

Busy Trenton

OUR daily news letters from this thriving town furnished by The Ontario's special representative.

Trenton, Nov. 14.—The Steamer "Stanstead" of the Hall line, came into port yesterday, and will go into winter quarters. There are already three large boats belonging to this line in port.

Stoke-keepers on Dundas street were seen yesterday, clearing the crossings as that business should not be kept away from their premises. To-day we notice one of the home guards at work.

We would draw the attention of the Chairman of the High School Board to the condition of the lavatories in the school building. Something should be done for the comfort of the pupils. An expert who visited the school this week stated that conditions were deplorable. Comment on the subject has been audible.

Any of our readers who have seen played "When Bunty Pulls the Strings" may look forward to a similar treat on Tuesday evening, 17th inst., when a very strong company will present here for the first time, the sweet and touching play "Annie Laurie." This is the last good production which will be seen here for some time, we believe, owing to a dearth of good road shows.

Mr. C. P. Yaucoz has purchased from the Brunswick-Balke Co. a home combination billiard and pool table. It is constructed with a dining table top, so that when a game is not in progress it can be used as an ordinary table.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Johnson, who have just returned to Trenton, after trying the simple life for a time in Prince Edward county, were given a rousing farewell by their neighbors and fellow church workers.

This is a great town for fine looking batta. At one time to-day five of them, piloted by their proud mothers, completely blocked traffic on Dundas street. Many bigger battas block the corner of Front and Dundas streets, these evenings, who should be thinking of enlisting. Their attention might be drawn to the hand bill asking for recruits.

We have heard that owing to business revival in the iron and steel trade the Canada Iron Mines Concentrator plant will again commence operations. Professor Morrison will speak at the Canadian Club on Friday evening next, Nov. 20th. His subject will be "Great Britain and her treatment of smaller Nationalities." The meetings of this Club are most enjoyable, free as they are from all political and sectional influences, and it is inexplicable that so many prominent men fail to avail themselves of the opportunities to hear the best speakers in Canadian public life. We would suggest that the Club use its influence to resurrect the agitation for a public library.

That "reputations were being made and lost by the present war" was the stated opinion of a well known Ontario newspaperman, published recently in an issue of his paper. This view is undoubtedly correct in so far as taking up military duties is concerned, by many of the very ardent advocates of militarism during peace periods. It is true there are many men upon whom rest responsibilities at home which make it right that they should stay there and carry those responsibilities. But there are thousands of whom that is not true. The Halifax Herald, deploring the slowness of recruiting in Nova Scotia, has the following to say:—

"Thus far, while singing with tremendous enthusiasm 'God Save The King' this 'ancient capital' has contributed recruits from every other part of the world—Englishmen, Irishmen, Scotchmen, Welshmen, Newfoundlanders and Americans are on the list of potential defenders of the Empire; but where are the Nova Scotians? Have we come to the era of 'The Sweet Little Man,' the darling pink teas, the patron of the cheap theatres, of tennis courts of nice places, the 'just too sweet for anything' variety of the human male, admired of debutantes and matinee audiences?"

THE SWEET LITTLE MAN

All brave boys under canvas are sleeping,
All of them pressing to march with the van,
Far from the home where their sweethearts are weeping,
What are YOU waiting for, sweet little man!

You with the terrible warlike moustaches,
Fit for a colonel or chief of a clan,
You with the waist made for sword-belts and sashes,
Where are you shoulder-straps, sweet little man!

Bring HIM the buttonless garment of woman,
Cover his face lest it freckle and tan,
Mustard the Apron-String Guards on the Common,
That is the corps for the sweet little man!

Give him for escort a file of young misses,
Each of them armed with a deadly rattle;
They shall defend him from laughter and hisses,
Aimed by low boys at the sweet little man!

All the fair maidens about him shall cluster,
Pluck the white feathers from bonnet and fan,
Make him a plume like a turkey-wing duster—
That is the crest for the sweet little man!

Have we a nation to save! In the first place
Saving ourselves is the sensible plan,—
Surely the spot where there's shooting's the worst place
Where I can stand, says the sweet little man!

