sit, and none but Protestants could vote for them? Do you forget that the qualification for voters was aristocratic, that the franchise was uneven, exeratic, that the franchise was uneven, exclusive, and unjust, and that the country was dotted over with "rotten boroughs!" Do not these Catholic peasants know that a 'Repeal of the Union' would fling in the dust all those newly-gotten political rights that they are now so eagerly using?"
O'Connell knew all that, but he wanted repeal in addition to all that had been gained since the Union. He had a scheme for the reconstruction of the Parliament, with its houses thrown open not only to all creeds, but almost to all male subjects of the He wished to enfranchise agricultural holders of the poorest class, and corresponding grades in the towns to abolish all "rotten" and "presentation" responding grades in the towns to about all "rotten" and "presentation" boroughs, and to build a House of Commons on the most liberal principles. The Protestant and anti-national party replied Protestant and anti-national party replied that a repeal of the union on the these terms would necessarily involve a complete separation of the two countries. The interests and natures of their governing bodies would be too diverse for the two to follow the same lines of policy and avoid a conflict. This O'Connell denied. He thought the link formed by the Crown labels are allocations of the two He thought the link formed by the Crown and the common allegiance of the two peoples thereto would prove an adamantine link. His projects, however, never came to the test either of practice or detailed parliamentary debate. After 1844 the repeal movement declined, and was buried in its grave in 1847.