Such was the stuff of the Malakoff-takers
Such were the soldiers that scolded the Fedan,
Truculent housemaids and bloodthirsty Quakers,
Brave not the wrath of the sweet little man!

Yield him the sidewalk, you nursery maidens!
Save out neat! Bridet, and right about! Ann—
Fierce as a shark in a school of menhaden,
See him advancing, the sweet little man!

When the brown soldiers come back from the borders,
How will HE look while his features they scan,
How will he feel when he gets marching orders,
Signed by his lady love, sweet little man!

Now then, nine cheers for the Stay-at-Home Rangers!
Blow the great fish-bone and beat the big pan!
First in the field that is farthest from danger,
"Take your white-feather plume, sweet little man!"

Are you deaf, dumb and blind here? Can we not read the messages coming ing to this port water large for us in letters of flame through the press dispatches?

GEN. HUGHES SAYS YANKEES FLOCK OVER BORDER TO ENLIST

"There is no geographical line separating the United States and Canada where liberty is concerned," said General Sam Hughes, Canadian Minister of Defence, before sailing for New York on the American liner St. Paul. He continued: "Canada has 75,000 more men than she really wants for enlistment in the war. Americans are pouring over the border and demanding that they be permitted to share in the battling in the cause of human liberty and democracy which this war represents. I imagine there are over 1,000 Americans enlisted from South Carolina alone, while I should say that 60,000 men from other states from the borderline to Tennessee have offered services. We had to shut down on them, as we had to do also on Canadians, simply because we had more than enough men, but the spirit of brotherhood shown by the Americans is something we are proud of."

General Hughes said the spirit of the present Canadian contingent was excellent. Every man was happy and anxious to get on the firing line as soon as possible.

General Hughes got a great send-off at Euston Station. The platform was lined with officers of the Canadian contingent. A squad of pipers from the London contingent skirted him out of the station amid deafening cheers.

THURLOW OFFICERS GREAT EXPLOIT

A report has reached here of the success which a Thurlow liquor constable met with in the north country back of Kingston. He is said to have been asked to assist in the rounding up of men who were engaged in illegal liquor trade and that on the day, in question, four men were in the illicit place, and the Thurlow inspector had to take the lead. The two authorities of the place agreed to follow up in the rear of their assistant. The Thurlow man burst in the door, was struck in the face with glass from a bottle or tumbler, but he floored the first man with his stick. The second man attacked the constable but he was good for the assistant and secured him along with the first. The two constables in the rear of the Thurlow man rushed in and seized the two others. In this way the inmates were made prisoners.

TRAMPS WENT INTO SCHOOL

Slept Last Night in Pine Street Edifice

Tramps have been known to be busy seeking out warm spots in Belleville, but the quietest spot where they may slumber unnoticed has just been discovered. It is in Belleville's new public school. Last night some knights of the road forced an entrance into Queen Victoria School on Pine street and slept there. This was discovered this morning and the police were notified.

Clothes hanging on the lines in backyards in the city have been disappearing recently during the night hours. Tramps also are blamed.

"I FELT PROUD OF CANADIANS"

Says Belleville Lady Who Saw Them in London England

A Belleville lady who is at present in London, England, has written to relatives here an interesting letter telling of scenes in the world's metropolis during the war. She tells the following story of a visit to a pensioners' service, of Canadian volunteers in London, and of night scenes in that great city:—

"This morning I had rather an unquiet experience. I set out to go to Westminster Hall, a Wesleyan institution not far from the Abbey, and passing Chelsea Hospital, I was given into a large building in the grounds, so I thought I could follow, as it was rather late to go any farther. It was a church, all right but filled with the old pensioners. I dropped into a seat because some ladies near the door but the old sexton very perceptibly motioned me to follow him, and he marched me slowly up to the top and made take a seat among the old men on a bench where they had put their coats. I was surprised. Fortunately there were two or three other women behind me who had to do the same, and there we sat until another person came up and opening the door of a high seat, some ladies went in. I was in a decent seat. Nearly all of the visitors and some of the officers and wives were in these pews ranged against the wall and the seats in the body of the church were filled with the old men dressed in blue overcoats with brass buttons. Lots of them had medals on their breasts and some were good looking, but some were very old. It was a very nice service and the chaplain, a splendid fellow himself, but a good lively earnest speaker.

I went through the court yard and some of the buildings after and it is the cleanest place of the kind I ever was in. What a number of such places of various kinds London has to be sure. Every time I get out I am more and more amazed at the magnitude of the city and the splendour of its public buildings, indeed of all its buildings, public and private.

"There are a good many of the Canadians passing about the city now. I suppose they come up from Salisbury Plain where they are encamped. I look at the shoulder and see Canada on the little brass plate. Of course I don't need to see that if I hear them speak. They look well, all that I have seen, and are better dressed than many of the others. They have good heavy overcoats, too. There were three or four of them in the abbey one day last week, and I happened to be near the door putting on my sandals as they stood there listening to the guide who has been taking them around and was giving them some parting advice. They listened very courteously to his harangue, (these guides put me out of all patience) and then each of them shook hands with him and thanked him for his attentions, the first time I imagine anyone had ever done so. They were all nice bright looking young fellows, and I felt proud of them. And then one day in the crowd one of them knocked against me, but to hear his quick 'I beg your pardon,' was worth a harder knock. Other people here take it as a matter of course that you are to be knocked and don't trouble to apologise.

"The weather is still fine and mild though there was some rain two or

ST VITUS DANCE

Another Severe Case Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

St. Vitus dance is a common form of nervous trouble, which affects not only young children but men and women as well. The only cure lies in plenty of pure blood, because good blood is the life force of the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure the most severe cases of St. Vitus' dance, because they actually make the rich, red blood that feeds and restores the starving, shattered nerves. This has been proved in hundreds of cases, among them that of Mrs. John Duncan, London, Ont., who says: "About a year ago I found myself becoming very nervous. At the outset I did not pay much attention to it as I thought the trouble would pass away. In this I was disappointed, for I soon found myself rapidly growing worse. My right arm and leg began to jerk and twitch all the time, even when I was in bed, and I found great difficulty in walking or doing any work. Finally the trouble affected my speech and it was with difficulty I made myself understood. Of course I was doctoring for the trouble, but was not being helped, and finally the doctor wanted me to go to the hospital for treatment. This I did not care to do, and it was at this stage that I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time I had used four boxes I felt much better, and at a short time longer I was quite well and strong. My neighbors look upon my cure as quite wonderful, and indeed I think it is, and shall always be grateful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SECOND CONTINGENT: HOW CONSTITUTED

It Will Consist of 15,272 Officers and Men, 4,765 Horses and 74 Guns

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—The muster-roll of the second Canadian contingent which is now being mobilized will be 15,272 officers and men, with 4,765 horses, 58 field and heavy guns, and 16 machine guns.

The two infantry brigades will total 8,844 officers and men, while the nine field batteries with ammunition columns, etc., will have 3,319 men, 317 horses and 58 guns. In the two field companies of engineers there will be 474 men and 160 horses. In the cyclist corps 240 men and in the signal company 171 men and 59 horses. The Army Service Corps of four companies will consist of 51 men and 376 horses. The three field ambulances and the other medical units will total 729 men, with 178 horses. These units are now all being mobilized at divisional centres.

In addition to these there will be mobilized with the contingent a little later 484 men for the divisional ammunition park, 265 for supply column, 288 men and 355 horses for reserve park 92 men for field bakery, 27 men for field butchery, 61 men for rail-way supply detachment and 28 men for depot units of supply.

Only one of the surplus of several hundred officers who went with the first contingent to Salisbury has so far been appointed to the second contingent being raised here. The rest are all remaining in England, taking a hard training course. It is probable they will all find places with the British volunteer army now in training which, like the Canadian force, is badly in need of qualified officers.

Leading citizens of Trenton, including the Mayor and Chief of Police, testified to Cronkwright's good character. He was acquitted. W. F. Kerr appeared for the crown. T. F. Hall defended Cronkwright.
